SENATORS OPPOSE REDUCTION IN TAXES ASKED BY COOLIDGE

Smoot and Some Other Leaders Will Fight Program Which Mellon Is Preparing.

SEE DANGER FROM RADICALS

If Revision Is Necessary They Would Give Up $200,000,000 From Incomes Under $10,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The general tax reduction program being prepared by Secretary Mellon with the approval of President Coolidge will be opposed by some of the leading Republicans of the Senate, among them Senator Smoot, who will be Chairman of the Finance Committee in the next Congress. Another influential Republican opposed to the reduction program is Senator Curtis of Kansas.

Senator Smoot had a conference with President Coolidge on the subject today. When he left the White House he expressed his opposition to general tax reduction, but explained that if a reduction program were decided upon he would favor the exemption from all taxation of incomes of $3,000 or less and reductions of the higher taxes on large incomes. His recommendations, should there be tax reduction legislation, would provide for scaling off $100,000,000 in revenue on incomes of from $3,000 to $6,000 and $100,000,000 on incomes from $6,000 to $10,000, the elimination of remaining nuisance taxes and the elimination of certain special taxes which now bring about $75,000,000 in revenue.

Senator Smoot said he had no doubt Secretary Mellon will go ahead with his program for a general tax reduction, including a reduction of the present surtaxes from a maximum of 50 to 20 per cent. He declared the Republican leaders of the House and Senate would do everything in their power to prevent the President from transmitting the recommendations of Secretary Mellon to Congress as part of the Administration's program.

"I have no doubt," said Senator Smoot, "that we could get along with $500,000,000 a year less income for the Federal Government, provided Congress does not vote a soldiers' bonus or load the country down with some other big expenditure. Of course, there is a real reason why such a saving should be passed along to the taxpayers. They really ought to have their tax burden lightened, but with the situation now existing in Congress it is certain that any attempt to change the tax laws would open a veritable Pandora's box of troubles."

Senator Smoot admitted that with the group of independents in the House and Senate, led by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, any attempt on the part of Administration Senators and Representatives to lower the surtaxes in conformity with the recommendations of Secretary Mellon would be met by a counter-drive for elevation of the surtaxes to their wartime high level of 73 per cent. This undoubtedly, he said, would be coupled with a movement for restoration of the excess profits taxes.

Co-operation of the independent Republicans with the Democrats could upset any tax reduction program that the Administration might attempt to put through, and the Administration Republicans in Congress have informed the President that new taxes might be more objectionable from a political standpoint than those now in effect.

Senator Smoot said he will not urge his sales tax or any other tax change unless a soldiers' bonus law is put through, but if the Administration should force consideration of new revenue bills in the next session of Congress, he will recommend a reduction of the lower income tax rates and the exemption of incomes of $3,000 or less. This would mean tax reductions amounting to $100,000,000 to those of small incomes and $100,000,000 reduction to those in the next higher brackets, and would make a cut in the higher brackets of the surtaxes, though perhaps not so great a slash as Secretary Mellon favors.

Senator Smoot is in disagreement with Secretary Mellon over the contention of the latter that maximum surtaxes of 25 per cent. on the larger incomes would yield as much money as the present 50 per cent. surtaxes by encouraging the taking of money out of tax-exempt securities and putting it into industry.

Senator Smoot took luncheon today with Secretary Hoover. They discussed Government fiscal affairs. Mr. Hoover is making an exhaustive study of various means suggested of getting large fortunes out of tax-exempt securities and into industrial enterprises.

Plans for Eight and Nine Story Buildings Create a Sensation.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Paris is to have skyscrapers. They are eight and nine story buildings, which are to be constructed in the Rue des Vignes and the Rue des Marronniers. They will be used for apartments.

When plans for these enormous structures were filed in the Hôtel de Ville today they created a furor. Despite the modern tendency to build upward and the congestion of the French capital, Parisians at present are building for the most part two-story dwellings.

London Pauper Takes to Grave Formula for Cheaper Dyes

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A secret formula for making dye by a method which is said to have required only a fraction of the usual cost has been carried to the grave by a London pauper. The pauper, Robert Culver, learned the secret from a German relative many years ago and brought it to England, where he organized a company for manufacturing dyes.

The company failed through dishonesty of some of the officials and Culver was reduced to poverty. He continued to live in the hope that better fortune would one day come his way and that he would be able again to manufacture the dye. He was ill last Winter and taken to a poorhouse, where he died recently without telling any one of the secret process.

At the time of the war his German relatives died or were killed, and this left him in sole possession of the formula.

FRANK OF CONGRESS USED IN STOCK DEAL

Letters soliciting investments in the stock of the Lever Lock Rim Company, of which Representative M. O. McLaughlin of Nebraska is understood to be President, have been sent to Republicans on the official stationery of Congressman McLaughlin and under the postal frank which, under the law, may be used for official business only. A copy of the letter was sent to newspapers by a Republican of standing in New York, who characterized it as "one of the most extraordinary documents I have ever received."

In reply to a telegram sent to him, Mr. McLaughlin last night telegraphed the following explanation of the use of his frank:

THE NEW YORK TIMES:

Answering your message, I have not signed any letters that may have been mailed under my frank by the Lever Lock Rim Company, nor have I been consulted about the construction of such a letter. I have been in Nebraska most of the Summer. Some clerk in the Lever Lock office must have done this by mistake. I stamp all my personal and business mail, and take great care that only Government business is franked. My secretary, who has been here since Congress adjourned, also is very careful in this regard and is not responsible for this unpardonable blunder.

I have wired the Lever Lock Rim Company to immediately pay the Post Office Department for any and all letters any one in the office may have mailed in my envelopes and never to let such a thing occur again.

M. O. McLAUGHLIN.

Before Mr. McLaughlin's message was received F. A. Mennillo, general manager of the Lever Lock Rim Company, of which Mr. McLaughlin is President, had made a similar explanation, assuming all the blame.

Mr. Mennillo said that he and Mr. McLaughlin had invested more than $100,000 in developing their patent and, now having reached the stage of marketing the device covered by it, found a need for a limited amount of additional capital. Because the appeal was limited, Mr. Mennillo said, it was decided to make it only to "brother Republicans" of Congressman McLaughlin. He, Mennillo, then prepared and sent out the letter without the knowledge of the Congressman, the explanation continued. It chanced that Mr. McLaughlin kept a supply of Congressional stationery and franked envelopes in the New York office of the concern, in order that he might transact official business when in this city. A stenographer used about 150 of these envelopes in sending out the letters, Mr. Mennillo said. About fifty of them, he added, were sent to him, Mennillo, in Washington in order that he might check them against a list of prospects. He did so check them and then himself mailed them "without ever stopping to think" of the impropriety and illegality of such use of official Congressional stationery and postal franks.

Mr. Mennillo also declared that he had telegraphed to Mr. McLaughlin at his Nebraska home, assuming full responsibility for the incident.

Text of the Letter.

M. O. McLaughlin, 4th Dist. Nebraska, member Committee on Agriculture.

HIGHER EXPENSES PLEADED

They Want Protection Against the Hold-Over Tenant Who Moves Out at Will.

Samuel McCune Lindsay, Professor of Social Legislation at Columbia University, qualifying as an expert authority on economics, at the request of the Real Estate Board of New York, placed before the State Commission on Housing and Regional Planning yesterday statistics to prove his assertion that in the last three years and nine months accommodations for nearly 500,000 persons had been made available in this city. During the same period the population increased, he estimated, 300,000, and this left housing accommodations for nearly 200,000 more persons than the increase in population required.

Under the cross-examination of State Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag, who is a member of the Housing Commission, Professor Lindsay admitted that none of the additional construction was of any benefit to the average wage earner who could pay up to $10 or $12 a room. At first, under the direct examination of John Stoddard, Chairman of the Law Committee of the Real Estate Board, Professor Lindsay declared that the housing shortage of 1920 was a "state of mind," a "mass phenomenon," and that there had been no evidence at the time of an acute physical shortage.

On cross-examination Mr. Lindsay admitted that an emergency existed in 1920 and further that, as it applies to the average wage earner, practically the same emergency exists today. He said that there were old law tenements admittedly undesirable which could be had until the economic condition improved. In this case he held it was rather a part of the poverty problem and not the rent problem and was of the opinion that State interference to the extent of housing for the poor might be justified. On cross-examination again the witness further admitted that the number of old law apartments was practically nil.

Professor Lindsay did not believe that an emergency existed as to high class apartments renting for more than $20 or $25 a room and he said that the emergency rent laws need not continue to apply to such apartments. He suggested a classification of apartments "according to the nature and character of the emergency and the occupancy."

His Solution of the Problem.

There was a doubt as to whether a person able to afford $12 or $15 a room would be benefited more in the long run by the protection of rent laws or by leaving his class of housing "open to free competition," the witness ventured. He admitted that the immediate effect of removing rent law restrictions would be for selfish landlords to increase prices, but he was of the opinion that if the community found that owners might make as high as 50 per cent. on their investment that competition would follow, buildings would go up rapidly and a surplus would be built quickly.

As for the need of immediate protection, tenants unable to protect themselves through tenants' associations or by other means would have to be afforded the protection of the State. In support of his suggestion that the rent laws should not apply to high-priced apartments, Professor Lindsay asserted that lately there has been a steadily growing power of bargaining between the tenants in those apartments and their landlords.

It is possible that rents may go higher than they are now and yet not go beyond a reasonable economic rent, maintained the witness.

"That will leave a large number of people who cannot pay and who will have to do without the things they ought to have or get out of the community altogether," he added. "Therefore there is a considerable class for whom it seems to me some government aid for housing of some kind, if not the building of houses or tax exemption, the organization or the planning of cheap homes should be instituted through Government authority."

Orders 17 Students Deported From College at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 17.—Seventeen students from several foreign countries at the American International College here have been ordered deported by the Federal immigration authorities, it was announced today by Chancellor C. S. McGown, because the students entered the country after the quota of immigrants from their countries had been filled.

It was expected that they would be allowed to remain under the status of students, and Dr. McGown is making strong efforts to stave off deportation. The students must appear in New York within a week under present orders.

HULBERT DEMANDS A GASOLINE INQUIRY

ACCUSES STANDARD OIL

Cuts of 2 to 3 Cents Announced by Standard Companies of New York and New Jersey.

Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert made formal demand yesterday for investigations by Congress and the New York State Attorney General into the price of gasoline in this State. The demand was contained in letters to United States Senator Royal S. Copeland and Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Mr. Hulbert argued that the low prices elsewhere in the United States and the large surplus of gasoline in California made it possible to ship to New York gasoline that could be sold at lower prices. He assailed in particular the Standard Oil Company. While these letters were being written, the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey were announcing price reductions to meet previous cuts by the Gulf Oil Company. The reduction was said to be due to a surplus of the product.

The letter to Senator Copeland said:

"Dear Senator:

"I enclose a copy of a letter which I have this day forwarded to Governor Smith, asking him, through the Attorney General of New York, to make an investigation into what seems to me to be a cold-blooded combination of oil refiners and distributors to mulct the people of New York.

"It occurs to me that as Acting Mayor of New York I might also very properly bring the subject to you as a member of the United States Senate, representing New York State.

"Practically all of my life I have been a witness to the administration and development of large undertakings. It has been with great interest and pride that I have viewed the tremendous development of American business, but it would seem that at least in the oil business American business energy and imagination has brought into being a veritable Frankenstein.

New York Greatest Gasoline Market.

"The great State of New York, with its 1,067,742 registered automobiles and trucks, a number almost as great as those of all Europe, Asia, Africa and South America combined (and thus the greatest gasoline market in the world), today stands helpless to protect itself from the extortion practiced by those to whom it must look for its gasoline supply. California has its surplus crude oil and its surplus gasoline. New York needs both.

"That commercial intercourse between States be made practical the American people built and paid for the Panama Canal. They certainly did not build the canal as a contribution toward the continuation of the swollen profits of the Standard Oil Company.

"Congress but a few years ago passed legislation known as the Jones bill, whereby certain tax exemptions might, by application to American-built vessels, encourage the building and operation of American ships. Congress also appropriated money for the building of a large fleet of American tank ships.

"No oil company has a right to hope to benefit by the operation of the Jones bill and also derive the profits from chartering Government-owned tankships at cost, if not at an actual loss to the Government, and at the same time use these facilities to maintain a false and excessively high-priced market for gasoline sold to the citizens of the State of New York.

Calls Prices Extortionate.

"Here we have a clear case of the public paying extortionate prices, not because of monopoly of production nor transportation, but of refining and marketing facilities. The filling station retail price of 21 cents in New York as against a current wholesale price of 9 cents per gallon, is not justifiable. With an excess of 280,000 barrels of daily refining capacity in New York harbor, New York should enjoy the lowest price for gasoline, and not the highest.

"From such investigation as I have given, I would assume that the average automobile in New York uses about ten gallons a week. The price is clearly 3 cents a gallon too high. This means 30 cents a week taxed against every automobile in the State. At periods during the last twenty weeks, the price of gasoline has been as high as 6 cents per gallon. This would make a total in excess of $10,000,000 that the consumers of gasoline have

LLOYD GEORGE ILL, BUT RALLIES IN TIME FOR CHICAGO SPEECH

PICTURES ILLS OF EUROPE

He Declares They Are Caused Largely by Failure to Arrive at Some Settlement.

GIVES THE BRITISH STAND

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—David Lloyd George, after canceling most of his engagements here today to remain in the seclusion of his rooms because of a slight fever and a week-old cold, had sufficiently recovered tonight to address a huge meeting in the International Amphitheatre at the Stock Yards. The former Premier chose reparations as his subject, declaring it the cause of most of Europe's ills.

The great amphitheatre was crowded to the doors. It was estimated that at least 12,000 persons were seated in the auditorium, while a much larger audience throughout the Middle West heard the speech broadcast by radio. They gave the distinguished British statesman a tremendous welcome, cheering him for some minutes.

Mr. Lloyd George declared that the British attitude on reparations, greatly at variance with that of France, was based on their desire to make world peace secure and to bring about the financial betterment, which he declared was essential in the near future if civilization were to be saved.

Scores Poincare Policy.

Without mentioning the name of Premier Poincaré of France Mr. Lloyd George made many pointed allusions which his responsive audience appeared thoroughly to understand and appreciate.

"Vengeance is justice without wisdom," was one such utterance. "Violent methods defeat their own end," was another.

Germany, Mr. Lloyd George said, should pay to the limit of her capacity. But she must be afforded an opportunity for existence and to restore her shattered finances, if the time when that can be done was not already past.

Mr. Lloyd George once more endorsed the Hughes proposal of a commission of experts to fix the amount of the reparations Germany can pay, declaring that once that is done the Allies could get together in seeing that Germany paid the amount in full.

The amphitheatre was intended as a meeting place for the population of the stock yards district. But it was not a stock yards audience. Long lines of motor cars, with men and women in evening attire, converged on the amphitheatre for an hour before the meeting began.

Irish Demonstration Feared.

The police had some nervous moments before the distinguished visitor was safely in his seat on the rostrum. The last part of his journey by motor car to the hall led through turbulent districts which frequently give the police trouble. During the afternoon there were indications that the "Ragen Colts," an organization of sympathizers with the Irish Republic, were preparing to stage a hostile demonstration in the streets. Without loss of time the police threw a cordon of 250 men about the headquarters of the "Ragen Colts," while mounted men were rushed to the district in preparation for trouble. There were more than a thousand mounted policemen on guard about the hall, and the big crowds that gathered to get a glimpse of the British statesman for many blocks from the meeting hall were held in check by almost continuous lines of police, which closely guarded all avenues leading to the arena.

Charles G. Dawes, who was President Harding's Director of the Budget, presided at the meeting.

Lloyd George's Speech.

Mr. Lloyd George's speech in part reads:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: It fills me with despair when I see such a gigantic gathering and when I realize that it is quite impossible that my feeble voice should extend over such a vast gathering."

A voice:

"We hear you fine."

Mr. Lloyd George:

"I thank you for that encouraging

COLOGNE, Oct. 17.—There is good authority for stating that General de Metz, commanding the French troops in the Palatinate, has revealed the French intention of occupying immediately the whole Palatinate should a monarchy be established in Bavaria. Mannheim, Darmstadt, Heidelberg and perhaps Frankfort would be included in the territory to be seized.

Mannheim Castle, which was outside the occupied territory until the French seized it a few weeks ago, is being renovated, it is thought, with a view to making it the seat of the Government for a separate Palatinate State.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Berlin is uncannily quiet tonight and has been all day. A late report from Mannheim says rioting was resumed there this afternoon. The police clashed with the crowds of unemployed with two known dead and the wounded still coming in.

In Gelsenkirchen, near Essen, Communists stormed the executive office building of a coal mine. Several were wounded, but no dead are reported.

For the first time rioting was reported today from Schleswig-Holstein. In Heide, Communists attempted to free a prisoner, clashed with the police and failed.

Reparation Commission Decides Nothing Can Be Done Till Ruhr Problem Is Settled.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Premier Poincaré again today rejected the German efforts to enter into negotiations with the French and Belgians on resumption of work in the Ruhr.

The greatest official secrecy surrounds the interview this morning between the French Premier and Dr. von Hoesch, the German Chargé d'Affaires in Paris, but it is understood that the German diplomat told M. Poincaré three things:

First—The German Government had given order that the Ruhr and Rhineland railway men should return to work.

Second—The German Government was unable to pay for reparation deliveries in kind because it had no money.

Third—The German Government again proposed that the German and occupying authorities confer on a solution of the Ruhr puzzle.

Dr. von Hoesch handed to M. Poincaré two memoranda, one the German reasons for abolishing the coal tax and the other an exposition of Germany's inability to finance reparations in kind.

M. Poincaré replied to the German diplomat that he took note of the first declaration with respect. Of the second declaration he said that if Berlin could not now finance deliveries in kind it was Berlin's own fault, due to the stupid Ruhr fight. As to the coal tax, he declared that regardless of what Berlin did it would be maintained in the Ruhr, and that in view of the second declaration he regarded the third declaration as useless.

The Premier repeated that France regarded resumption of deliveries in kind as a test of German cessation of resistance. He advised the German Government to get together with the Ruhr industrialists to meet the conditions on which the French and Belgians would insist in the Ruhr, and warned the Germans that no general reparation negotiations could be begun until the Ruhr problem was in way of settlement.

It is reported that the German spokesman made no declaration on general reparations, but limited his observations to the situation in the Ruhr, which has become rather critical since Berlin hampered the Franco-Belgian plans for direct accords with the Ruhr industrialists by notifying them that the Ger-

ON THE SAXON-BAVARIAN BORDER, Oct. 16.—This Mason and Dixon color line of Germany is drawn with brutal vividness between Red Saxony and Blue Bavaria. On the one hand are the forces of communism and republicanism and on the other hand those of monarchism and militarism, each claiming to be all for maintaining law and order and each on edge just waiting for the other side to start something so as to have a pretext for wading in and mopping up. This is the dangerous situation that seems to be forming Germany's next storm centre in Red Saxony and Thuringia.

Arriving at Dresden, the capital of "Soviet Saxony," THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent asked a decent-looking young fellow of about 25 the way to a hotel.

"I will show you the way," he answered politely in his indescribable Saxon dialect and started to accompany the correspondent, who vainly protested that he did not want the young man to waste his time.

"When you have only three days' work a week you can be liberal with your time," he explained.

"Is work so scarce?" he was asked.

"Almost as scarce as food," he replied.

It was still afternoon, but already the magnificent shops on Dresden's Fifth Avenue and Broadway, the Prager and See Strasse, began to shut up shop.

"Why so early?" the correspondent queried.

"Because they are afraid of plundering," came the answer. "You see, there are so many hungry people in the streets, so many unemployed. The plundering has not been so bad as the shopkeepers feared, because, much as the people dread hunger they fear even more the 'knouts' of the police and soldiers."

The Knout a Recent Innovation.

Armament with knouts is a relatively recent development in Germany. The Saxon youth explained the knout psychology as follows:

"The crowds never cared very much for the rifles. They were always sure the police would use them only in case of the utmost necessity, and even then shoot with blank cartridges first, or else fire over the people's heads. But since the mounted police have been equipped with heavy knouts over two meters long they run on sight, having had experience with those whips, which cut unmercifully, laying the flesh open every time. It is funny, but the police employed by the Socialist-Communist Government use these knouts on people, and very liberally, too."

Here is a picture typical of Saxony. A large crowd had assembled in front of the old State Assembly building near Dresden's former royal palace. An old-looking, long-bearded prophet of some new fanatical political sect that makes mere Communists look like conservative standpatters was haranguing the people in the Saxon idiom.

"For sixty laborers your so-called Socialist and Communist Government employs sixty officials," he was saying. "They cannot give you bread. But you can get it for yourselves by plundering those rich stores on the Prager Strasse."

He had barely finished this sentence when suddenly everybody ran and in a

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The Government of the Reich, according to confidential information given to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, plans vigorous action against Soviet Saxony tomorrow. Twenty-five battalions of the Reichswehr are said to be held in readiness for an advance at noon.

The Government's sudden resolution to make this show of force was prompted by receipt of information that Bavaria was on the eve of invading Saxony and Chancellor Stresemann decided to forestall this move, realizing the necessity of maintaining at all costs the Central Government's prestige.

There is almost nation-wide nervousness over conditions in Saxony and Thuringia, which is also Red, and where at Weimar, the capital, the new Socialist-Communist Government today obtained in the Landtag a vote of confidence by the small majority of 25 to 24.

Peremptory Demand on Saxony.

An ultimatum was delivered at noon today in Dresden to the Radical Minister-President of Saxony, Dr. Zeigner, and the Socialist-Communist Government by General Mueller, commander of the Reichswehr District No. IV, which includes Saxony, and Dr. Zeigner made the following statement in the Saxon Parliament this afternoon:

"Reichswehr Commandant General Mueller took offense at a speech made by Finance Minister Boettcher in Leipsic. Thereupon General Mueller today sent a letter to the Saxon Government concluding:

"'I have till now in all my measures assumed as postulate the cooperation of the Saxon Government. I request that by 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, the 18th, I receive an unequivocal statement from the Saxon Government whether the Saxon Ministry as a whole identifies itself and is in agreement with the letter and spirit of Finance Minister Boettcher, or whether the Saxon Government is willed to act against the utterances of Finance Minister Boettcher and according to my instructions.

"'In this latter case I must demand that the Saxon Government make public in the press its statement to me, and that the Saxon Government advise me what measures it purposes to take to prevent a repetition of Minister Boettcher's action.'

"In the speech to which exception is taken Herr Boettcher said that should it come to a showdown against a counter-revolution's political and economic attacks the proletariat would have to stand a baptism of fire.]

"Obviously an attempt is being made to strangle the Left half of this Parliament. And you, gentlemen [pointing to the Democratic members], your turn will come next to be strangled by the military."

With this ultimatum letter, General Mueller, for all practical purposes, is considered to have dropped the last veil from the military dictatorship.

According to a telegram from Munich, the Bavarian Volkspartei met last night. All the Cabinet Ministers, including Prime Minister von Knilling, being members of the Volkspartei, attended, so that the meeting had special significance. A Reichstag member, Rauch, demanded that the present Federal Government be at once displaced by an energetic Nationalist dictatorship.

The Chairman of the meeting, Professor Lang, stated that the Bavarian Volkspartei had no confidence in Chancellor Stresemann, because his policy was to oppose the nationalist Bavarian Government, which was sheer madness. If North Germany was run by Bolsheviki, it was high time that South Germany took matters in her own hands and brought about a clearing up of the German federation.

It is generally believed here that Bavaria is contemplating some high-handed action that would make her master of the political situation in Germany.

Nearly all the afternoon papers express the gravest apprehension concerning the developments in Saxony, Thuringia and Bavaria. The Tageblatt says:

"The federal authority in Bavaria is completely paralyzed by von Kahr's dictatorship. General Lassow has not obeyed War Minister von Gessler's order to suppress the monarchist organ Volksfischer Beobachter, and when the Commander-in-Chief, General von Seeckt, demanded Lassow's resignation the Bavarian Government said it would never tolerate the dismissal of Lassow, who is persona grata in Munich. Here is a glaring case of the Bavarian dictator undermining the federal authority. What will the Central Government do

Expedition Will Seek Forked Tail Monkeys And Mystery Tribes of Remotest China

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Kweichow, where the mysterious non-Chinese tribes of China live and where the famed forked-tail monkey is said to dwell, is to be explored by the National Geographic Society.

Frederick R. Wulsin has been designated to proceed to Peking to organize a staff for a trip into the remotest part of China. The province to be explored is about the size of Missouri and has a population of 8,000,000. It is as inaccessible as Thibet.

One of the few visitors who has penetrated only the fringe of Kweichow has said he saw there types resembling the Ghurka, the South Sea Islander, the American Indian, the East Indian and the negro. About 3,500,000 in the province have survived Chinese absorption. Many of the strongholds have never been visited by white men, and whole tribes do not know that the World War was fought.

Travelers have reported that some of the tribes thrash grain on the rooftops, as in the Holy Land, that others have great "prayer flags" flying on fortified castles and that quarrels are settled on horseback with blunderbuses, broadswords and bags of stones as weapons.

The monkey the expedition will seek is the rhinopithecus brelichi, of which the only specimen known is a skin. There has been speculation, the Geographic Society says, regarding the possibility of this species being an anima... scribed in a famous passage of Chinese literature as follows:

"Its nose is turned upward, and the tail very long and forked at the end; whenever it raises the animal thrusts the forks into its nose. It goes in herds and lives in friendship; when one dies the rest accompany it to burial. Its activity is so great that it runs its head against the trees; its fur is soft and gray and the face black."

Kweichow lies on the watershed between the Yangtze and Si-kiang Rivers.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—"I felt like a pauper in the United States," said Sir Alfred Mond today as he described to The Evening News his recent trip to America.

"Wherever I went in the States," he said, "it seemed to be impressed on me that I was a poor man. The country is overwhelmed with money. I saw most of the financiers, bankers and leading industrialists, and they regarded any one with less than £10,000,000 as very small beer and would hardly look at him.

"They gather in money apparently quite easily by successful gambles in stocks and in the flotation of mining and other industrial interests. They deal with things on a colossal scale.

"The standard of living is, of course, very high. I should say that for the working man it is three times, certainly twice, as high as for the same men here. Where a man in England uses a bicycle an American has a motor car. That, I think, expresses the difference in a nutshell."

Sir Alfred said that he had been informed that wealthy men escaped 60 per cent. income tax and super-tax by investing huge sums in tax-free municipal bonds. Talking about prohibition he said:

"In New York it is practically nonexistent, but I was told, and I believe it, that bootlegging is now the second most successful industry in the country. It probably has something to do with the organized bodies of gunmen now very numerous in New York. They held up the Ritz-Carlton while I was there and they levy a great tribute on the bootleggers."

about this revolt? What is the Bavarian Government up to?"

The new Socialist-Communist Government in Thuringia includes the newly appointed State Secretaries, Professor Korsch, Minister of Justice, and Herr Tenner, Minister of Economics, both of whom are Communists.

As in Saxony, the coalition is due not to any love of the Socialists for the Communists, but because, owing to the political developments in Bavaria, both parties feel called upon to unite in defense of the republic against the Bavarian monarchists. For this reason both parties made sacrifices and compromised.

Prime Minister Fröilich, addressing the Assembly, said that if the Bavarian monarchists should try to force their way through Thuringia they would find the Socialists and Communists fighting side by side, and he hoped the Democrats and Centrists would join their ranks.

The Socialist Party resolved at a meeting today to ask the Federal Government to raise martial law throughout Germany.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The German Cabinet, in an extraordinary session tonight to discuss the situation in Saxony and Thuringia, decided to give full powers to the military commanders to see that the orders of the Nationalists are carried through.

No half-way measures will be tolerated, but the severest action will be taken to compel Saxony and Thuringia to respect the National Government.

The Saxon proletarian armed bands will be dissolved, if necessary, by force, while Thuringia will be prevented from carrying through its threat to organize a republican guard.

Berlin Defied by Dresden.

BERLIN, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—Events in Saxony are fast drifting to a point where the Berlin Government will be forced to call for a showdown with Dr. Zeigner's communistic-socialistic Ministry, which ne is daily becoming bolder in its defiance of the Central Government's authority, as decreed in the existing state of emergency and asserted by General von Mueller, the military commander in the fourth army precinct.

The position of President Ebert and Chancellor Stresemann in the present situation has been measurably complicated through today's action by the United Socialist Party's governing board, which demands immediate abrogation of the existing state of siege, in order that "the legal relations between individual Federal States and the Central Government shall be restored."

This action presages an early rift in Dr. Stresemann's laboriously reassembled Coalition Government, in that it is believed the Socialists will withdraw from the Government under fire from the party's radical Left Wing, which is openly espousing Zeigner's regime and rapidly emancipating itself from the influence of the party's moderate wing.

For the present Dresden is the storm centre of a battle going on between Premier Zeigner and General von Mueller, the latter demanding peremptory assurance from the Saxon Government that his edict will not be interfered with or sabotaged.

Realizing that it cannot yield to Saxony without prejudicing its prestige with Bavaria, the German Government is reported as determined to maintain order throughout the Saxon industrial districts, where rioting and terrorism are being freely indulged in by radical elements who are blackmailing the industrialists into money levies and grossly usurping authority in the big plants.

Delegates of leading industrialists have been arriving in Berlin for the last few days to protest against continuation of the intolerable conditions; they threaten to shut down or dispose of their plants unless they are assured of protection by the Central Government.

Armed intervention by Bavaria also is viewed as an eventuality, as much of the rioting now going on in the Saxon industrial sector is occurring close to the Bavarian frontier. The Berlin Government is prepared to dispatch additional troop contingents to Saxony if the situation demands reinforcements for General von Mueller, who is determined to prevent the formation of proletariat centuries.

With two notorious Communists, like Heinrich Brandler and Herr Boettcher, occupying the posts of Director of the Chancellery and Minister of Finance, respectively, Saxon industrialists and financial leaders declare that the State's economics are wholly exposed to the arbitrary dictates of outspoken Bolsheviki, whose presence in Zeigner's Cabinet suffices to nullify the less radical attitude of the Socialists toward industry and finance.

Thuringian Cabinet Platform.

The new Socialist-Communist Government in Thuringia at today's meeting of the Diet made a statement of its policy, according to a dispatch from Weimar. It was declared that the Thuringian Government was a Government of Republican Defense and that it was determined to fight against the demands of "down with Marxism."

The statement added that the Government stood for maintenance of the Republican Reich and the establishment of a firm foundation for a Labor Government in Germany as a bulwark against the setting up of a capitalistic dictatorship. Its policy would be the actual seizure of property; the introducing of a trading monopoly on the lines of the Russian Soviet; effective control of production; maintenance of the eight-hour day, and extension of the powers of the Workmen's Councils, trades unions and other labor organizations.

The statement declared that the Government especially relied upon the workmen's organizations both as a protective measure and for fighting.

Brandler Late Ally of Hoels.

DRESDEN, Saxony, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—Among the notorious Communists to whom responsible positions have been given in the new Saxon Socialist-Communist Government is Heinrich Brandler, late ally and chief aid of Max Hoels, Saxony's "Robin Hood," who is now serving a long term in prison.

Hoels's looting and pillaging expeditions, in the course of which he held up banks and set fire to the dwellings of wealthy industrialists, formed one of the picturesque features of Saxony's Red regime three years ago. Herr Brandler, who now is installed as chief of the Saxon Chancellery, received a five-year term for complicity in Hoels's raids, but never served his sentence.

The Socialist-Communist Government is functioning in its own particular way without giving much consideration to the Reich Government at Berlin. General von Mueller, commander of the Reichswehr in Saxony, recently issued orders prohibiting the congress of Saxon proletarian defensive organizations, but despite such orders, a meeting of these organizations has been held.

Strong measures by the Central Government, it is understood, are contemplated, but for the present the army authorities intend only to utilize Saxon police, who, accordingly, have been placed under control of the military commander, with the warning that disobedience will entail dismissal from the service.

Dr. Zeigner, the Premier, has demanded in the Diet instant action against Bavaria if the state of emergency was not to be made "a ridiculous farce." He also protested against placing the police under the military.

Thuringia has now a Socialist-Communist Government, two Communists having entered the Ministry—Professor Korsch of Jena University, as Minister of Justice, and another as Minister of Economics.

PITS TROOPS AGAINST POLICE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Premier Poincaré has, it is understood, sent orders to General Degoutte at Düsseldorf that he take measures to put an end to brutalities of the German police who on several occasions recently have used arms against the unemployed on the smallest pretext.

Up to now the instructions to the French soldiers had been to refrain from all interference in disputes or disturbances which might arise between the local population and the German police. But the Premier, it is understood, has now decided that useless violence must be prevented, even if it entails taking measures by French troops against the German police.

SOVIET PREPARING FOR GERMAN RISING

ZINOVIEF HAILS REVOLT

Calls It "Refreshing Storm" for Europe—Peasant Delegates Lined Up for Sovietism.

MOSCOW, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—Soviet Russia today called up the three military classes of 1898, 1899 and 1900 for territorial army training. Simultaneously there appeared in the official newspaper Isvestia a striking cartoon depicting a stern-visaged Red soldier watching the Polish border, with the caption: "They are risking it to pass the frontier of my patience."

The calling up of the territorials is in line with the long-contemplated militia training plan and probably has no particular significance, but it is obvious from declarations made on all sides that the Moscow Government, while seeking to avoid participation in the German struggle, nevertheless is taking no chances that it will be unprepared for eventualities.

The so-called "White Terror" in Poland, where Communists are apparently suspected of causing the disastrous explosion in one of the Warsaw forts, occupies a prominent space in the newspapers, and the efforts of "the German reactionaries to crush the budding workers' Governments in Saxony and Thuringia" are occupying the close attention of the Communists here.

G. S. Zinovief, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Third International, said in a speech to the Peasants' International that Premier Lenin was greatly interested in the conference which was likely to be a cornerstone of history. Meanwhile, said Zinovief, the present slogan should be "Down with imperialistic war and long live the great proletarian German revolution, which approaches us and which, like a refreshing storm, will pass over decayed Europe and discharge the atmosphere."

The newspaper Laboring Moscow displays a symposium of the views of various leaders of the Third International on the question of "the German revolution." One of those quoted is Israel Amster, representative of the "American Workers Party," who predicts that a revolution in Germany will occur in the near future and cannot be avoided.

"The capitalistic governments of Europe," Amster is quoted as saying, "certainly will attempt to intervene. France, England and Italy will be the first to stab the revolution in the back, while America will play the same rôle as she did in the great war, supplying the imperialists with unlimited credit and ammunition, keeping her army in reserve and entering when the spoils of war are in sight.

"It is our duty to see that the American workers do not allow any ships to leave American ports laden with ammunition destined for the suppression of the German revolution. We shall strive to induce the American workers to refuse to manufacture munitions for use against the German proletariat."

Others, representatives of France, England, Italy, Switzerland and Poland, indicate a similar view, all expressing the hope that the proletariat of their countries will be able to help the Germans when the time comes.

Efforts of the Communists to gain the support of peasants throughout the world, which hitherto have been more or less spasmodic and uncentralized, are now to be directed with the same care that the Red trade unions employ to win city workingmen to their standards.

This is the immediate net result of the first international peasants' conference, which closed at the Kremlin yesterday with the adoption of a program the effect of which will be to give the Communists a new auxiliary in their world struggle.

The keynote motto of the new Red Peasants' International will be "Peasants and Workers of the World, Unite!" instead of the original Marxian slogan, "Workers of the World, Unite!"

W. H. Green, Vice President of the American Farmers' Union, and Señor Galvan, President of the Mexican Peasants' League, were elected to the permanent presidium of the Peasants' International, together with nine other delegates representing various countries.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 17.—M. Zinevief, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Third International, told a workers' meeting here that if the German revolution was crushed by the reactionaries it would be only a question of time before Russia herself was invaded. In view of this he emphasized the importance of a world-wide union of peasants and workingmen.

RAILWAYMEN SLOW RETURNING TO WORK

French Occupation Authorities Believe That Difficulties Will Be Overcome.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 17.—The Railroadmen's Union told its members late yesterday to obey the Berlin instructions to accept work under the French. The first German official wearing the traditional uniform was seen on duty at Düsseldorf today.

At Düsseldorf it is said a third of the men formerly employed applied for work under the regie, but scarcely any were immediately enrolled. Every man's papers and record are being carefully examined, and the allied authorities intend to engage only those of whom they can make immediate use, working more and more into the organization which they have created as the need arises.

In the factories the situation appears to have scarcely improved. Big employment plants like the Phoenix and Hoerde have decided to re-engage only a part of their personnel, and the Krupp establishments have decided to dismiss many of their employes.

The Ruhr system is not quite dead. The French managed to keep it alive like one keeps a drowned man going with artificial breathing, and doing that they have performed what seemed impossible. But weeks, perhaps months, must elapse before convalescence is complete. Meanwhile general conditions throughout the Ruhr continue more or less obscure. French engineers of the Allied Mission at Essen, while thoroughly alive to all the difficulties, express themselves as convinced the Germans will finally come to an agreement regarding economic questions now holding up work. Wages will be adjusted, food and clothing prices brought down, funds found somewhere to start the idle plants and increase the work of those already running. The Germans, on the other hand, pursue the policy of lamenting their misfortunes and painting the situation as almost hopeless, unless the French let them off paying reparations.

At Krupps this argument was plausibly expounded to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent by one of the directors who did not receive the French hospitality at the Düsseldorf prisons. Incidentally it is interesting to note both the Krupp officials and the French engineers agreed there were not now large stocks of manufactured goods accumulated in the plants ready for dumping as soon as the French open the frontiers for export. They are also in agreement regarding the fact that the key to the whole situation is the railroads, but not in agreement regarding French capability to run them even with all German railroad men back at their posts. Only time can show. But what the French did during the time of passive resistance promises well for what they will do with a full staff at their disposal.

French Strip Ruhr of Cash.

ESSEN, Germany, Oct. 17.—The occupation authorities have requisitioned 310 furnished dwellings in Essen and have also demanded stable accommodations for 380 horses. This action is construed by the Germans as indicating that the French and Belgians expect to remain here indefinitely.

Ninety-three trillion marks have been confiscated by the authorities at various points in the occupied area in the last ten days. The moneys in most cases were seized either while in transit or in possession of local branches of the Reichsbank, although the largest haul was made in a printing plant where a squad of French soldiers carried off eighty-one trillions of freshly printed marks.

In consequence of these continued confiscations of official and private money consignments, the mines and industries of the Ruhr generally are seriously handicapped for funds with which to pay off their employes and meet their ordinary requirements.

STINNES BEARS RUHR REFUSAL TO FRENCH

Will Not Dig Coal at Terms Offered, He Maintains in Heated Conference.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 17.—As representative of the Ruhr mineowners, Hugo Stinnes today came to Düsseldorf, accompanied by Herren Kloeckner and Vogel, and had a long interview with the heads of the French-Belgian Commission. According to the French accounts the conversation was warm and at times almost violent. Stinnes, it soon became evident, had not come with any propositions of a kind likely to aid the French, but simply to say "No" to their proposals.

What the French and Belgians wanted to know was whether the Ruhr mine owners were willing to resume the delivery of 20 per cent. of the production of their mines for the reparations account, themselves being reimbursed by the Reich. To this Stinnes replied with a categoric no.

The Belgian and French engineers at the head of the Control Commission tried to argue that the delivery price of coal in Düsseldorf was so greatly below the delivery price of English coal that even after delivering 20 per cent. of their output to the Reparation Commission account the German mineowners could far undersell the British coal owners.

So far as the household consumer was concerned Stinnes admitted the truth of this argument, but denied its truth from the point of view of the manufacturer, who could take only a pithead price into account in making his calculations. In England the pithead price was about 96 francs, but in Stinnes's opinion that price could be lowered to 53 francs. If the Ruhr mine owners were to deliver 20 per cent. of their coal to the Reparation Commission at the Ruhr pithead price it would mean 53 francs, with the result that German industry could not hope to contend with English and American, and it would be impossible for the Ruhr mineowners to consent to dig coal at that price.

The meeting seems to have broken off at this point in a deadlock, but the French believe that Stinnes's arguments all served to show that coal can be obtained at a price which will allow delivery of 20 per cent. to the Allies if there is an end between the mine owners and miners as to hours of work and other conditions.

PARIS STAND DOOMS SMOOT PROPOSALS

BURTON PLAN HITS SNAG

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—As seen from Paris, the main difficulty about Representative Burton's proposal to President Coolidge that he arbitrate between Germany and France if those countries wish it lies in the "if." That word is important because France will not accept Washington's good offices to fix Germany's bill unless Washington will guarantee the payment of the sum which it fixes, and it is not presumed that Mr. Coolidge has any such intention.

When it is said that France will not accept such a proposal it is meant that France will not accept as long as Poincaré and those whom he represents remain in power in Paris. They will surely be in power until the French elections next year, and it appears at this time a very good guess that the foreign situation of France will be such as to give the Nationalists the best chance to win control of Parliament again. That makes it a good guess that France, confident that she is right, with "the world's best army" to back up her confidence and with an innate disbelief in Germany's faith, will not be accepting any offers of arbitration from Washington or elsewhere for some time to come.

As for the Smoot proposal that Washington join with the British and other Governments to fix German capacity for payment with or without France the proposal has two parts. Inasmuch as M. Poincaré has persistently refused to join any international commission in which France, with major interests at stake, would have one vote out of many, it may be taken for granted that he has no present intention of accepting such a proposition. Mr. Hughes's pronouncement at New Haven went unnoticed by Paris and was followed by the occupation of the Ruhr.

The second part of the Smoot proposal, that other nations decide what France should get and trust public opinion to force her to accept it, comes up against repeated statements by Mr. Coolidge and his predecessor that they would take no reparations action without the consent of France and for that reason it does not receive much consideration here. As it looks from Paris the Smoot proposal as revealed in news dispatches offers very little promise.

British Lack Hope in Smoot Plan.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Senator Smoot's proposal for an independent consideration of German assets by a commission of experts regardless of France is considered here as encouraging in that it shows that a leading American Senator wishes the United States and Great Britain to work together for a settlement of Europe, but there are no illusions as to its practicability.

Like so many other suggestions, it glides over one of the essential conditions of the problem, France's determination to adhere rigidly to the financial machinery set up by the Treaty of Versailles. That instrument gives the task of assessing reparations to the Reparation Commission alone and as long as the French Government remains in its present mood it is regarded here as useless to propose any other investigating body.

If American and British financiers went into Germany on their own responsibility, France, it is believed here, would undoubtedly reject their conclusions on the mere ground that they had no authority to speak under the Treaty and that she could not assent to any departure from the procedure it lays down.

Smuts Proposal Kept Secret.

Rumors are persistent here that General Smuts has his own solution of the German financial problem and intends to press it upon the Imperial Conference. No confirmation of this can be obtained from General Smuts or the South African representatives, as they point out that they are under a pledge to the British Government to complete secrecy as to all matters now under discussion in Downing Street.

The Evening Standard tonight couples this London rumor with another which it says is prevalent in Berlin concerning an expected visit of a British Privy Councilor with a plan to liquidate the reparation problem.

"General Smuts," the Standard says, "is a Privy Councilor, and he has prepared such a plan. He has since his arrival in London apart from actual sittings of the Imperial Conference kept himself very carefully away from public appearances. His proposals are known to the French Government, and to the extent of his advocacy of a separate Rhineland State are probably not entirely distasteful to them."

Italy Opposes Smuts Plan.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 17.—The proposals for a solution of the reparation problem which General Smuts, it is understood here, has laid before the Imperial Conference in London are considered in Rome to be a hasty attempt to provide some sort of alternative to the Belgian proposals, which are believed to have caused a bad impression in England.

Italy argues that England must necessarily be opposed to the Belgian proposals for two main reasons: First, because they would seem to encourage the formation of a sort of Continental European steel trust and, second, because by levying 26 per cent. only on German importations they would encourage a lowering in the cost of German manufactures, to the detriment of British trade.

The iron of Lorraine and the coal of the Ruhr are considered to be complementary, in the sense that a nation in possession of one without the other can never hope to beat British competition, while if they could be operated together Britain would find considerable difficulty in maintaining her leadership in Europe, as a steel-exporting country. For this reason it is believed that General Smuts's proposal was advanced.

Reports from America that proposals have been made to President Coolidge to nominate a commission to determine Germany's capacity to pay have been well received in Rome as they fit in exactly with Premier Mussolini's policy. More than nine months ago he suggested that 50,000,000,000 gold marks was a fair sum to expect Germany to pay and that if the Allies could not agree upon that sum they should leave the matter to a commission of experts. To this policy he has adhered ever since as it is considered in Italy to be the only plan which is fair to Germany while safeguarding the interests of all the Allies.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Die Hilfe, the well-known Democratic organ, today asks, "Will the whole of German industry submit to the Stinnes dictatorship?" The paper continues:

"Are the rest of the German industrial magnates, indeed, willing to entrust their most valuable interests to that most incapable of politicians in Germany, Hugo Stinnes? If so, then certainly we see a dark future before us. That man has done more harm to Germany during the last ten years than anybody else. Whatever merits he has otherwise, his political incapability is certainly beyond measure. We have only to remember his fight for the iron ore deposits of Briey and Longwy during the war, and his recent fight against the timely reform of German currency.

"Remember his criminal agitation against a sound financial policy in Germany. Remember his many industrial ventures in foreign countries that may be considered very smart from a purely business standpoint, but had a most deplorable effect on Germany's reputation. Remember his words in Spa, 'Pshaw, let the Frenchmen invade the Ruhr district, they will soon see where they get to.' Remember the industrial movements he started, one after the other.

"No Socialist agitation ever did so much harm to industrial enterprise as Herr Stinnes did by these movements. Unfortunately since Rathenau's death nobody has the courage to oppose this industrial upstart. All our industrial magnates stand in deadly terror of socialization and cling to Hugo Stinnes, who really did more for Social Democracy than any agitator. At Stinnes's command the Steel League raised its prices until the manufacturers of machines were unable to continue work. Now Stinnes throws sand into the eyes of the people by raising a war cry against the trusts. He needs them no longer because he can extort even more money from manufacturers without them.

"We should say the hour has come when this grave-digger of free competition and of Germany's liberty should be put in prison, and his property appropriated by the State."

POINCARE REJECTS NEW BERLIN REQUEST

man Government would not pay for deliveries in kind.

French official quarters say that with or without German acquiescence M. Poincaré will find a way to run the Ruhr workshop. It is said he will insist on payment of the 40 per cent. coal tax, and that this money will go toward paying for deliveries in kind if Berlin stands on its refusal. Hitherto the French had always counted on applying these receipts directly to reparations, whereas under the reported new plan they would be handing them back to the Germans.

The Reparation Commission today began discussion of the much-mooted Belgian plan, and quickly ended it for the present by referring it to its Finance Committee. It seemed to be the opinion of members of the Reparation Commission itself that at the present time it is pretty helpless, inasmuch as the reparations situation is dominated by the Ruhr issue, which is not the business of the commission, but of the French and Belgian Governments and the German Government.

It is significant that the British delegate believes there is nothing much the Reparation Commission can do now about reparations. This is held to mean that the British Government thinks the general reparation negotiations must be left in abeyance until M. Poincaré has got the Ruhr settled or is tired of trying to do it.

FILIPINOS DEMAND RECALL OF GEN. WOOD

WILL INFORM WASHINGTON

Resolution to Be Sent to Coolidge and Congress—Troops Ready for Rebel Moros.

MANILA, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—The Philippine Legislature, after one of the stormiest sessions in its history, today adopted Sergio Osmeña's resolution approving the action of the Independence Commission of last July in demanding the recall of Governor General Wood.

Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate, and Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the House, were instructed to send copies of the resolution to the President of the United States and to Congress.

It was officially stated that the Legislature would take up Secretary Weeks's recent message of commendation to Governor General Wood at a later date. The message is understood to have reassured Governor General Wood of the full approval and support of the American Government in his handling of the Philippine situation.

Political leaders are reluctant to comment on the message.

Constabulary forces in the Lake Lanao region of Mindanao are mobilized today to be ready in the event another Moro outbreak should follow that of last Sunday, when a constabulary detachment of ten men was wiped out and three school teachers killed.

Residents of the Lake Lanao region have telegraphed to Governor General Wood asking for additional protection, preferably United States troops. At headquarters here it was said Philippine scouts would be used if troopers were sent to the scene of the uprising. Governor General Wood is inclined to believe the trouble is only local.

The attack on the constabulary detachment and teachers was made without warning. While the troops were talking to teachers at the Buluan School, Moro tribesmen who had been in hiding came from all sides and killed all of the troopers but one, a private, who was severely wounded, and then killed two teachers and the supervisor of the school. Afterward the Moros burned the schoolhouse.

The private who escaped death managed, despite his wounds, to walk and crawl several miles to a constabulary camp, where his report was telephoned to regional headquarters. The constabulary force was led by Lieutenant Magno.

No Americans were killed or threatened. The cause of the killings is said to be the opposition of the Moros, who are Mohammedans, to children, especially girls, going to school where Christian teachers are in charge.

POISONED RABBITS SCARE GERMAN TOWN

Heidelberg Faculty and Students Ban Stews Since Thieves Stole Inoculated Animals.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Oct. 17.—Heidelberg is passing through a "poisoned rabbit" scare. Stewed rabbit, formerly a popular dish at students' boarding houses and among the professors of Heidelberg University, for the time being is banned everywhere, and rabbits hereabouts are feared more than rats.

All this results from the act of hungry thieves who broke into the medical laboratories of the university the other night and made away with two cages of rabbits which had been inoculated with typhoid and other germs.

RULE OF THE KNOUT IN RED SAXONY

By CYRIL BROWN.

jitty the big public square in front of the Assembly House was quite empty, except for the correspondent. A small squad of mounted police happened to come this way. They had not the slightest intention of interfering with the prophet or his audience, but merely, as usual, were out to relieve the guard at the entrance to the Parliament building.

Want Reichswehr Driven Out.

The radical Minister-President, Herr Zeigner, appears to be in for a lot of trouble because the Communists want to know why he does not drive the Reichswehr out of Saxony. To all appearances the Socialist-Communist Government is trying its best to preserve order. The efficiency, courage and discipline of Saxony's Green Police are certainly above reproach. It seems the one constant, fixed factor one can calculate with. Even in blood-red anarchistic Chemnitz, which the correspondent visited later, the police are respected, and their cowhides even more. Red Saxony is under the knout of the police and the Reichswehr.

In Chemnitz, the great Saxon textile town, many chimneys have ceased to smoke. There are even more idle men on the streets than in Dresden. At night the correspondent saw a procession not of unemployed but of workers. They carried red banners and placards bearing the legend: "We work eight hours a day all the week long for one pound of lard. How are we to pay for bread and potatoes?"

The explanation was that these Chemnitz workers' wages last week, even on full time, averaged around 800,000,000 marks, which owing to the dramatic depreciation of the paper mark, were worth just one pound of lard.

The police permitted this procession to pass, and nothing happened.

Privy Councilor Stern, the largest hosiery manufacturer in this stocking town, told the correspondent that Minister-President Zeigner was misinformed when he believed in an organized foreign boycott against Saxony and Saxon goods. He admitted, however, that many factories might have continued working if it had not the vexatious interference and meddling of the Socialist Government.

In Zwickau, close to the Bavarian border, everybody was busy as usual. There was little unemployment. Many and large orders for socks and stockings had been received recently from America, and some from Russia. There was much resentment at a recent attempt by monarchists from neighboring Bavaria to establish a secret society here. Zwickau is the bailiwick of Anton Maier, just appointed by the German Government as Civilian Commissioner for the Free State of Saxony, the Prussian Province of Saxony and the Free State of Anhalt, to counterbalance the power of the military authorities while the country is under martial law. Herr Maier, who is a Socialist, is regarded as the right man for the job. He was away on his new task of trying to smooth over unavoidable differences between the military and civil authorities.

Intensively visiting the Saxon-Bavarian border, one is impressed with the fatalistic calmness with which the people everywhere are awaiting events and developments which all agree can only be deplorable and ruinous to Germany. Incidentally, nobody talks of paying reparations. The reparation problem has got lost in the shuffle of near civil war and civil war talk.

Red Hand Letters in Thuringia.

Things seem astonishingly quiet everywhere except in Thuringia, and particularly in Friedrichsroda, the red heart of red Thuringia. As the train passes through this little hotbed country southbound it is invaded by natives of the wealthier classes, whose excited manner attracts attention. They are members of families of manufacturers or land owners who have received the "red letter." This is the Teuton Communist variant of the Black Hand letter familiar to New Yorkers. One of the many Communist Ku Klux "courts" in secret session has sentenced them to death and decreed that their houses shall be burned down. Hence many depart while the going is still good.

A typical case is that of Herr Heinrich Briell of Friedrichsroda, whose people immigrated two centuries ago from Italy. He showed the correspondent one of these red letters. It read:

"We give you till tomorrow at midnight. If you have not left the country by that time, your house will be burned down and you and your family will be shot. You know why!

"THE COMMUNIST PEOPLE'S COMMISSIONERS."

The correspondent asked Herr Briell why, and he answered:

"Because I have always publicly and privately denounced red rule."

"And is this threat to be taken seriously?" he was asked.

"I know that besides me eight other men in Friedrichsroda have received such letters," he said, "and they all left town with the exception of two unmarried men. The Reds in our country are desperate and will stop at nothing. We certainly do expect another revolution."

The railway officials, too, are apprehensive of trouble. Our train stopped before every tunnel and waited until railwaymen gave the signal from the other end that the coast was clear.

Never was politics so eagerly and anxiously discussed in Germany as now, and in Thuringia, Saxony and Bavaria in an express train one will often, in fact generally, find the passengers of a whole car clustered into one compartment. There are few travelers today, owing to the prohibitively high rail rates, and what few passengers there are get together in one group for mutual protection, owing to frequent cases of robbery and even murder on trains.

The correspondent particularly noticed this on swinging around Baden and Württemberg. Almost the sole subject of conversation was politics. Both Suabians and Badensers were united in blaming Bavaria for the unrest in the Reich.

In Baden and Württemberg everything was relatively quiet. These South Germans mostly thought they were trying to do their best to help the Berlin Government in its task of trying to save the Fatherland from French revenge," only "selfish Bavaria" would have everything her own way. Nobody doubted that von Kahr was trying to restore the Wittelsbachs in Bavaria at the cost even of the Reich's existence.

LEGION DEADLOCKED ON BONUS QUESTION

SAY THEY CAN DEFEAT IT

Division Also Develops Over Resolution to Condemn the Ku Klux Klan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—With Michigan delegates to the fifth annual American Legion convention holding out for the repudiation of the Ku Klux Klan, and the organization here of a unit of the Anti-Bonus League to fight any resolution favoring compensation for ex-service men, the convention finished its third day of a virtual deadlock here tonight.

Late today a spirit of compromise entered the Ku Klux Klan question when the California delegates in caucus voted an "honest neutrality" in matters pertaining to politics, religion and industry. This was the first break in a situation which Legion officials admitted was threatening the Legion.

The formation of an Anti-Bonus League here dispelled the hope that the Compensation Committee would finally work out a resolution in committee that would be acceptable to the entire convention, Legion officials state tonight. The anti-bonus organization selected Lieut. Commander William C. Van Antwerp of San Francisco as Chairman and Lieutenant Edward H. Clarke Jr. as Secretary.

"For the disabled, everything; for the able-bodied, nothing," will be the demand of the anti-bonus faction, said Mr. Van Antwerp, a member of the National Advisory Council. He said:

"That is the slogan for the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League, which is now organized and actively functioning in twenty-six States. We are opposed to the granting of any form of bonus to able-bodied ex-service men on the ground that to serve a country in time of war is a privilege as well as a duty and to seek a material reward therefor is an act repugnant to the spirit of true patriotism and a violation of the fundamental principles of American citizenship.

The American Legion Auxiliary, made up of women who participated in war work, today tabled a resolution condemning the Ku Klux Klan and its activities. The action was taken with a proviso that the resolution would be reconsidered in the event that the national convention of the American Legion passes any resolution defining its stand in regard to the Klan.

FRENCH POLICE STOP JAZZ BAND AT BURIAL

Dead Man Wanted It in Procession, but the Mourners Were Foxtrotting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Music of a jazz band at a funeral is permissible, but the band must not play dance tunes, according to a decision of the police of the town of Udine today. The decree was issued and enforced today at the funeral procession of one of the town's inhabitants.

The citizen had requested on his death bed that the procession include a jazz band led by one of his closest friends. The friend retained the band and the musicians were doing their best to carry out their customer's wishes when several of the mourners surrendered to the spirit of jazz. For a few moments practically the whole procession was foxtrotting.

The police, scandalized at the sight, descended on the band and ordered it to stop playing. The leader pleaded his case so well, however, that the police consented that the band continue if it would change the cadence of the airs. This was done and the mourners moved sadly forward to a one-step which had become a funeral strain.

Three Drowned in Swell.

Captain Edward Logue, of the stakeboat Rak, his wife and Terry Gillespie, manager of a grocery at Whitestone, L. I., were drowned yesterday morning in Long Island Sound off Whitestone, when a dinghy in which they were rowing ashore was overturned by the swell of a passing steamer. Edward Newton of 25 South Street, Manhattan, was rescued after he had clung to the overturned craft for a half hour.

LLOYD GEORGE, SICK, SPEAKS IN CHICAGO

message, which comes from what appears to be almost the other end of the continent.

"I can say I think for this audience and for the American people that they are deeply desirous for the closer union of the two great English-speaking peoples, in whose hands rest the ark of the covenant of human freedom and the cause of civilization for the years to come.

"I wanted, before I left this great city of the Middle West, to say a word about the situation in Europe. If you will extend to me your indulgence for a short time I will state it in as calm, unemotional and unrhetorical fashion as possible.

"It is discouraging that five years after the great triumph won by the armies of the Allies, with the assistance of the gallant men you sent from this great republic, that Europe should be in such a condition of chaos and disturbance as it is today. It is a matter of importance to the United States that Europe should be in that State.

"Europe is like a ragged man standing before the plateglass window of a richly provided store. He needs the garments that appear there, more than the well dressed man who has gone in to purchase more. He needs the food which is supplied more than the well fed people who go in and out. But he cannot buy it because he cannot pay.

"The need of Europe is as great, greater than ever; but its power of purchasing the commodities that will supply these deficiencies is almost less than it ever was.

"Why is that? The war is over five years. Europe has a frugal, hard-working, industrious population of millions in every country, and you may say she ought to have made up the deficiencies of war ere now. What is the reason? The first is this: Europe is exhausted after the most terrible war that has ever been waged in the whole story of mankind.

"Ten to fifteen millions of her best men, her picked men in the prime of life, had been slaughtered on the battlefields of that great war.

"Probably an equal number have died from the pestilences which are always associated with war.

"The war cost one hundred and eighty thousand millions of dollars to the countries of Europe, between forty and fifty thousand millions sterling in ammunition, in the cost of devastation and desolation and in the wreckage inflicted upon the land across which the battle raged. The whole machinery of trade and commerce is torn and shattered. Currency, exchange, the arrangements which business have made through the centuries for interchanging commodities—all are gone.

Old Trade Methods Gone.

"We have improvised something to enable us to carry on, but the old methods of trading are gone. Hunger and plague still stalk through Europe. There are bread riots, where men are killed in the search for food for their children. I have read the accounts in your daily press since I have arrived in this great land. How many children have died no one can tell, but the Recording Angel is keeping a strict account of every little head that droops in Europe.

"That is the condition of Europe from the great war, and it will take a long, long time for Europe to pick up, even if all the conditions were favorable—and they are not.

"What is it that is retarding recovery? As you know, in convalescence sometimes there are local irritations that retard recovery, and there have been two or three of that kind since the date of the peace.

"What are they?"

"The first was the Russian revolution. That was a great menace. It was a great peril. It was a great disturbance. It retarded the recovery of credit and confidence, but it is improving. The fact that the Russians met the nations of Europe at Genoa last year and discussed their problems with the representatives of other lands on terms of amity has had a soothing and quieting effect. Then then undertook solemnly not to engage in aggressive action against any of their neighbors. They have kept that pact faithfully and substantially up to the present. Therefore the Russian situation is improving.

"But there is another indication which is causing more anxiety at the present moment than any, and that is the subject of German reparation.

"Now with your indulgence I should like to say a word about that. What is the British view with regard to reparations? It is first of all traditional. The war of 1914 is not the first war—great war—that Britain has been engaged in on the Continent of Europe. It has during the centuries been engaged in other combinations for the purpose of fighting autocracies that were threatening the liberties of Europe.

"It fought Louis XIV. It fought Napoleon for more than twenty years. In all those cases Britain emerged victoriously, but when the time came for dictating the terms of peace Britain was always a moderate and moderating influence. [Applause.]

Opposed Humiliating Enemy.

"We have always opposed any effort to impose humiliating terms on the vanquished. In the first war with Louis XIV. the terms were so temperate as to surprise even the French themselves. In 1815, after the battle of Waterloo, and the overthrow of Napoleon, the allies, Prussia, Russia and Austria, wanted to impose humiliating terms upon France, but the Duke of Wellington refused to assent to those proposals. Therefore, when Britain takes a moderate view today, she is pursuing her traditional policy of moderation in victory. [Applause.]

"What is her attitude toward German reparations? We first of all say that Germany having wantonly inflicted damage upon her neighbors, who were anxious to live in peace with her, ought to make up the loss.

"By every law she is liable to pay damages to the limit of her capacity. [Applause.]

"The next thing we say is that that capacity must be reasonably interpreted. How are you to interpret it? We are confronted with a problem that nations have never encountered before and that is the transmission of huge sums of money from one country to other countries in a currency which is convertible into their own. That has never arisen before. The first obvious method, therefore, of collecting the debts from Germany is to restore the credit of Germany, so that her currency should have value, and when she pays in that currency, we receive value. [Applause.]

"That is the British view. Great Britain has every interest to collect reparations. More than one-fifth of the amount has been allocated to her. German sank eight million tons of British shipping, bombarded British towns from the air, from the air, and caused the payment of pensions and compensations to the mutilated and the widows of the dead.

"So that Britain is entitled to 22 per cent. of that compensation. She has, therefore, a direct interest in collecting as much as she can, and if she takes a moderate view it is not because she is disinterested, it is because she is interested.

"The war cost us more than it cost any other country. It cost us $40,000,000,000. We advanced $8,000,000,000 to the Allies. I am sorry to say they are in no hurry to pay. [Laughter] Therefore our taxation is the highest in the world.

"Why? We determined from the start to pay our way and to pay our debts. [Prolonged applause.] Ours is a habit our ancestors got us into. [Laughter and applause.] But it is a costly habit. The taxation in Britain is the heaviest in any country in the world. But still we pay our debts. We have 1,300,000 unemployed and it costs us $400,000,000 a year to keep them from starvation. Therefore we have every interest to collect reparation only to lighten our burdens.

"Why therefore do we not join in these expeditions to Germany to collect the gold? Because we know that is not the way to get it. [Applause].

"You will get plenty of trouble, but no cash. And as we have had enough trouble to last us a generation, we do not seek any more. [Laughter].

"Now, if Germany were shamming insolvency, if she were pretending that she could not pay, in order to avoid payment, we should join in any expedition for the purpose of compelling her. But is she? That is the question. Let us look at the situation calmly. She has lost her iron deposits, largely. They have been handed over to France. The coal deposits of the Saar have been handed over to France. A good deal of her coal in Silesia has gone to Poland.

"Her potash has gone to France. Her merchant marine has been distributed among the Allies, and so have her provinces. She is a beaten country, and therefore her prestige and her credit are gone.

"Nevertheless she has paid since the peace two thousand million dollars to the Allies in respect of reparations and armies of occupation, a gigantic sum for a country under such conditions; nearly three times what France paid in 1871.

"Can she pay more, that is the question. How can you ascertain? You cannot examine the ledgers with bayonets.

"There are ways of ascertaining whether Germany can pay more. If she can, she ought to. It is to her interest to get done with it. And if she can pay but is merely refusing to pay, let us find it out, and the Allies will march together in any enterprise that is necessary to force her to pay. [Applause.]

Favors the Hughes Plan.

"How are you to ascertain what her capacity is?

"Mr. Secretary Hughes delivered a very important speech at the beginning of this year at New Haven, in which he proposed that the whole question of Germany's capacity to pay should be examined by a commission of business experts, and he made it clear that if a commission of that kind were appointed, every facility would be given for an American expert to be on that body—a thoroughly practical, businesslike proposal. [Applause.]

"The examination of Germany's capacity and the Treaty of Versailles was left to a body called the Reparation Commission. On that body the United States of America ought to be represented. But something happened to that treaty down in Washington. [Laughter.] The United States of America, therefore, has no representative. But when it is suggested that there should be a committee of experts with Americans among them, that is substantially the same thing. And I cannot understand why either France or Belgium should refuse to accept that very moderate and sensible proposal. [Applause.]

"The United States is absolutely impartial. She has no interest in reparations. She has certainly no more interest in Germany than anybody else. She is very well disposed toward France, and, therefore, with a friendly country, absolutely impartial, with a great fund of business knowledge at its disposal, represented in a body of that kind, it seems to me we would find a way to ascertain how much Germany can pay, and once we have done that, then we could march together to compel her to pay. [Applause.]

"That seems to me to be the only way to settle this troublesome question without creating further disturbance, without upsetting the world, without keeping every one in a state of nervousness and trepidation, without destroying the confidence which is the life of commerce.

Pictures the Alternative.

"What is the alternative? Nothing but the blindness of force and violence. You have 60,000,000 of people in Germany. It is a fatal mistake to drive them into despair. [Applause.] While we want reparations, revolution is not the way to get them. There is an old saying that men, in order to escape from a fire, will plunge themselves into a body of water.

"That is why we have been unable to join the full invasion of Germany without an examination, such as Mr. Secretary Hughes suggested, into the question of German capacity.

"This problem has been examined by great French statesmen before. Mr. Clemenceau, Mr. Millerand, Mr. Briand have all looked at this question of the invasion of the Ruhr. They have always dismissed it. They have always said, with the instinct of great, sane statesmanship, that it was the wrong road. And I regret that their wise policy has not been adhered to.

"Justice is shrewd, justice will be served, but justice is also temperate and justice is always patient. Vengeance is justice without wisdom. That we want to avoid." [Applause.]

Chicago saw less of Mr. Lloyd George than it had expected. While the temperature he developed after his strenuous experience yesterday had subsided by the time he awoke this morning, he did not leave his suite at the hotel. Most of the afternoon was given over to preparation of the address he delivered tonight.

Mr. Lloyd George did not go to the dinner of the National Audit Bureau of Circulation at the Hotel Lasalle and that caused some heart burnings. He later entertained the Chicago newspaper publishers at an informal luncheon in his apartment.

Those invited were John C. Shaffer of The Post, Roy D. Keehn, representing the Hearst publications; Victor F. Lawson of The Daily News, John C. Eastman of The Journal, and R. R. McCormick and J. M. Patterson of The Tribune.

Mr. Lloyd George, with Dame Margaret and Miss Megan Lloyd George, was to have been entertained at luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour at their Forest Lake estate. As it was Dame Margaret and Miss Megan went alone, remaining there all afternoon, after first doing some shopping, accompanied by Mrs. Armour.

The Lloyd George party will leave Chicago tomorrow morning. A stop will be made at Springfield, Ill., where the ex-Premier will be received by Governor Small of Illinois and will place a wreath on the tomb of Lincoln. In the evening he will speak at a banquet given in his honor, going on to St. Louis later in the evening.

KHEDIVE STIRS EGYPT WITH PLOT FOR RETURN

He Circulates Story That Britain Will Depose King Fuad in His Favor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Oct. 17.—Abbas Hilmy, the former Khedive, who was deposed from the Egyptian throne when Turkey joined the Central Powers in 1914, still is making strenuous efforts to regain his crown. His latest move was responsible for a sensation in Egypt this morning when the Egyptian press published a telegram sent by an Italian press agency from Rome reporting that Rome newspapers yesterday gave prominence to a report that the British Government practically had decided to depose the present King Fuad and substitute Abbas Hilmy.

The Italian agency explained that the reason animating the British Government in this step was resentment over the rapprochement between Egyptian palace circles and the anti-British Zaghlulists.

Inquiries have revealed that the story originated in the fertile brain of the ex-Khedive, who sent it from Geneva to the Rome press, which quickly featured the story. Abbas Hilmy showed considerable acumen in choosing this moment to launch this particular piece of propaganda. The attention of the Egyptian people has been directed toward him lately because, primarily, his mother returned to Egypt last week by permission of King Fuad. A few days prior to the return of this lady King Fuad was driving through the streets of Alexandria when a section of the populace began to shout "Vive Khedive Abbas Hilmy!"

It is significant that following this incident the Cairo Government forbade the femininist welcome which had been arranged for the mother of the ex-Khedive. There is undoubtedly a certain amount of sympathy among the Egyptians with Abbas Hilmy, and the prohibition of the feminist welcome incensed those circles which desired to honor the deposed monarch in the person of his mother.

Further, Abbas Hilmy's son, Prince Abdel Kader, died recently and his body is being brought to Egypt on Sunday next, but since the Alexandrian section demonstrated in honor of the ex-Khedive the Government also had to prohibit a demonstration over the reception of the late Prince's body. This prohibition also has aroused resentment.

Then, on top of this, came this morning's announcement by the Italian news agency. This series of incidents is not causing any concern regarding the strength of the position of King Fuad, but they show that there is still a latent feeling of friendliness among the natives of Egypt for their old monarch, who backed the wrong side in the great war.

HOUSING CRISIS OVER, REALTY MEN ARGUE

ought to be an administrative power or commission with broad powers to determine the questions involved in regulation, he said, to determine what a reasonable rent was if that question came up. His study, which he said had been paid for by the Real Estate Board just as a similar study presented to the Lockwood committee two years ago had been made, had gone to show that conditions in housing were working toward normal and that the normal conditions of bargaining between landlord and tenant were returning.

Just Keeping Pace With Population.

Examining Professor Lindsay particularly on his assertion that there now exist apartments for a surplus population of 200,000, Commissioner Shinteag brought out that for the nine months of this year accommodations for 70,000 persons in tenements had been built and the witness admitted that this would hardly more than cover the increase in population. He pointed out, however, that the increase in the construction of one and two family houses was not taken into consideration, but also admitted that there were practically no vacancies in such houses, as they are built for use rather than for sale.

Real estate owners and agents called by counsel for the Real Estate Board supported previous assertions of tenants that there were few vacancies in the lowest priced apartments. However they placed before the commission tables made up of recent surveys, some made yesterday, indicating that in apartments renting above $20 and $25 a room there were a large number of vacancies, particularly along Broadway from Seventy-second to 125th Street, on the upper west side, Central Park West, Riverside Drive and Washington Heights.

The agents asserted that it was not fair to compare rents today with prices in 1914, because ten years ago rents were not bringing a fair return on the investments. Hardly more than 4 or 5 per cent. was the usual return at that time, it was stated, and in many cases the income was much lower and resulted in actual deficits.

Figures showing the increased costs of maintaining houses were read into the record. These indicated wages for elevator boys and other help has gone up 100 per cent. in ten years, that coal prices have risen about the same and that the cost of repairs and decorations have gone up between 100 and 300 per cent.

Almost every house on Riverside Drive has a "To Let" sign on it, the commission was told, and conditions in that section and near-by sections are rapidly coming to the point they were when owners had to make as many inducements as possible to prospective tenants. Witnesses asserted they had to scrape floors, redecorate, put in additional master's bathrooms and make old elevator houses as modern as possible in order to keep them in competition with the newly built houses.

Owners also complained of acts of vandalism on the part of tenants and declared ruefully that they never tried to sue tenants because they felt it would be impossible to recover under present circumstances unless they actually caught the tenants defacing their apartments and committing acts of destruction.

The Hold-Over Tenant Their Worry.

One of the chief grievances, and upon this one every agent dwelt, was that hold-over tenants who remain in possession of their apartments without a lease frequently move out at the beginning of the Summer leaving the apartment vacant for months. The upkeep, of course, is added to the expense of maintaining the building, they said, and this keeps rents up. They asked the commission to advocate the enactment of a law that would make a hold-over tenant remain in possession for one year and not move out at will, with or without notice and frequently owing rent.

It was alleged also that Justices in the Municipal Courts unduly favored tenants and that even in some cases when the court directed verdicts for the landlords juries disregarded the instructions and returned verdicts for the tenants.

E. C. McNulty, of counsel for the Real Estate Board, declared that the juries were "of the tenants, for the tenants and largely by the tenants," adding, "and that's what you call administration of justice." Mr. Stoddard, referring to the quoted remarks of one Municipal Court Justice, who said the cases in his court were several years behind, asked: "What chance has a landlord if his case will not be reached until 1927?"

The first witness was Professor Lindsay, who remained on the stand all morning and half of the afternoon. He attempted to show that despite the declaration of Health Commissioner Copeland in 1920 that there was a great deal of overcrowding, resulting in unsanitary conditions, dangerous to health and life—that in spite of such a statement the mortality statistics showed a fall in the death rate since 1920. On cross-examination he admitted that the drop in the death rate might have been caused by the increasing use of serums, the Shick test for diphtheria and other sanitary measures fostered by the Health Department.

Competition the Remedy, He Says.

He was asked what he thought could give tenants the best measure of protection against unreasonable and exorbitant rents and replied that this could be gained by the most active economic competition and the greatest freedom in the operation of economic laws. Restriction, he asserted, gave little relief and in the end defeated its purpose by discouraging investments.

To maintain an economic equilibrium in wages the witness thought that there ought to be a labor surplus and unemployment, but that if only as many laborers were available as were required wages would be abnormally high. And so it was with relation to landlord and tenant. He maintained there must be a surplus of tenants "in order to even the scales in bargaining power."

Subsequently under cross-examination, Professor Lindsay said that his 1921 report presented to the Lockwood Committee stated that in 1920 there were enough apartments to care for the population "with something over." The 1920 condition was "more in the nature of a rent emergency than anything else," he contended.

"What is the test of a rent emergency?" asked Mr. Shientag.

"The asking of unusually high rents, abnormally high rents for property."

Mr. Shientag said that the average wage in 1920 was $32 in this city and asked the witness whether there was an adequate number of apartments in 1920 to meet the demand of the average wage earner. Professor Lindsay answered in the negative. "Not at rents asked," he added, "nor of property at prices at which it could be supplied; but there always has been a good deal of space available at rents below what we call the economic rent." He said people formerly had been getting space for $8.50 a room that cost $6 to supply and that now in some cases they are being asked to pay $9 and $10 for the space.

The witness said practically nothing had been done since 1920 to help those of those able to pay only low rents, but ventured to say that converted dwellings were bringing lower prices. He declared that there had been little building in 1920, when the rent laws were passed, some building the following year and additional building in 1922.

It was his belief that the emergency rent laws had frightened investors and prevented them from building. However, under cross examination he admitted that in 1918 and 1919, prior to the enactment of the rent laws, there had been little building.

William E. Kilpatrick, a builder and real estate owner for thirty-eight years, described the scarcity of houses in 1903 and said that by 1907 there was an overproduction which followed the enactment of the Tenement House law of 1901. The buildings were erected to rent for $7.50 a room and to bring 6 per cent. return, he said. By 1907 the rooms were renting for half that sum.

Between 1910 and 1920, according to the witness, landlords lost money, and he declared that an increase of rent of 200 or 300 per cent. merely put the economic rent up to what it should be if it was to bring a return of 6 per cent. Rents up to 1917 had decreased so that they were between 40 and 60 per cent. below normal, he said.

Vacancies in the newly built houses built to rent for $25 a room already have been noted, said Mr. Kilpatrick. He said that in one case he knew of fifteen vacancies in a house with forty-four apartments and that the rent had dropped from $33 to $17. He asserted that the city was already overbuilt in $20-a-room houses. As to doubling up of families, he asserted that this custom had existed since time immemorial, that it was a European custom brought here by immigrants. When tenants from Harlem moved to the newly built Washington Heights in 1903 they doubled two families in their apartments because they were unable to pay the higher rents for the more attractive suites, he added.

William H. Dolson, a real estate agent controlling between 2,500 and 2,700 apartments, mainly renting from $14 a room up, testified that 1914 rents were abnormally low, giving a return of not more than 4 per cent. on the investment. He told of increased taxes and assessments, of higher costs of help and decorating, and asserted that recently owners of property on the west side were doing as much decorating as they did in 1914. At that time landlords offered inducements of three months' rent free, but they have not increased to that condition now, he said. Of 2,500 apartments under his observation sixty-three were vacant. There are no vacancies in houses with rooms renting between $12 and $16.

A census taken yesterday morning of the region between Seventy-second and 119th Streets on Broadway showed 494 to rent signs in 1,556 buildings. Other agents on the west side told of similar surveys and of the large number of to let signs on Central Park West, Riverside Drive and the upper west side. The commission was told that houses with apartments formerly renting for $3,500 were now renting for $3,000. Every element in the overhead cost of maintaining apartments had increased considerably, the agents maintained.

Several agents testified they had a few apartments in old law tenements renting for $4 a room. J. Irving Walsh, an agent, said that in the last two years hardly one tenant vacated an apartment "without beating you out of some of your rent."

Useless to Sue Tenants, He Says.

Willful acts of vandalism, such as cutting the electric wires, breaking window panes and tearing down wall paper are not infrequent, he said.

"It's impossible to sue a tenant today and get more rent," Mr. Walsh testified. "The juries won't give it to you. Property owners are never taken on a jury. The juries consist of storekeepers, clerks and other tenants."

The witness declared the assertion of representatives of tenants' associations that in the so-called "colored" section roomers slept in three shifts using the same bed for twenty-four hours was ridiculous. He denied that any building construction could go on now to rent at $10 a room and still pay 6 per cent. on the investment.

Leslie E. Moore of Douglas L. Elliman, real estate agents, who advocated the discontinuance of the rent laws, was asked what would happen to tenants unable to pay high rents while construction was getting back to normal. He replied, "That is a question which would require much thought to answer."

Municipal Court Justice Peter A. Shiel said the rent laws have been of great benefit to the public, though in some cases they have worked hardship on tenants and landlords.

Justice John C. McTigue declared there had been trickery on the part of some landlords who sought apartments for themselves and then rented them at increased prices. Justice Leopold Prince favored extension of the rent laws and wanted them amended so as to permit Justices to compel landlords to make repairs.

The Commission held a session at the City Hall last night and will continue there today.

District Attorney Dodd, who declared yesterday that at least 3,100 Brooklyn tenements were firetraps, said he would confer today with city officials regarding ways and means for eliminating this fire hazard. Safety restrictions had not been enforced fully, he said, in some of the other residential districts because of the housing emergency. The officials invited to the District Attorney's conference are John Guilfoyle, a Deputy Tenement House Commissioner, and Charles Swarcout, Chief of the Brooklyn Fire Prevention Bureau.

paid over and above that which would have been a fair price to the distributer.

"New York State and New York City are making no tax whatever against the sale of gasoline, although the fashion has been set in almost all of the other States to make such a tax. A tax of $10,000,000 has been contributed by the consumer without benefit to himself. This is plainly a penalty and is a species of taxation without representation.

"Why doesn't the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey sell gasoline in New York? Why has it left this great field to its brother, the Standard Oil Company of New York? Is the Sherman law actually in operation or has the Supreme Court again been deceived? The next Congress ought to find out the facts.

"Hoping that you will take this matter up in your usual vigorous fashion, I remain,

"Yours very truly,
"MURRAY HULBERT,
"Acting Mayor."

Asks Governor to Act.

In his letter to Governor Smith, the Acting Mayor wrote:

"Dear Governor—It will no doubt seem strange to you to learn that the consumer in Greater New York is now paying and has for months been paying a higher price for gasoline than in any other part of New York State, and greater than the consumers of gasoline in adjoining States whose geographical location denies them New York's opportunity of enjoying deep water facilities and large oil refining establishments.

"The present price for gasoline to the consumer at filling stations in New York City is 21 to 22 cents per gallon. In Buffalo it is 18 cents per gallon. In Albany it is 19 cents and in Rochester 17 to 19 cents per gallon. In Syracuse it is 16 to 18 cents per gallon. In the State of Ohio the price is 19 cents per gallon. In Detroit, Mich.; in Kansas City, Mo.; in St. Louis, Mo., the price is less than 16 cents per gallon. New Orleans, La., pays 15½ cents per gallon. In Chicago, Ill., the price is 15.4 cents per gallon.

"I have seen quotations on California gasoline, which I am told is of a quality as good as now being sold at filling stations in New York City, indicating a price of 9 cents per gallon delivered in buyer's tanks in New York Harbor.

"While the retail price in New York City is from 21 to 22 cents per gallon, during the Summer months it has been as high as 24 cents per gallon. The margin between the wholesale price and the price of gasoline to the consumer in New York City is sufficiently great to require explanation.

Oklahoma Price 6¼ Cents.

"Gasoline can be purchased at refineries in Oklahoma and adjoining States at 6¼ to 6¾ cents per gallon. The cost of sending such gasoline to New York is about 2½ cents per gallon and price as low as 8¾ cents per gallon delivered into New York Harbor has been quoted on Oklahoma gasoline.

"As doubtless you know, the city of Greater New York is a large user of gasoline for municipal purposes. With the many large refineries in New York Harbor advertised to be the most efficient in the world, and their access to the large surplus of California crude oil, it would seem that the people of New York should not be discriminated against in the matter of price of gasoline. It seems to me to be so inconsistent as to indicate unlawful trade combination.

"From information furnished by the United States Government and the American Petroleum Institute, the State of California has been producing for several months past 700,000 barrels of crude oil every twenty-four hours. A refinery located on deep water in this harbor can avail itself of the surplus crude oil produced in California, and thus give to its customers the benefits arising from the cheap crude transported from California by its large fleet of tank ships in which it moves crude oil through the canal to its refinery located on the Atlantic seaboard. This would indicate that the consumer in New York State is eligible to the lowest of prices for gasoline.

"Therefore, for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not discrimination is being practiced against the consumers of gasoline in Greater New York, I respectfully request that the Attorney General of the State of New York be directed to ascertain the facts relative to this matter, and that the State may take such action as to protect itself in such manner as may be proper and necessary.

"I may add that the recent action of the Governor of South Dakota, with whom I had the pleasure of fraternizing at the Elks' convention in Atlanta, resulting from his active interest in the price being paid by his citizens for gasoline, has resulted in a horizontal reduction of six cents per gallon throughout his entire State."

Standard Oil Announces Cuts.

The Standard Oil Companies of New York and New Jersey yesterday announced reductions in the wholesale price of gasoline, meeting cuts of last Tuesday by the Gulf Refining Company of 3 cents in Massachusetts and 2 cents in twenty-three other States. The Standard Oil Company of New York announced a reduction of 3 cents in Massachusetts and 2 cents in New York State and other points in New England than Massachusetts, making the Massachusetts wholesale price 15½ cents and the retail price 16 with the wholesale and retail prices in the other States affected 16½ to 19 cents. The New Jersey Company made a cut of 2 cents, bringing the wholesale price to 16¼ and the retail to 18. The Texas Company and the Atlantic Refining Company at the same time made reductions to meet the prices of the Gulf Refining Company.

The reductions were attributed to a large surplus. The stocks in the country totaled about one billion gallons on Sept. 1, or double the total of a year before. Crude oil prices also dropped yesterday, the Gulf Oil Company announcing a reduction of 20 cents a barrel to 75 cents.

ASKS STATE INQUIRY INTO SCHOOLS HERE

Alderman Harvey Urges Investigation to Eliminate Politics and Favoritism.

WANTS 150 NEW HOUSES

Ryan and Ettinger Defend System, Saying Congestion Has Been Reduced.

George J. Ryan, President of the Board of Education, and Superintendent of Schools Dr. William L. Ettinger issued a statement yesterday saying that congestion in the public schools at the end of September had been reduced. Coincidentally, Alderman George U. Harvey gave out a letter he had written to State Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves requesting the State Department of Education to make an investigation of the public school system of the city, with a view to eliminating politics and favoritism. He further requested that the State build 150 schools at once.

Mr. Harvey said in his letter:

"In 1917 there were some 46,402 children on part time in the schools. Each year has shown a steady and consistent increase. As of June 1, we had about 349,179 children on part time and double session, and, further, the length of the school day has been shortened.

"These conditions are absolutely no reflection upon the teachers in the system, who, in spite of handicaps, discouragements, politics and favoritism, have courageously worked on to prevent an utter collapse of our school system.

No Provisions in Sight.

"The new schools which have been completed in the last five years, now under construction and contemplated, hardly take care of the normal yearly growth, so that no provision is being made for the 349,179 children now on part time and double session or to increase the number of hours in the school day.

"The city needs at least 150 new schools at once, at a cost of approximately $150,000,000, but the city has no money for such a large program, and there is no hope for remedy for the present generation unless outside assistance is speedily given. It is, therefore respectfully suggested that the State Department of Education make an immediate investigation of the entire public school system of this city, with the object of eliminating politics and its attending evils and of building at once and having ready for operation inside of two years at least 150 school buildings. It is suggested that the State advance the necessary money, build the schools and turn them over to the city, charging the city the usual rate of interest on the money involved and allowing the city twenty-five years in which to pay its indebtedness to the State."

The statement of Mr. Ryan and Dr. Ettinger said in part:

"Conditions of congestion in the public schools at the end of September continue to show improvement. The number of children on part time on Sept. 17 was 157,278, and on Sept. 30 had been reduced to 152,247, a decrease of 5,031. The Sept. 30 part time figures are a decrease of 1,163 from September 1922, although the registration in the schools had increased 16,714.

Reports Part Time Decrease.

"There was a decrease in part time in both high and elementary schools between Sept. 17 and Sept. 30. The total register in all schools on Sept. 30 was 953,189, a decrease of 5,187 since Sept. 17. The elementary schools had a total register of 841,738, as compared with 840,113 on Sept. 30, a decrease of 1,625. The elementary school part time decreased from 86,502 to 85,796 at the end of the month, a decrease of 2,406.

"The high schools did not show as great a decrease in part time as there was decrease in registration. The reduction in registration is largely due to clearing registers of pupils who did not report in September, after applying for admission to the high schools in June. The total high school registration on Sept. 17 was 110,324, and at the end of the month was 106,883. The number of high school students on part time decreased from 39,076 to 36,432 on Sept. 30. This was a decrease of 2,624.

"Further relief of the congestion is assured during the current school term, as we are advised by Architect William H. Gompert that the Bureau of Construction and Maintenance expects to have completed between now and Feb. 1, 1924, ten new school buildings, with sittings of 13,608, which should do much to relieve part time conditions."

East 120th Street, east of First Avenue, Manhattan; northeast corner of Hester and Baxter Streets, Manhattan; Randall and Thierot Avenues, the Bronx; Wilson Street, east of Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn; Neptune Avenue, between West Thirty-third and Thirty-first Streets, Brooklyn; Eighteenth Avenue, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth Streets, Brooklyn; Avenue L, Bedford Avenue and East Twenty-sixth Street, Brooklyn; Forty-first and Forty-second Streets, Corona, L. I.; Polk Avenue and Twentieth Street, Jackson Heights, Elmhurst, L. I., and Thirtieth Avenue, south of Grand Avenue, Astoria.

MASONS SPARE COOLIDGE.

President Thanks Them for Foregoing a Handshaking Visit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Scottish Rite Masons who refused to add to the burdens of President Coolidge by subjecting him to a long handshaking ordeal today received from the Chief Executive a letter of appreciation for their thoughtfulness.

In a communication addressed to John H. Cowles, Grand Commander of the Southern Jurisdiction of the Order, which is holding its biennial session here, Mr. Coolidge said:

"Let me express to you, first of all, and through you to the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Freemasonry for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, my sincere appreciation of the consideration which you have shown and which prompted you to forego a personal meeting. It is an example of friendly thoughtfulness and shows a real desire to spare the President those demands upon his strength which, however pleasant they may be to him, necessarily serve to consume time and energy which, in the present state of the country, may well be devoted to more serious purposes.

"Please be sure that the good wishes you extend are none the less sincerely appreciated and none the less helpful because they are not presented in person. I am very grateful to the great order for their felicitations, and it is hardly necessary for me to say that I rely with entire confidence upon the loyalty and help of the Supreme Council and the thousands of citizens whom it represents."

Coolidge to Honor Unknown Soldier.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. — President Coolidge will follow the Armistice Day custom established last year by President Harding by going to Arlington, accompanied by Secretaries Weeks and Denby, and laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Mr. Harding expressed the hope that his successors in office would follow the custom.

Aglow With Beauty---the Store and its Stocks

From the Founder's Writings

Fashion is the Governor

It presides in matters of dress, amusement, home adornments, holidaying, and the wisest of men and women are puzzled to give the reasons for it.

Yet the fact is accepted—"One might as well be out of the world as out of the fashion."

And it has to be—that this Store must have close relations with Paris for women's dress fashions, and with London for men's toggery to keep New Yorkers face to face with the latest of everything.

Simplicity—again a dominating feature in smart footwear—is reflected in the trim, graceful lines of this new afternoon shoe. It is made in the much-favored slip-on fashion, the goring of silk elastic over the instep being cleverly concealed by a pleated ribbon cocarde. The toe of "Ninon" is rounded in the approved manner, and the slender heel is of Spanish inspiration.

In black patent leather, $16; in French bronze kidskin, $17; with cut steel buckles an additional charge of $6 will be made.

$200,000 PLEDGED FOR JEWISH FUND

ZANGWILL SENDS LETTER

Louis Marshall, Samuel Lamport and Felix M. Warburg Among the Speakers.

A campaign to raise $500,000 for Jewish education was launched at a dinner given last night by the Jewish Educational Association at the Hotel Astor. Eleven hundred persons attended. Samuel C. Lamport presided.

After speeches by Louis Marshall, Mr. Lamport and Felix M. Warburg, the sum of $200,000 was pledged to the cause.

Judge Rosalsky, active campaign Chairman, stated that the assembly last night was not the result of sporadic efforts but of two years of unremitting labor.

"The initial fruition of the work of this association," he said, "is one of the finest manifestations of the abiding interest of the Jews of New York in Jewish religious education."

The work of the Jewish Educational Association in the observance of educational week was praised in a letter from President Coolidge addressed to Judge Rosalsky.

Israel Zangwill, in a letter to Dr. David de Sola Pool, expressed his good wishes and interest in "the gigantic effort being made today to grapple with the question of Jewish education in America, for on it hinges the whole future of the great American Jewry."

"In my recent speech," Mr. Zangwill continued, "at Carnegie Hall, I labored to convince the American Jewish Congress that no merely racial aggregation of our people can last except it be in a homeland of its own or in one of those old East European milieus where ancient racial minorities leading a mass life are part of the historic and natural order. Even in these communities, however, though our people may have been unconsciously preserved by the will to live of the toughest race in history, the conscious conserving force has always been religion. Still more is Judaism—the frontier of fiery faith—the only means of preserving small and scattered communities.

"I do not believe in 'Jewish' education if that merely means artificially teaching children the Hebrew language and history, for that is only carrying on the race isolation, which I do not value except under autonomous conditions, such as in Palestine or in any other political Jewish territory.

"But if it means teaching you children Judaism, then you are placing the great American Jewry on its only right basis.

"I know how abysmal are the depths of Jewish ignorance in the young generation, but the young generation is sometimes wiser than its elders, and when you have put before it a Judaism which can really be practiced in America you will find gigantic campaigns no longer necessary. I write in a sincere effort to bring light, not discouragement, to your great gathering."

Orders Investigation of Outlay on Bridge and Tunnel.

An investigation of the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission has been ordered by Governor Silzer, who has appointed Edward L. The inquiry is to cover both the money spent in the construction of the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River and for building a bridge over the Delaware River for which New Jersey has obligated itself in the sum of $23,000,000.

BANK TELLER KILLED BY A MOTOR TRUCK

S. H. MacDowell of Bowery Savings Was on His Way Home in Brooklyn.

DRIVER CAUGHT IN CHASE

Three Others Die in Day's Accidents and Many Are Injured.

Samuel H. MacDowell, paying teller of the Bowery Savings Bank, was instantly killed by a motor truck at Bedford Avenue and Pacific Street, Brooklyn, at 8 o'clock last evening. It was not until a policeman in civilian's clothes chased the vehicle in a commandeered automobile for more than a mile that the chauffeur was arrested on a homicide charge.

Mr. MacDowell, 50 years old, was on his way to his home at 1,179 Dean Street, when he was struck. He was hurled five feet to the side. The driver of the truck was Harold Kern, 19, 4,723 Eighty-eighth Avenue, Woodhaven, Queens. Kern denied that he fled from the scene of the accident. He declared that he did not know that his truck had run down MacDowell. The truck was owned by the Hensohn Express Company of 9,117 Seventy-seventh Street, Woodhaven.

Philip Garfano, 33 years old, was instantly killed, and his father, Anthony, 63 years old, seriously injured yesterday when the son drove the motor truck in which they were riding into the path of a west-bound train at the Bohemia crossing, Oakdale, L. I. They lived at [illegible] Pacific Street, Brooklyn, and were employed by Gustave Vogel, manufacturer of bakers' supplies, of Gates Avenue, Brooklyn.

When an automobile in which were five persons crashed into the abutment of the bridge over the Lackawanna Railroad at Landing, near Lake Hopatcong, N. J., at dawn, one of the occupants, Leo Henry of Wharton, N. J., was killed. Daniel Laughlin of Wharton received a fracture of the skull and was removed to a hospital in a dying condition. William Terschback, driver of the car; Joseph Kiser and Mrs. Susan Thurston, all of Wharton, were cut and bruised.

Child Is Killed.

Catherine Bochetto, 5 years old, was fatally injured last night when she was struck by an automobile in front of her home at 613 Monroe Street, Hoboken. She died in St. Mary's Hospital several hours after the accident.

Eight persons were injured at 8 o'clock last night when a southbound surface car ran into a five-ton motor truck at Canal and Centre Streets, overturning the truck onto a touring car. John Cassella and Harry Heller, riding on the truck, were removed to Beekman Street Hospital with internal injuries. Charles De Vlerner and his mother, Louise, of 1,285 East Ninth Street, Brooklyn, occupants of the touring car, received slight bruises. Louisa De Filippi, 16 years old, and her mother, Gialorme, both of 387 Forsyth Street; Eva Sidler, 42 years old, of 525 Fifteenth Avenue, Newark, and David Krabowsky, 21 years old, of 699 Washington Street, passengers on the surface car, were cut by fragments of the car windows.

Charles Eberhardt, 31 years old, of 49 Jefferson Street, West New York, N. J., was removed in a critical condition to Bellevue Hospital last night after he had been knocked down by a commercial car at Tenth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street.

CHURCH COUNCIL HONORS COOLIDGE

Congregationalists Make Him Honorary Moderator—Favor Union With Presbyterians.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 17.—President Coolidge was elected today Honorary Moderator of the twentieth triennial meeting of the National Council of Congregational Churches. The election was unanimous by a rising vote.

The Rev. Dr. Potter, Moderator, sent a telegram to Mr. Coolidge, telling him of his election, in which he said:

"The National Council of Congregational Churches of the United States now meeting in Springfield, Mass., has this day honored itself by electing you Honorary Moderator.

"The enthusiastic unanimous vote of the council is a witness of our pride in you and of our confidence that in your high office you are serving God and promoting His reign of peace and goodwill in all the earth. God give you strength and success."

At this session this evening Dr. Potter read the following telegram from the President:

"Please convey my thanks to the council for honoring me with the office of Honorary Moderator. The strength of religion is the strength of the State. Your devotion to the cause of righteousness is a guarantee of the permanent security of our institutions."

The council approved today the union of Congregational and Presbyterian denominations proposed by the Presbytery and Congregational Union of Cleveland, the following resolutions being passed unanimously:

"Resolved, That this council has heard with great satisfaction of the steps taken toward organic union by the Cleveland (Ohio) Presbytery and the Congregational Union of Cleveland, and affirms its desire, if possible, to carry this merger to completion throughout the nation.

"Resolved, That the council instructs its Commission on Comity, Federation and Unity to study the plan of union as presented by the Presbytery and the Congregational Union of Cleveland, and present that, or some other, to be submitted to this council at this session as a basis of conference with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, who spoke at a mass meeting this evening, said America was cursed with one divorce to every seven and one-half marriages. He declared the way the Eighteenth Amendment was ignored had made America a laughing stock before the whole world.

"Peace without victory is terrible, but we have a worse thing today, and this is victory without peace," said Dr. Fosdick, as he argued that the most important task before the American people today was to make America Christian.

SCORES GORGAS PLANT SALE

Senator Ladd Says He Expects a Congressional Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Senator Ladd, Republican, of North Dakota, issued a statement today saying he had no doubt Congress would "fully inquire" into the validity of the option under which the Government recently disposed of the Gorgas plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., to the Alabama Power Company.

The action of Secretary Weeks in closing the deal for the plant, Mr. Ladd said, looked to him like "a feverish effort" to get the property into the hands of the power company before Congress had an opportunity to dispose of it. In two opinions, he added, the company's option had been declared invalid by the Attorney General.

KARDOS CREDITORS SEEK LOST $500,000

CHARGES TRADING ACCOUNT

Allegation Is Made That Marks & Graham Offset the Orders of Kardos & Burke.

David W. Kahn, attorney for L. Barton Case, trustee in the Kardos & Burke bankruptcy proceeding, announced yesterday that Mr. Case had served a summons and complaint in an action in the Supreme Court against Marks & Graham, members of the New York Stock Exchange, for the recovery of about $500,000, said to have been used by Kardos & Burke before their failure for $5,800,000 last year in speculation through Marks & Graham.

Mr. Kahn said that papers in the case would not be filed in court until the action began. Powers & Kaplan, attorneys for Marks & Graham, he added, had been granted until Oct. 27 to file an answer. He declared that the suit was the forerunner of many of the kind that would be filed against brokerage firms.

According to Mr. Kahn, the complaint served on Marks & Graham charged that between Jan. 3, 1921, and the day Kardos & Burke failed, the latter firm carried a trading account with Marks & Graham. It also alleged "that Kardos & Burke paid over in cash and delivered securities to the defendants from time to time in large amounts, greatly exceeding $250,000" for margin on their accounts, and that Kardos & Burke also paid commissions to Marks & Graham in the period amounting to "upward of $100,000."

It was charged further in the complaint that when Kardos & Burke, then members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, were thrown into bankruptcy, Marks & Graham closed out their account and there remained an equity of $13,953 due Kardos & Burke. With other amounts stated in the complaint, the total of the alleged indebtedness of Marks & Graham to the trustee for Kardos & Burke was placed at $463,953.

The trustee also alleged that, although the reports of Marks & Graham showed that they were carrying stocks for Kardos & Burke, "that the defendants did not, during such period, carry in their possession, or under their control, large amounts of securities purchased and listed 'long' in said account, but that the defendants made a practice of and did continuously sell securities listed as 'long' in said account shortly after the purchase of the same and did fail to carry such securities and made a practice of and did continuously, upon said Kardos & Burke ordering sales of securities so carried, purchase such securities at or about the time of ordering of such sales by Kardos & Burke for delivery on the latter's sales orders."

Mr. Case also alleges that Marks & Graham made false statements to Peter B. Olney Jr., Referee in the Kardos & Burke bankruptcy inquiry and refused to allow him to inspect the Kardos & Burke account in their books. Mr. Kahn obtained an order yesterday from Referee Olney requiring counsel for Louis Montgomery Kardos, partner in the firm with John Burke, formerly United States Treasurer, to show cause why the bankruptcy hearing should not be reopened.

THRONE OF ROMANCE HERE, SAYS FARNOL

Author of "The Broad Highway" to Paint New York as "the City of Great Adventures."

DWELT IN HELL'S KITCHEN

British Novelist Hobnobbed There With Thugs, Gunmen and Robbers.

Jeffery Farnol, author of "The Broad Highway" and "The Amateur Gentleman," has just arrived from England on his second visit in twenty years, except for a brief trip to cover the Dempsey-Carpentier fight for a London newspaper. According to Mr. Farnol, New York is the "city of great adventures," which will be the title of a book which he expects to write while here.

Twenty years ago Mr. Farnol landed here with $40 in his pocket and no literary reputation. He was on his honeymoon trip and came to seek the forgiveness of his American father-in-law, F. Hughson Hawley, a New York artist. Efforts at reconciliation failed and the young couple went to live in a dismal, rat-haunted studio in Hell's Kitchen, owned by a man named Physioc.

There Mr. Farnol met gunmen, thugs, sharpers and robbers and says that while he holds no brief for the philosophy of these and other habitues of Physioc's den, he found that they were among the most kind-hearted in the world.

Drew on the Underworld.

"They were always ready to lend me a dollar," said Mr. Farnol at the Prince George Hotel yesterday. "I got a great deal of material from the strange characters with whom I came in contact in those old struggling days. I would say there is more romance in New York to the square yard than anywhere else in the world. Why is New York always characterized as a hard, money-grubbing city and Americans always as chasing the dollar when, in reality, the former is full of charm and tenderness and the latter full of kindness and sentiment? O. Henry, I think was the first to discover these qualities.

"I met O. Henry several times in the offices of Ainslie's Magazine. I think it was Will Irwin who introduced him to me. O. Henry was unusually taciturn for an American and I—well, I am an Englishman—so though we saw each other frequently never more than 'how-d'ye-do' passed between us.

"The pleasantest recollections I have of those old days was the time I spent dabbling in painting and theatricals at the old Astor Theatre. One day I was painting some scenery when a down-and-out young man got past the grim stage doorkeeper and strolled onto the stage. 'I've got a fortune here in my pocket,' he said. 'We all have that,' I replied.

Eugene Walter Looking for a Job.

"The young fellow said that he had been a cub reporter in Chicago, but now he was hungry and looking for a job. Finally he got the attention of the producer at the theatre. He pulled out a manuscript and began reading. The producer at first paid no attention, but gradually became more and more interested. When the first act had been read the producer said: 'All right, I'll take it.'" The tarving dramatist was Eugene Walter and the manuscript was that of 'Paid in Full,' one of his greatest successes.

"During this time I was writing 'The Broad Highway.' I offered it to one New York publisher, who accepted it, but subsequently told me that he could not publish it. That was in 1907, the year of the 'money panic,' and the manuscript was returned to me. I put it in a trunk and waited for a more favorable opportunity.

"Finally I gave the manuscript to my wife, who sent it to my mother, in England, ever my surest and sternest critic. There it had many vicissitudes until it was finally accepted for publication.

"I acquired my style and taste for writing through listening to my father read aloud from Cooper, Scott, Dickens, Thackeray, Dumas and Robert Louis Stevenson. When I told my father that I wanted to be an author, he said: 'You can't write. You've not had university education.' So I was sent to work at a forge in a brass foundry. I was fired for not paying attention to my work. One product of that period was Black George, the blacksmith of The Broadway Highway.

"I am going to remain in New York about ten days. I hope to place a serial and get material for my new book on New York. Of course, I find the city changed after twenty years. What progressive city isn't? But that is all superficial. There are more people here, more noise, more light, more buildings, more hopes, more sorrows, more tragedies, more comedies, but underneath it's just the same tender-hearted lovable old place."

ST. MARK'S 'CLINIC' CALLED A SUCCESS

Visiting Clergymen Told That Hundreds Have Been Freed of Nervous Disorders.

RELIGION AND MEDICINE

Two Thousand Persons Treated and 75 Per Cent. Cured, Declares Dr. Cosbey.

The "mental clinic," which for the last three months has been held daily at St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie for the benefit of nervous cases, was attended yesterday by a number of New York clergymen who sought to learn of the methods used. The Rev. Edward Cosbey of St. Mark's, outlined the system pursued, which, he said, is a combination of religion and scientific medical treatment.

"Hundreds of young men and women," he said, "have applied to this clinic for help since its beginning on July 11 of this year. They were for the most part men and women in the bloom of life, embarrassed and hampered by one nervous condition or another. By our course of treatment they have been freed of their nervousness and given back to normal and healthy living.

"We are finding through actual experience something of what religion and medicine, working together in co-operation, can accomplish. We already have treated more than two thousand persons, who came from all parts of the United States, and at least 75 per cent. of these sufferers are virtually cured or are on the road to complete recovery. They came from all walks of life, from the poor tenement dweller to the professional man who in many cases had been forced to give up his work as a result of his mental condition."

Dr. Edward S. Cowles, who is in charge of the purely medical and psychiatrical division of the clinic, also spoke briefly.

"Our method," he said, "is based on the belief that various inter-related forces are necessary in the treatment of patients like ours—the forces of pathology, psychiatry, internal medicine, combined with the spiritual help which every case demands. Every man is fundamentally religious, and we believe we must keep alive this spiritual side, for religion is necessary to complete happiness."

Other speakers were the Rev. Guy E. Shipler, editor of The Churchman; the Rev. Sidney N. Ussher of Welfare Island and the Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie, rector of Grace Church.

It was announced that a reception will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie, 224 East Eleventh Street, for patients of the clinic and others interested.

The Gimbel Store in Philadelphia, founded by the sons of Adam Gimbel, first swung open its portals in 1894. The sales of the Philadelphia Store (and in consequence its buying power) have just about tripled in the past fifteen years.

This is Gimbel Month in New York, as in Philadelphia. One day of Gimbel Month has been set aside as a day of supreme achievement. A day of magnificent selling. It will be known as Founders Day. WEBB GRAND JURY REPORT DUE TODAY

Presentment in Inquiry Into Rich Woman's Death Expected to Clear Husband.

DR. MEYER DISPLAYS ANGER

Denounces Failure to Call Him to Testify—Hearing in Will Contest Tomorrow.

The Westchester County Grand Jury, sitting in White Plains, is expected today to file with Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser, a presentment in the case of the death at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club on the evening of Sept. 25, of Mrs. Gertie Emily Gorman Webb.

The Grand Jury's report is expected to exonerate Charles Webb, the husband. It is also expected, according to officials of Westchester County, that the Grand Jury will urge the authorities to continue their inquiry into other phases than that of murder, the authorities being convinced there is no ground for suspicion of poisoning.

Webb will have an opportunity today to testify further before the Grand Jury. This will be at his own request. He has already told his story to District Attorney Arthur Rowland.

Dr. William J. Meyer, the attending physician, who refused to sign a death certificate and who demanded an autopsy, and William T. Hunter of Devon, Pa., uncle of Mrs. Webb and one of those who suspected murder, were not called before the Grand Jury yesterday, although they were waiting to be called. They promised to be on hand when that body assembles today, asserting they would demand to be heard.

When the Grand Jury adjourned yesterday, without having heard either Hunter or Dr. Meyer, the latter exclaimed to reporters: "It's a dirty, rotten deal. They wouldn't dare pull this even in Russia. Here I was with important evidence to present. I called up the District Attorney and waited two and a half hours in the witness room. Now they tell me to come back tomorrow. I'm going to camp here until I get into that Grand Jury room."

"So am I," said Hunter. "Where can I get a cot?"

The first witness yesterday was Dr. Otto H. Schultze, Medical Assistant to the New York County District Attorney. He attended the autopsy in the Bronxville Morgue on Sept. 26. He reported finding mercury in the organs. He was followed on the stand by Dr. K. T. Kennard and Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, New York Assistant Medical Examiners, who performed the autopsy; by Dr. Davenport West, who attended Mrs. Webb before Dr. Meyer took over the case; Dr. Charles Norris, Chief Medical Examiner in New York, and Dr. F. N. Irwin, White Plains eye specialist, who attended Mrs. Webb.

Drs. Kennard, Gonzales, West and Norris reported that bichloride of mercury, traces of which were found in the viscera in the toxicological examination, did not contribute to death. Their opinion was, as recorded by Coroner Edward F. Fitzgerald, that death was caused by nephritis, endocarditis and a gangrenous condition.

Other witnesses were Mrs. Beatrice K. Brown, a friend of Mrs. Webb for twenty-five years; Irving E. Burdick, the attorney who drew up Mrs. Webb's pre-marriage will; Mrs. Burdick, lifelong friend of Mrs. Webb and at her bedside during Mrs. Webb's last days; Harold J. Crooks, friend of Mrs. Webb, and Mrs. John F. McIntyre, who was in the sickroom several days before Mrs. Webb's death. Mrs. McIntyre is the wife of a Judge of General Sessions.

Surrogate John P. O'Brien yesterday issued citations directing the five contestants of the twenty-line will, in which Mrs. Webb left all of her $2,000,000 estate to her husband, to show cause tomorrow why the deposition of John B. Morrow of 122 Front Street should not be taken in advance of the trial. Morrow will sail for Cuba Oct. 27.

The citations were issued on petition of the husband, Charles Webb, who informed the Court that Morrow frequently saw Mrs. Webb on business matters from the beginning of this year up to August at her office at 280 Madison Avenue. Webb said Morrow would testify that Mrs. Webb was of sound mind and possessed testamentary capacity.

The contestants, the father, stepbrother and three cousins of Mrs. Webb, aver that the testatrix was of unsound mind when she made the twenty-line will on Aug. 25. The father and stepbrother allege fraud, without naming the person suspected.

GREENWICH DROPS SHOOTING OF MAAS

Prosecutor Says Wounded Man Will Not Make a Complaint in the Case.

VICTIM MAKES STATEMENT

Chemist Says He Was Attacked by Man in Yellow Raincoat Whom He Didn't Know.

The investigation into the shooting of Milton A. Maas, the chemist, who was wounded while calling on Mrs. Ida M. Leslie, a widow, at her Sound Beach home a week ago, was virtually ended yesterday by James F. Walsh, prosecuting attorney of Greenwich.

"Mr. Maas probably will be unwilling to make complaint in the shooting," said Mr. Walsh, "and that will end the case. I have arranged to see Mr. Maas at the hospital on Friday."

Dr. George Sherrill, attending Maas in the Stamford City Hospital, said that he doubted if any one would be permitted to see Maas before next week. Police Captain Patrick J. Flannagan gave out in Greenwich the following statement obtained from Maas and signed by him on the night of the shooting:

"My home is at 1,608 Park Avenue, Asbury Park. I came from New York the evening of Oct. 11 on the 5:16 P. M. train. I came direct to Mrs. Leslie's home on Ledge Road, Sound Beach. I stayed in the house from 6:15 to 7:30 P. M. Mrs. Leslie went out on the piazza with her dogs. A few minutes later I heard Mrs. Leslie scream. I went out on the piazza. Directly I saw a man with a yellow raincoat on rush toward me. Without speaking to me he instantly shot me three times in the body. He turned around and I went into the house and lay down on the lounge. I did not know the man who fired at me. I have never been threatened by anybody. I have been a frequent visitor at Mrs. Leslie's house, visiting her three or four times a week during the last Summer. I am 52 years old and was never married. I knew Mrs. Leslie very well and am on good terms with her."

Cobb of Stamford, placing the value of the property at $4,182,708.76, of which nearly $4,000,000 is in listed securities. The value of realty in Stamford was estimated at $126,000, consisting of the decedent's Strawberry Hill residence.

Thousands of Satisfied Customers

Buying good printing is hard—or it isn't

Every good piece of printing that you ever saw is the result of somebody insisting on quality.

There are firms in this country that buy thousands of dollars' worth of printing, and everything they put out is extremely well done. Good printing pays them best, and that is the only kind they want.

Buying good printing is easy for them because they don't do any of the things that inevitably result in a disappointing job.

They know that good printing needs a craftsman to produce it, so they deal with printers who concentrate on better printing.

All their direct advertising is done with a definite purpose. They know what their purpose is and they order their printing sufficiently well in advance to avoid hurried, harried work.

They know that Better Printing requires Better Paper, and their printers are familiar with standard brands of printing papers and the kinds of work for which the different grades are suited.

better paper ∞ better printing

S. D. Warren Company has prepared a series of constructive books on better printed advertising as helps for printers and users of printing. These books are being issued at intervals. Just ask distributers of Warren's Standard Printing Papers for the books in the Warren "More Business Series." To be on the mailing list for this material may help you a long way toward better printing.

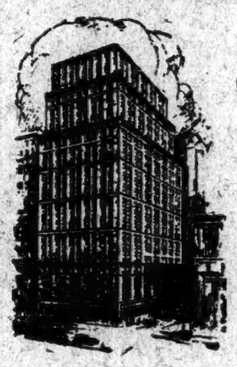
The new Westinghouse Building

Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., Builders



150 Broadway
Corner Liberty St.

Occupancy May 1, 1924

Builders are now ahead of schedule

In the heart of the financial district

There are more great financial institutions within a half-mile radius than in any similar area in New York. The N. Y. Clearing House and the Executive Offices of the Federal Reserve Bank are only about two blocks away. The Guaranty Trust Company Building is opposite, on the southeast corner. The N. Y. State Chamber of Commerce Building is just to the rear.

The building is equipped with every modern office appointment, and served with ten large, modern "Atlantic" elevators of the very finest type, furnished with Westinghouse apparatus. Windows of every office open on the street, or a large court, and structures on every side are settled, so that there can be no new erections to cut off light.

The Westinghouse Companies have leased the 12th to 23rd floors. The remaining space is available in whole floors, suites or offices, and all spaces are ideally proportioned for convenient subdivision.

Let this test show how people get those prettier teeth you see

Present the coupon at your store. Try for ten days a new method of teeth cleaning, which millions now employ.

You see glistening teeth wherever you look today. They add enormously to beauty and to charm. Learn how people get them.

That dingy film

Your teeth are coated by a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

That is why cloudy teeth, unhealthy teeth and gums, became so alarmingly common.

Dental science has now found ways to effectively fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests were made to prove these methods. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to urge its use. Now it has brought a new dental era to the homes of some 50 nations.

It does far more

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits.

Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth. Old-time methods reduced their efficiency. Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

DROUGHT MAY CLOSE JERSEY INDUSTRIES

Hackensack Company to Shut Off Water Supply of 300 This Morning.

2 INCHES OF RAIN NEEDED

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 17.—The Hackensack Water Company will shut off the water supply of all industrial consumers, beginning tomorrow morning, unless two inches of rain falls within the interval. This step, announced by the company, is one of necessity. The measurements in the Oradell shed are down to three fe six inches, and at the Wood Cliff L. Shed the depth is only a few inc. more than seven feet in the deepest part. n the greater part of the lake bottom can be seen plainly.

"We will begin tomorrow morning," said General Manager D. W. French, "to shut off the industrial plants. It means that close to 300 plants will be deprived of a water supply and undoubtedly employees in some cases will be thrown out of employment temporarily.

"It is unfortunate but it cannot be avoided. We must keep supply on hand for domestic and sanitary uses. The situation grows more serious each hour. Two inches of rain would tide us over for a while."

There are at least 10,000 persons employed in the several large plants along the Hudson River in Edgewater, most of whom will be thrown out of work. Among these are the Warner Sugar Refinery, the United States Aluminum Company, Corn Products, Spencer Kellogg, two oil companies and Barrett Tar Company. In Bogota three large paper mills will be affected and one at Little Ferry. In Hackensack there are a wall paper plant and a silk mill employing 300 people.

How to Know
Good Clothes

Point No. 13

Point No. 14
To avoid this happening, the front edge of inside chest pocket is HAND FASTENED to facing, and back of pocket is HAND FASTENED to canvas foundation.

Point No. 15
To prevent armholes from stretching and to eliminate possibility of wrinkles in coat front, the front and back of armholes, before sleeves are put in, are drawn in BY HAND with chain stitches of linen thread.

The collar on good clothes is never so short that the coat appears pulled up, nor is it so long that the collar is loose on the sides of neck, as shown in sketch—

Point No. 16
To avoid these faults the undercollar which determines the length of collar, is put on BY HAND, so length can be accurately adjusted and fullness properly distributed.

Point No. 17

Point No. 18
So that the collar may lie perfectly smooth, the top collar is put on BY HAND by expert tailors.

(To be continued)

The Lasting Good Looks of "23 Point Hand-Tailored" Clothes

Every man wants the pleasure of knowing that his clothes conform not alone to good style but also to good taste.

The confidence of knowing that his clothes ARE correct reflects confidence in his bearing towards others—in his work and in his play,—for a well-groomed man has the similitude of success.

Goodman & Suss Clothes are the result of an exact study and analysis of the style-preferences of the really successful men in every walk of life,—the professional and business men, the screen and stage men, and the collegiate men.

They are clothes that have that Fifth Avenue custom-tailored appearance which is born of a profound knowledge of style, and bred of the "23-Point Hand-Tailored" workmanship put into them.

The hand-tailoring is the kind that makes a suit or an overcoat "stand up"—hold its original shape and lines even after it has been worn for months and months.

Goodman & Suss clothes have the lasting good looks which make a man willing to pay a lot more than he is asked to pay.

BOY AND POLICEMAN SAVE SEVEN AT FIRE

BOTH RESCUED BY OFFICER

Firemen and Hose Blown Back at Tenement Blaze—Neighbors Help the Homeless.

Fire which started last night in a pile of rubbish in a millinery shop on the ground floor of 2,012 Third Avenue, sent clouds of smoke through the four upper floors of the tenement and almost trapped Mrs. Jennie Marino and her six children in their second floor front apartment. Emilio Marino, the eldest child, carried out the other children, but was overcome by smoke when he returned for his mother.

The alarm was turned in by Patrolman O'Neil. He reached the scene as Emilio staggered from the tenement with his second brother. Emilio, almost overcome, told the patrolman that his mother was trapped on the second floor. O'Neil tried to get to her by way of the stairway, but was driven back by the smoke. He then went to the second floor of the next building, broke down a door, kicked out a front window and crawled along a ledge to the Marino apartment.

While this was going on Emilio crawled up the tenement stairway to his apartment. When Patrolman O'Neil climbed in through the window he found the youth lying on the floor and Mrs. Marino unconscious. He first carried Emilio to safety over the narrow ledge, and brought Mrs. Marino out on a second trip by the same route.

Neighbors cared for the Marino family while O'Neil re-entered the building as the firemen arrived. On the third floor O'Neil found two men, groggy with smoke, and led them from the building by way of a trap door in the roof. Firemen used their axes on the door to the millinery shop, and as they broke it down a back draft hit them and hurled four or five firemen with two lines of hose to the curb. The fire was under control twenty minutes later. The loss was estimated at $2,000.

His old brush and shaving soap were dear to his heart but he gave them up for

Barbasol

They had served him well for years—the favored brand of shaving soap and the well-softened badger brush that daily prepared the copper-wire stubble for the razor. It was hard to give them up—almost as difficult as when, a few years before, he gave up the little bay mare and the old sidebar buggy to become an ardent convert to the motor car.

But customs change. The old order passes. The world moves forward. You cover thirty miles an hour as easily today as formerly you covered ten—and three minutes is ample shaving time, instead of fifteen. Time is the essence of this age—and Barbasol comes into the picture as one of the important, modern time-saving factors.

What is Barbasol?

Barbasol is just what its name indicates: Barb—beard; sol—short for solvent; beard solvent, taking the place of brush and lather.

But Barbasol is more than merely the modern, effective beard softener. It is both beard softener and beard stiffener. For, while the emollient content of Barbasol reduces the resistance of the beard's texture, the film of Barbasol spread over the face, filling the tiny areas between the hairs, holds each hair upright—so that the razor cuts straight through.

How to use Barbasol

Barbasol means comfort during as well as after the shave. After you have washed your face in the morning, rinse off all soap but leave it wet. Now smear on Barbasol—not too sparingly, nor too generously; just enough to cover the beard with a thin film. Now shave it off.

A million men used Barbasol this morning, saving more than twenty years in a day

A million men this morning and new thousands every day are experiencing the comfort, ease and swiftness of shaving with Barbasol—with an average time saving of 10 minutes per man, a total of twenty years per day, formerly spent in lathering, rubbing in and preparing the beard.

Give yourself a fair trial of Barbasol. Send 10 cents and

Get this week's trial tube

The generous trial tube of Barbasol contains sufficient for a week's shaving of the average beard. Do not start with a prejudice. Do not pre-judge Barbasol by any other preparation. The Barbasol idea is not new. Barbasol results are new. It is not easy to disturb the habits of a lifetime. That is why we provide a trial tube. Follow instructions carefully; most important of all, be sure the face is thoroughly wet before applying Barbasol.

Why COLE ADOPTED BALLOON TIRES in preference to 4-WHEEL BRAKES

But not everybody is willing to accept four-wheel brakes in order to get that result.

Balloon Air-Cushion Tires do everything that four-wheel brakes are supposed to do. They do it better. And they do a great deal more.

Balloon Tires are specially constructed giant cords, 7 3/10 inches in diameter, engineered for low inflation, carrying only 35 pounds.

Their action is such that if Balloon Tires had come first, nobody would ever have thought about four-wheel brakes.

The whole function of four-wheel brakes is not to lock the wheels any tighter—because ordinary brakes already lock the wheels. It is to bring twice as much braking tire-area in contact with the road.

Because of the increased contact area a car which can be stopped in 100 feet when equipped with ordinary tires, stops in 58 feet with Balloon Tires.

All in all the Balloon Tires on Cole cars give you FOUR distinct advantages:

—Comfort
—Safety
—Economy
—and double braking capacity.

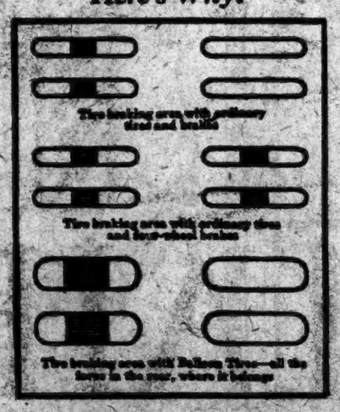
Here's Why!



Firestone Balloon Air-Cushion Tires are standard on Cole Aero-Volante and optional on all other Master Models

The Leadership of Quality

Frenzied production has no place in the Wills Sainte Claire program—

The dominating ambition at the Wills Sainte Claire factory is not, how many cars can we build—but how fine can we build them.

Economy of production there must be—but economy is best served not by forced volume that destroys quality—but in the purchase of the finest materials known to the automotive industry—in a machine equipment that has no superior anywhere in the world—in a painstaking precision of manufacture that insures untold years of gratifying service.

To produce a car of the Wills Sainte Claire type we must have not only the most modern methods of manufacture but we must add to that the old fashioned spirit of craftsmanship that refuses to sacrifice quality or character even for the sake of volume.

The Wills Sainte Claire has been accorded an enviable position of leadership among the fine cars of America.

It has earned that position of leadership because of the marvel of its performance—because of the millions of miles of care-free, contented service that it has given to thousands of owners—

It will maintain that position of leadership because of the engineering and manufacturing genius that is back of it and because of the determination of its builders to make of it always the highest expression of motor car craftsmanship.

It is the only car with a 60 degree overhead valve and overhead cam motor—the construction of highest efficiency and most ready accessibility.

It is the only car in which belts and chains have been entirely eliminated from the power plant, thus insuring smooth, quiet operation, freedom from trouble and a marked saving in power.

It is the only car in which Mo-lyb-den-um steel is used for all parts subject to stress or strain—thus insuring longer life, greater endurance and a wide margin of safety.

It is the only car having torpedo propeller type fan, gear driven and with automatic speed regulator to increase efficiency and save power.

It is only the car having the specially designed Wills Sainte Claire thermo-siphon cooling system, insuring constant temperature control.

CALLED TO HOTEL; ROBBED OF $4,600

LURED BY TELEPHONE

Victim Says Police Told Him to Keep Quiet—Declares They Have Done Nothing.

A hold-up in a room at the Hotel Breslin, which the police and hotel management had kept secret for a week, was made public yesterday by Henry Schiff, a silk jobber, of 114 East Twenty-eighth Street, the victim. Schiff told reporters that he had been lured to the hotel, had been held up in a room by three armed men, two of them masked, and had been robbed of $3,000 in cash and about $1,600 worth of jewelry.

Schiff said the robbery occurred a week ago yesterday. A man who identified himself as "Mr. Barnett" telephoned to him that day that he had a large quantity of silk for sale and invited him to Room 1120 at the Breslin to inspect some samples. Schiff went to the hotel desk, learned that "E. F. Barnett" had registered two days before and went up to the room.

"Mr. Barnett" met Schiff at the door and as the silk jobber stepped in his host swung the door to and locked it. Two other men then entered from the bathroom. Both were masked.

The three men had pistols. "Mr. Barnett," who seemed to be the leader, forced Schiff to hold up his hands while the other two searched him.

"Now do what you're told and keep quiet," said "Mr. Barnett" to Schiff, "or you'll be croaked."

The robbers took Schiff's wallet, containing $3,000 in cash, and stripped him of all his jewelry, including a $1,000 diamond ring, a scarf pin, and gold watch and chain. They put a pillow slip over his head and tied him to a chair.

"Don't make a move" "Mr. Barrett" warned as the three left the room "or we'll come back and kill you. We'll telephone to have you released in twenty minutes. Keep your mouth shut when they come up to get you. If you tell anybody about this, we'll stick you up again sometime and croak you for sure."

A few minutes after the robbers left the room Schiff worked his arms free and got the pillow case off his head, with his legs still tied to the chair, he kicked about until he was able to reach the telephone to notify the desk. A clerk and house detective went up and released him. Detective Quinn of the West Thirtieth Street Station went to the hotel in response to a call.

The advice to keep quiet, given to Schiff by the robbers, was repeated to him by the police, according to Schiff, who said:

"I was told by the police not to tell the newspapers anything about this, but the police have shown so little interest that I think it's time something was done. I am a taxpayer and pay heavy taxes. I have telephoned the police of the West Thirtieth Street Station several times, but outside of sending a detective to the hotel about the robbery they have done nothing. They have not given me a chance to look over the photographs of the thieves in the Rogues' Gallery to see if I could identify any of the robbers. I think the way they have handled the case is a downright shame."

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

Alexander Borovsky, Pianist.

The first American recital of a Russian pianist, Alexander Borovsky, known in Europe but hitherto a stranger to this country, was given last evening in Carnegie Hall. It displayed a singular personality, a singular outlook on the art of playing the piano. The first impression was cheering.

Mr. Borovsky's program may be said to have contained little that was well known to even persistent frequenters of piano recitals and not a little that piqued curiosity. Busoni's transcription of Bach's organ toccata in C; a larghetto by Mozart; a gigue by Loeilly, improved by Mr. Godowsky; Wilhelm Friedemann Bach's transcription of what was styled the "cadence and introduction from one of Vivaldi's organ concertos, evidently also improved by somebody; then a group of pieces by Prokofieff, Stravinsky and Scriabin, and another of pieces by de Falla, Albeniz and Liszt.

Perhaps what Mr. Borovsky is and can do was most succinctly shown by his playing of the piece put down as "Fragments from the Ballet Petrouchka" by Stravinsky, an assemblage of glittering and intricate passages and unrelated bursts of tone, dimly recognisable by those who have seen the ballet and heard the orchestral suite derived from it. Nothing could have been more coldly brilliant and facile, more perfectly competent and complete in every way that was demanded; or more unmusical and remote from what is demanded or expected of music.

There was little on the program, indeed, that demanded emotional disclosure or warmth of expression; and Mr. Borovsky showed little of either. He has a great command of finger dexterity and strength of arm, of dynamic gradation of tone and of pianistic effect, icily clear and dazzling as the polar snowcaps. He removed Busoni's transcription as far as might be from any suggestion of what Bach's piece is in its original form, by his manner of treating it, as he did the son's transcription of Vivaldi, wherein his most notable effect was a thunderous crescendo. He left little Mozartean genuinity in the larghetto, but to put much vivacious clarity into it.

Exactly Mr. Borovsky's style is needed for Prokofieff's scherzo and "Visions Fugitives," which are like the clicking of a highly efficient piece of modern machinery most cleverly put together. Scriabin shows himself in the three pieces played distinctively a salon composer, leaning heavily on Chopin, and perhaps Mr. Borovsky made his nearest approach to warmth in the languorous "Poetico."

He undoubtedly displays remarkable powers in a distinctly limited field; and these were more heartily recognised with generous applause by a large audience that included many musicians.

Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Yesterday was regarded as a red letter day in the musical fortunes of Rochester, for the newly formed Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra began its series of symphony concerts in the beautiful theatre which was built about a year ago by George Eastman as part of his dearly cherished scheme to make his city a true home of musical art.

Since its opening the Eastman Theatre has been in constant use for the display of moving pictures, with an orchestra of between fifty and sixty members, who form the nucleus from which the Philharmonic Orchestra has been built up, with, of course, important additions to its membership. In Mr. Eastman's scheme to foster the musical tastes of Rochester the moving pictures have been regarded as a lure to the music, and particular care has been taken to give good music with the pictures.

But now the Philharmonic Orchestra begins a new stage in the musical life of the place, in which a wide repertory of orchestral music will be heard first under the direction of Eugene Goossens, and next under Albert Coats.

Mr. Goossens has a high reputation as a conductor not only in London but in several of the principal centres of Europe, where his success has been conspicuous, particularly in the production of native works. But what gives him peculiarly to fill such a post as this is that he has turned the worst defect of English orchestral performances, its paucity of rehearsal, to artistic profit. He has learned how to make the most of a limited rehearsal time, and though he only arrived in this country a fortnight ago, and since then has had only sixteen hours' rehearsal with a more or less unformed orchestra, he was able to give a perfotmance of important works at this first concert in a way which showed the orchestra to be already something more than a collection of good players — interperative body which should within a short time under such leadership as his become a first-rate organization.

The program of this concert had been framed to be as comprehensive as possible and to appeal to the best in popular taste. It began with the overture to "Tannhauser" and the first part also contained Dvorak's violincello concerto, the solo part played by Joseph Press, principal violoncellist of the new orchestra; Debussy's "L'Apres Midi," with lighter pieces by Rimsky-Korsakoff and Percy Grainger.

The scheme reminded one a little of the London promenade concerts, which under Sir Henry Wood, have done much to arouse interest in and love for music among much the same class of amateurs as these Rochester concerts are intended to reach. But there was one important difference in the type of program which is all in favor of Rochester, namely, that Mr. Goossens saved the best of his music till the last, following a comparatively light first part with a very careful and well studied performance of Brahms's second symphony to fill the second part.

The large audience, which appeared very nearly to fill the theatre, designed to seat over 3,000 persons, listened with silent attention. There seemed to be no disposition to leave before the end, and the result wholly justified the bold policy. Mr. Goossens was enthusiastically received on this his first appearance in America and the occasion was one on which all concerned may be congratulated.

One other point in Mr. Eastman's liberal policy deserves to be recorded here, and that is that the highest price of seats for these concerts is 50 cents each, and apparently every seat in the sumptuously fitted theatre is equally good. In these conditions it seems that the beginning of this orchestra may work an important development in the spread of music of the highest class.

Full House Greets Josef Fuchs.

Josef Fuchs made his appearance last evening at Aeolian Hall, with a full house that was, by the associated managers' recent action to suppress passes, a wholly paying one. He played Handel's violin sonata in D, Bach's chaconne, Saraste's "Gypsy Life" and arrangements by Kreisler. Before these last was the young Korngold's incidental suite to Shakespeare's "Much Ado," which had been played here by Elman and in its orchestral form by Bodansky. Mr. Fuchs has strength, poise and calm that discovered melody in his well-chosen classics and made almost melodious his modern composers, too.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"White Desert" will be produced at the Princess Theatre tonight.

A musical comedy entitled "Hearts and Flowers" will be produced soon by Rufus LeMaire, with Eleanor Painter as its star.

Grace Filkins, Marion Barney and James Spottswoode have been engaged for "Katy Didn't," which will be produced in Stamford on Oct. 29.

Walker Whiteside will begin another tour in Louisville on Nov. 5. He will star in "The Hindu," "The Master of Ballantrae" and "Mr. Wu."

The second program of the Grand Guignol Players, opening next Monday at the Frolic Theatre, will include "Nounoche," by Henri Duvernois; "Au Coin Joli," by Frederic Boutet, and "L'Horrible Experience," by A. D'Ennery and Charles Petitjean.

According to authentic report, "The Dancers" is still the reigning success in London, as it has been for many months. It is an actor's play, written by Gerald du Maurier who created the leading part. That sort of thing always means an amiable character and a succession of striking scenes. It rarely means a coherent and finely articulated play, and "The Dancers" is far from that. Richard Bennett, who takes du Maurier's part at the Broadhurst Theatre, gives a sensitive, manly and indeed very elevated performance; but he does not succeed in knitting the play into an integral whole, or in working it out to a significant conclusion—a feat that is probably quite impossible.

So far as the play is anything definite, it is the tragedy of Jazz. The dancers are two, a girl in London society and an inmate of a saloon dansant in wildest Canada. Between these two stands Tony, "a soldier of fortune." In the opening scene as played in London (it is a flashback second scene as played here) Tony, who runs the dance house, is revealed as a romantic young adventurer dreaming always of an English schoolgirl with whom he broke a fork of hazelwood ten years ago. Maxine, the dancer in his employ, loves him as romantically and chastely as he loves Una. News comes that he has fallen heir to a great title and fortune, and he bids Maxine farewell.

When Tony arrives in England the audience has learned that Una is with child, the father being a dancing partner, fellow-victim of the intoxication of jazz, whom she does not and cannot love. When Tony informed her by cable, in a message through which blows a fine breeze of boyish romanticism, that he was coming home to marry her, she did not refuse him. When he appears—ardent, humorous and finely in earnest—she falls in love with him, as if for the first time. But the deception which she intended is this rendered impossible and she takes an overdose of the drug she has used to brace her against the excitement of the dance. In the third act, six years later, Tony meets Maxine, who has now become a world-famous dancer, and the broken romance of the Canadian backwoods is mended.

The story develops in full measure a characteristically English vein of sentimentalism and idyllic romance; but one must add that it is told with an equally full measure of English reticence. Scenes that seem destined for melodrama, or at least for a highly emotional treatment, stop short with a well-mannered suggestion, and the dialogue continues in the even tenor of its way. Doubtless the play has a message, a moral if you will; but that is even more decorously veiled. One gathers, never the less, that a thoroughly jassed society is not by way of carrying on the English tradition—that a self respecting dance-hall inmate is the more worthy mother of future manhood.

Doubtless Mr. du Maurier has a lightness and a grace of adventurous young manhood which lie somewhat beyond Mr. Bennett's scope, but it may be doubted whether he is able to invest the part with a greater charm of mind and high intensity of spirit. Last night's performance was of memorable dignity and fine spiritual intention—youthful, too, in its racy vigor and breezy enthusiasm. Florence Eldridge as Una and Kathlene Macdonnel as Maxine are thoroughly competent. Miss Eldridge carries her scene of mingled love and despair with genuine tragic power.

The Canadian scene is well managed and highly colored, after the English conception of frontier life. The scenes back home are beautifully costumed and set.

RECEIVER FOR FILM CO.

Percival Waters Named by Court to Run Triangle Concern.

The Triangle Film Company, 1,457 Broadway, was placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday by Federal Judge Learned Hand, acting on the petition of Adam and Charles Kessel, with claims aggregating $93,930. Percival L. Waters, who became President of the company after its reorganization in 1919, was appointed receiver under bond of $10,000.

Appointment of the President as receiver of the bankrupt company, counsel explained, was due to the success of Mr. Waters in paying off debts of the Triangle Film Company since he took charge of its management. The petition shows that the company, which was incorporated under the laws of the State of Virginia in 1915, had been actively engaged up to 1919 in producing and distributing motion pictures, that all its stock had been sold to the public and that its debts which were responsible for the reorganization amounted to $2,580,000.

After taking over management of the company Mr. Waters, according to the petition, paid off $2,000,000 of the company's obligations. But the market for pictures no longer is good, according to the petitioners, and it became necessary to resort to bankruptcy proceedings.

Circle Players to Give "Publicity."

The Circle Players, a new organization, will make its first production at the Earl Carroll Theatre on Sunday night, Oct. 28, when it will give a single performance of "Publicity," a comedy by Joseph Michael. On the advisory board of the organization are Alla Nazimova, Eva La Gallienne, Frank Reicher and Louis K. Anspacher.

Virginia Rea, Soprano, Pleases.

Virginia Rea, a soprano who, like others more famous, had become known beyond her home town of Louisville, Ky., through voice records on the phonograph, gave her first New York recital before a matinee audience yesterday at Aeolian Hall. She has sung to some extent on tour and she had confidence to essay an old favorite scene and air for soprano from Thomas's "Hamlet." Songs in Italian, French and English, pleasantly delivered in a voice of good range and youthful brightness, pleased her hearers. Among the last were Walter Kramer's "Song Without Words" and a Castilian "Donkey's Burial" arranged by Kurt Schindler.

Michel Hoffman a Facile Violinist.

Michel Hoffman, violinist, whose only appearance previous to a Town Hall recital last night had interrupted his studies midway, showed pluck and perseverence in returning now for critical hearing hitherto denied him. He is a facile player, as shown in Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Chanson Arabe" and Bazzini's trifling "Ronde des Lutins" while, on the serious side, he prefaced Bruch's concerto with a suite of some length by Eduard Schutt. Mr. Hoffman himself had an original composition, out of the ordinary, entitled "After the Pogrom," and awaited with interest by many listeners. He gave also Kreisler's "Gitana" and the "Carmen" fantasy of Hubay.

John Barrymore in 'Hamlet' Nov. 26

John Barrymore will return to the New York stage in the rôle of Hamlet on Nov. 26, when he will begin an engagement of three weeks at the Manhattan Opera House. He will then go on a short tour, and will probably be seen in London in the rôle in the Spring. He is at present in California finishing a motion picture.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, OCT. 18, 1923.

THE PART ABOVE THE WHOLE.

President Coolidge is reported to have made in regard to railway freight rates two suggestions which appear to counteract each other. He would have the rates on anthracite coal for export to Canada or elsewhere made higher than those within American territory. But he would have the similar rates on wheat made lower. It would appear that consumers in Northern New York are filled with rage as they see hard coal on its way to Canada on the basis of the cheaper "long-haul" rate, but that breadeaters near Newport News or Galveston witness with delight shipments of wheat to foreigners at a lower charge than to themselves. What is the explanation of the supposed difference? It may be that anthracite is thought of as a tight little Pennsylvania monopoly which ought not to enjoy the usual advantages of long-distance freight rate-making. The farmers, on the other hand, may be pictured as the free, struggling sons of freedom on the soil, for whom too much cannot be done. Whatever the theory, this making flesh of one and fowl of the other is a curiosity under a Government that stands for equal and exact justice to all.

It is the mental attitude in all this matter which is most significant. Little by little we have become habituated to the idea, or at least to the practice, of class legislation. Repudiating it in principle we have allowed it subtly to make its way in fact. Particular interests were never so unblushing or strident in demanding laws for their especial benefit as they are today. Many causes have contributed to this change. The breakdown, or at any rate the impairment, of government by party is one of them. How there can be a survival of a general national interest taken by lawmakers as their guide and norm, when everybody is putting local and selfish and class concerns first, is a question to which it is hard to find an answer.

BAR ASSOCIATIONS AND JUDGES.

Twenty Judges of the Superior Court are to be elected in Chicago for full terms next month. One vacancy on that bench and two vacancies in the Circuit Court are to be filled. The Chicago Bar Association, through its Committee on Candidates, which includes the present President and a dozen or more past Presidents of the association, has made a report on the candidates for these twenty-three Judgeships. It is a model of what such a report should be. It examines and "marks" the candidates. It gives every voter who doesn't abjectly worship party names and emblems the means of selecting the persons best qualified for Judges in the opinion of eminent lawyers not afraid to give an opinion.

Some candidates are just "qualified." That is the minimum of acceptability. Some are "well qualified." A few are "exceptionally qualified." One is "fairly well qualified." Another "is a lawyer of fair "ability, but we do not consider him "qualified." Nor is still another, who is a lawyer of "average ability." Another of a type well known here has been active politically for many years, and is a ready and forceful "speaker, but he does not possess the "requisite qualifications for the office." Another "has been active in politics and business," but "his experience in the general practice of "the law has not been such as to qualify him for the position." Twelve sitting Judges of the Superior Court are all recommended for reelection. The committee manifests at times a candor that must surprise our daintier local bar associations. Thus it says of one Judge:

> His record in the law and his integrity is above reproach. His temperamental reactions to incidents arising in his courtroom detract from his efficiency, but because of faithful, upright service he deserves re-election.

A Municipal Judge, a nominee for the Superior Court, "is courageous, "conscientious and industrious. He "occasionally exhibits an uncontrolled "temper in administering the duties of "his office. He is otherwise qualified." Judge SULLIVAN "has demonstrated an unusual capacity for "industry, capacity and good judgment. He is exceptionally well "qualified." So some are put on the honor list, some just squeeze through with a "pass-mark," some are politely "flunked." The Chicago examiners examine. Their report tells something.

Our New York bar associations are more delicate, more tolerant, a mighty sight more timid and less useful. One has approved all but two of the candidates for Justice of the Supreme Court in the First District. Another has generously given a "blanket endorsement" to the whole lot. How much help is that sort of thing to the conscientious voter? He wants to pick out the best ten names. How much assistance does he get from the lawyers' associations? What are they afraid of? Or are they bound by some silly tradition of etiquette? Their Chicago brethren are not so squeamish.

GERMANY'S FOOD TROUBLES.

Food riots in Berlin and elsewhere confirm previous evidence that in some parts of Germany there is a shortage of food. Indeed, there have already been intimations that an appeal will be made to American charity to help feed German children during the coming Winter. But it ought to be clearly understood that there is plenty of food in Germany if it could only be distributed where most needed. Some hastily assume that the lack of supplies is due to the French occupation of the Ruhr. But the more obvious and the sufficient cause is the precipitous decline of the purchasing power of the mark. For months past German farmers have refused to sell their products for paper money of which half the value might vanish before they could get to a bank or shop. For this attitude the peasants have been denounced as selfish and "unpatriotic," and in parts of Germany the looting of farms by wandering crowds has become common. Communist orators on the street corners in Berlin have been promising the people that if given power they would march soldiers through the farms and take food by force, as was long done in Russia.

The root of the trouble has been that Germany has so long had to go without a real medium of exchange. A certain amount of barter could be done by the farmers, but there is a limit to this. It is reported that in Pomerania land owners are beginning to issue money of their own, which passes from hand to hand more readily than do the Government paper notes. The remedy required is plain, and fortunately the Government is working hard to furnish it. The strong hope is that the farmers will be among the first to accept the new currency with something like a gold value, which the Government is about to issue. All German trading waits on the establishment of a stable medium of exchange, and until the farmers get it they cannot be blamed for hoarding food. It will be released as soon as it can be paid for in money that means something.

THE NEW CHIEF.

One by one the great commoners of British public life allow themselves to be elevated to the peerage; if not at home, then abroad. MORLEY, BALFOUR went into the House of Lords; Mr. LLOYD GEORGE prefers a foreign title, and has been solemnly received into the Sioux nobility as Chief TWO EAGLES. The paleface most recently elevated to this dignity was another agile Celt, Mr. THOMAS GIBBONS of St. Paul, who was thus enabled to fight Mr. DEMPSEY as the favorite son of the Blackfoot Nation.

Mr. LLOYD GEORGE deserves the honor, but another tribe should have had first call. Where were the Mandans, supposed to be descended from Welshmen who migrated to these shores with the expelled Prince MADOC in the twelfth century? The learned CATLIN took their claim to Welsh descent quite seriously. They crossed the rivers in boats resembling the Welsh coracle rather than the Indian canoe. Many of them had blue eyes and light hair. Smallpox nearly wiped out the Mandans, but there are some 200 of them left. They should have bestowed the war bonnet and calumet instead of the Sioux, who were infelicitous in their selection of a name for the new chieftain. "Two Eagles" inevitably suggests the principal coin of the realm; it must remind foreigners of our swollen indigestible gold reserve. And it is not deserved by Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, unique among the numerous Britons who have discovered America since the war in that it costs nothing to hear him make a speech.

On Monday Mr. LLOYD GEORGE discovered the Middle West, and at once took to his bed with a fever. This unintended tribute to that celebrated region speaks more loudly than the visitor's golden words. It must be said that as a discoverer of unknown America he is more trustworthy than Mr. D. H. LAWRENCE, for example. Yet he seems too much inclined to let first impressions stand. Because he saw no forts and armies on the frontier between Manitoba and Minnesota he calls Minneapolis "the arsenal of peace." Let him ask the North Dakota farmers what they think of Minneapolis. All that Mr. LLOYD GEORGE ever said about the British landed interest, and more, has been said about Minneapolis by farmers who sell their grain there. The Northwest may be peaceful, but it is a little short on righteousness if its own citizens may be believed.

Our guest is much impressed by the melting pot—more impressed than we are, who see it so often fail to melt. "Yours are not the conflicts of racial ill will and suspicion," he says. The Middle West is, indeed, as Mr. LLOYD GEORGE perceived, a powerful and peculiar region; but it is not altogether a Happy Valley free from human ills. It is measurably free from the sin of militarism, but its inhabitants are members of the human race, and tend deplorably to show human characteristics.

Who knows this so well as the oppressed minority populations of the Atlantic seaboard? Mr. LLOYD GEORGE had already been informed that the Middle West is politically dominant. He doesn't seem to know that it has succeeded in bulldozing the East pretty well all along the line. The Middle West is so powerful that New York dare not call its soul its own. Middle Western morality is forced on us by the Government, Chicago critics stifle us with a cloud of noxious gases and compel us to bow down before Middle Western artists. Some of us feel that it is pretty hard to have ROY HAYNES and BEN HECHT both forced upon us by Middle Western authority. The arsenal of peace? Perhaps; but peace hath her atrocities no less renowned than war.

THE SCHOOL TEST.

The decision of the Court of Appeals quiets all doubt as to the lawful method of determining the literacy of new voters. The test by the school authorities which, under the original statute relating to literacy, was an alternative, has now been pronounced by the highest court the only test. By the prevailing opinion of the court, as delivered by Justice POUND, the statute shows the clear legislative intent to abolish the test by the Board of Elections and to put in its place the proof of literacy as certified by the educational authorities. That two other bills passed on the same day made incidental reference to the former method is "clearly attributable" to inadvertence or carelessness.

The responsibility now rests with the State Board of Regents to make provision, through the Commissioner of Education, the Superintendents of Schools and teachers, for the devising of the tests and their general and uniform application throughout the State. It is a pioneer step that New York has taken in prescribing this sensible plan of determining what it is the schools' function to perform for the State—that is, to teach all its citizens the English language. Many other States have preceded New York State in requiring a literacy test, but no other State has adopted this way of making it, and no other State is so well prepared as New York State is to carry it into effect, through its highly centralized educational system.

One effect of this requirement should be to bring the adult immigrants desiring the franchise to seek it by way of contact with those whom we select to instruct our native-born. This puts upon the various districts in the State—as well as upon the State as a whole—the obligation of providing specifically for the instruction of adults, both men and women, who have not learned the language. And it furnishes added reason for urging that the Board of Estimate should give approval to that item in the Board of Education budget for next year which provides for increased compensation to the teachers in the elementary night schools who have the important task of giving this instruction. It should be increased at least to the amount paid teachers of foreign languages in the night schools.

THE MANILA DEADLOCK.

At the opening session of the Philippine Legislature Governor General WOOD was "courteously received." So says MANUEL QUEZON in a dispatch to The World. Nevertheless, the stand of the Legislature against the Governor General is firm. It is significant that General WOOD in his message urged the necessity of maintaining a distinct line of demarkation between the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the Government. He believed that he had cause to complain of encroachments upon his lawful powers as Governor General. On that point Speaker ROXAS said in a public address at Manila on Sept. 10:

> Filipino members of the Cabinet and our other representatives in the Government have encroached on the powers and prerogatives of the Governor General. That is true. We have encroached upon the rights of the Governor General, because in that guise liberties are won.

General WOOD's offense is that he has resisted encroachments upon his prerogatives. He maintains that he has not infringed upon the grants from the United States set forth in the Jones act. The Governor General has extricated the Philippines from their financial difficulties and has reformed defective methods of administration. In brief, he has improved and stabilized the Government. The Legislature has not co-operated with him. The leaders of the Nationalist Party have pressed for independence in a spirit of bitter partisanship. They have regarded General WOOD as a usurper and denied him credit for the reforms he has carried out.

Under the influence of these leaders the Philippine Legislature yesterday adopted a resolution approving the actions of the Independence Commission of last July in demanding the recall of Governor General WOOD. This may be only a gesture. Congress rejected a proposal for independence in 1920. MANUEL QUEZON, SERGIUS OSMENA and the present resident Commissioner at Washington, PEDRO GUEVARA, have demanded the appointment of a native Governor in place of General WOOD.

THE GIRL SCOUTS.

Fortunately, the Girl Scouts' campaign for funds this week does not depend solely upon the revenue from the cookies which the girls are selling here. One of these statisticians who delight in figuring facts in picturesque terms has computed that the Girl Scouts would have to sell exactly 20,005,744 cookies in order to raise the sum of $489,708 needed for their new home and for their budget. Like other similar organizations, the Girl Scouts are once more turning to their friends for financial support.

As a matter of fact, this Girl Scout campaign brings out how little has been done for girls of scouting age when compared with boys. Heretofore the boys have had the best of it. Not only has the Boy Scout organization received generous support, but there have been large contributions to boys' clubs and camps all over the country. In this city much more is done for the boys than for the girls. The same is true in most other communities.

Yet such organizations as the Camp Fire Girls and the Girl Scouts are of great value. They teach a practical knowledge of outdoor life, perhaps even more valuable for those who in after life live in cities than in the country, and also afford an outlet for "gang" activities more satisfactory than that offered in schools and in most homes. Furthermore, the girls who join get a new idea of fair play and co-operation, and of the necessity for discipline and self-control in the interest of others. The Girl Scouts teach, besides, how to cook and to look after the home, and how to turn household activities which too often are done as mere drudgery into work which has a meaning and an object.

Not only has the speeding up of modern life and the tendency toward crowding into cities placed a new premium on all activities which build health and character, but the new position of women in politics and civic affairs has created a demand for preparation for life such as the Girl Scouts give.

A HEALTH LEAGUE.

Whatever the diversity of view as to the political efficacy of the League of Nations in bringing peace, there cannot be two opinions regarding the coordination of effort in the war on disease undertaken by its Health Organization. Fully seventy States—many more than are included in the League itself—are co-operating, working together to spread intelligence, and, by exchanging public health personnel, to stamp out or control preventable diseases. Funds have been voted by the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation to assist the League Health Organization in this extraordinary service.

What has already been accomplished seems miraculous. For one thing, there is practically no yellow fever in the Western Hemisphere. But when it is known, for example, that 36,000,000 persons out of the 40,000,000 in a certain political district of India are infected with the hook-worm disease and that preventable "man-made" malaria has spread over great areas of the world, the vast need for such an international agency must be realized.

It is hoped that in a few years the States represented in the League will be able to meet the cost of the support of the services at present carried forward through a generous subvention by the Rockefeller Foundation. It must give to Americans satisfaction that, though there is no official participation in the League on the part of our Government, we can through a private agency play a leading rôle in initiating such a benign and wholesome work throughout the whole earth.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Much Work for a Small Result.

Highly commendable, and more than a little amusing, is the caution with which the gentlemen who have been testing the powers of an Ohio medium, the Rev. Mrs. JOSE K. STEWART, state such conclusions in regard to her achievements as they have been able to reach. They start by saying that what they saw in the way of producing "messages" on blank cards supplied by themselves constitutes a "prima facie case" and is enough to warrant further consideration of her claims.

Anybody who found such claims interesting would admit as much as that. But some words add that the ordinary magician or prestidigitator creates at least a doubt; such cases at every performance. That is, the spectators cannot see how he effects his marvels; and if, like Mrs. STEWART, he asserted that and he had spirits played the tricks many, perhaps most of them, would be unable to disprove the statement.

That is exactly the condition in which the members of the committee investigating Mrs. STEWART found themselves after she had gone through elaborate proceedings with her cards and flowers—in broad daylight, too!—and had attained the precious message that "Truth crushed to earth will rise again," and a few others of like importance and originality. They had noted no "blatant fraud," meaning, presumably, none that was obvious. But neither is there any of such fraud in the tricks of the professional magician, unless he is a clumsy fellow or the observers are particularly keen-eyed and more than ordinarily well equipped with knowledge ad hoc.

These special qualifications the investigators of Mrs. STEWART claim to have and may possess, but, being modest and careful investigators, of course they would not deny the possibility of a fraud which they could not discover and expose. This makes it look as though they were wasting their time, for, even after they have applied all the tests they can think of, still nothing really will have been proved except that they have not found out how Mrs. STEWART gets the writing on her cards. Why they care how she gets it there is perhaps the biggest mystery connected with what they call a "prima facie case."

Separating Really Inseparables.

That the so-called messages which Mrs. STEWART "precipitates" on her cards merely are musty platitudes, to get which nobody need go to another world than this one, where they are lamentably abundant—that they obviously come from herself and not from the dead to whom she ascribes most of them—these are things properly to be ignored by investigators whose present purpose is simply to determine whether or not certain objective phenomena must be ascribed to powers or capacities out of the ordinary and normal.

That is a legitimate subject of research—as legitimate as are subjective phenomena such as trance speaking and automatic writing. As it is a simpler subject, and as theories regarding it can be based on facts instead of on the mere assertions of a particularly untrustworthy class, these investigators probably are wise in beginning where they do. But the two classes of phenomena have a strong tendency to appear in combination. Mrs. STEWART evidently is a "psychic," which is the same thing as saying that she is a neurotic, and it is fair enough to judge her claims as a whole, not in part.

However it may be as to herself—and the possibilities of honest self-deception are almost infinite—her messages demonstrate their intrinsically fraudulent character for everybody except the convinced spiritists, who say that the sillier and more trivial a "communication" may be, the more likely is it to have come from the Beyond. This these investigators, for the present at least, ignore, as is their right; they also ignore Mrs. STEWART'S habit, familiar to every attendant at a magician's show, of keeping up a constant and distracting chatter as she works her marvels, and her other habit, also familiar, of moving her investigators about and making them, too, talk as well as watch.

After all, the "conditions," though the stage was a garden, were not such as to exclude the thought or the chance of deception, conscious or unconscious.

They Knew When to Give Up.

Showing both wisdom and grace, Dr. THORNWELL JACOBS of Oglethorpe University in Georgia and the Rev. LESLIE WRIGHT, rector of Cranham in England, have seen that the opposition on both sides of the water to the removal of General OGLETHORPE'S body to America was too strong to be ignored and they have given up the plan. Discussion of their purpose had made its execution, whether improper or not, certainly injudicious, and they abandoned it.

That ought to end the unkind, and almost certainly untrue, talk about Dr. JACOBS'S object in seeking to transfer the General and his wife, or what is left of them, to Atlanta. Far more probable is it that he was moved by a sincere desire to pay what he deemed fitting honor to a neglected worthy than that he had devised the removal scheme deliberately and solely to advertise the college of which he is the head. That it would attract attention to the college to have the General's tomb on its campus no doubt he realized, but an incidental advantage is no reason for condemning an undertaking the main objects of which are at once disinterested and commendable.

Whoever feels it absolutely necessary for his happiness to be cynical and unkind might turn from Dr. JACOBS and consider the behavior of those Georgians, in Savannah especially, who developed such a sudden reverence for ancient graves when they heard of the glory that was to be Atlanta's. To begrudge the advertising of another is not so much nobler than is the desire to get advertising for one's self.

It Shows a Sense of Alarm.

Prohibitionists can afford to smile at the news from London of renewed activity on the part of the Ligue Internationale Contre les Prohibitions. That league would not have been formed, with members in many countries, if prohibition had not come to be regarded as a dangerous enemy by those who hitherto have viewed it with scorn or derision.

The delegates now conferring in London are planning defensive measures, not offensive ones, against the spread of the American infection, and that can mean nothing except that they are afraid of the attack which they see preparing.

If the prohibitionists do not like that, they do not know what is good for their cause and a reason for encouragement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in this morning's newspapers that the National Motorists' Association is starting a campaign for the better protection at dangerous railroad grade crossings. This, let me say, is a great and good work. However, as a trained newspaper man I was taught to get at the source of a trouble; no matter what the trouble was, I was to go at and try to explain the source of the trouble. And with knowledge of what I am talking about, let me say that there would not be a single dangerous railroad grade crossing in this country if the aforesaid motorists' association and motor truck companies paid their fair share of the taxes to meet States. There is not a single State in the Union where the motor companies pay their fair share of the taxes, while the railroads of our country are paying in general taxes every year about $400,000,000. The railroads have had one of their best years in the present year in the matter of business, but this business has been done at greater expenditures in wages and materials. I am not objecting to the wages paid to the men, and the cost of materials is a matter for future economic adjustment. While the railroads have been doing this tremendous business of supplying cars to shippers and passenger patrons at these increased costs of wages and materials, the motor truck companies and all motorists' associations should be notified to pay their adequate share of the taxes.

EFFECT OF PULP EMBARGO.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you allow me to comment on the articles in THE NEW YORK TIMES on the "Canadian Freehold Pulpwood Embargo"?

While it has been frequently stated and generally assumed that an embargo on Canadian freehold pulpwood would force many American paper manufacturers to transfer their business activities across the border into Canada, careful inquiry among Eastern manufacturers who are in touch with all of their confreres fails to develop knowledge of any manufacturer contemplating such action.

In the first place, the scrapping of the tremendous investment in a paper mill, with its complicated and expensive equipment, would be economic suicide on the part of any individual or company.

In the second place, should Canada impose an embargo, American paper manufacturers could readily supply the 20 per cent. of the total pulp used that is made from the freehold wood imported from Canada, by purchases of both mechanical and chemical pulp from Germany, Scandinavia and Finland, which is offered freely at the seaboard at prices even lower than pulp can be imported from Canada. Besides this, many practical substitutes for wood are now receiving a great deal of attention, and many of them would serve as excellent substitutes for at least chemical pulp made from wood.

Further, it is pointed out by a man who is well acquainted with the situation in Canada that all Crown land limits which are accessible and contiguous to adequate waterpowers are already in the hands of lessees who would not part with them. He says further, to go to the remote forests which might be utilized in the lower Gulf of the St. Lawrence on the north shore, and there to acquire timberland limits, develop the waterpower, build the mills and establish the industrial towns, would involve an extraordinarily high investment which the owners would find difficulty in financing in the face of the many enterprises now on the books. More and Better Parks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The prodigious growth in population and urban improvements in and contiguous to Greater New York make the proper care and extension of the public parks of the greatest importance. No one can have noticed the unprecedented new residence construction and new buildings for business purposes without being impressed with the necessity of suitable park areas to correspond. These conditions are noticeable in all the boroughs, especially in the Bronx and in Queens, and to quite an extent in Richmond Borough.

It is obvious that at no time in the history of New York have population and building expansion gone forward at such a rapid pace as at the present time.

The difficulty of securing sufficient appropriations for the parks is partly due to the commendable desire of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to keep the tax budget as low as possible; and again, in the view of many who have not looked into the subject, that public parks are a kind of luxury, which should give way to the pressing need of other municipal improvements.

The administration of the city parks appears to be in very good hands, and the earnest desire expressed by the different Commissioners from time to time before the Estimate Board for necessary appropriations should receive the approval of citizens who realize that the parks and their requisite extensions are among the most valuable of the city assets, and that they grow in ever-increasing ratio from year to year.

Emergency Shelter.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A few days ago the New York papers carried a story about a destitute young mother with a seven-months-old baby being sent to the Municipal Lodging House because no other place could be found where she might have free shelter. I refer to the case of Mrs. Josephine Meyers and her baby Francois.

For over twenty years the Children's Aid Society has maintained an Emergency Shelter for Homeless Mothers and Children at 311 East Twelfth Street. It is well known to the various organizations where deserted mothers often appeal for aid, and to the police, who frequently guide mothers and babies to it. If Mrs. Meyers had been directed to the Emergency Shelter, she not only would have received care and shelter free, but she would have remained in the home until she had found employment to support herself and baby. There are no "ifs" and conditions of entrance. A mother is never turned away. If the home should be full when a mother applied, the officers would find room for her in some other place. She would not be turned back on the street.

New York is not the hopeless city that isolated examples, such as that of Mrs. Meyers, seem to indicate. Generous men and women provide the funds to keep our Emergency Shelter going, and it is just what its name implies, a haven in trouble. But it is more, for it not only gives food and a roof, but the real cheer of a home. Under that influence the women find new hope and new energy.

I would be grateful to you for printing this letter on the reverse side of the picture of the coldness of New York.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Governor Pinchot, speaking in Washington recently on prohibition enforcement, suggested that the law could not be enforced until taken out of politics. We wonder if the price of anthracite coal can ever be reduced until the price question is taken out of politics. OBVIOUS.

THE SUN-WORSHIPPER.

When it shall come my time to die—
That time men call the darkest hour—
Bear me apart, and let me lie
In the sun's light,
Where spruce, and pine, and cedar tower
Beneath a cloudless, azure sky.
In some fair glade of fern and flower . . .
And there shall be no Night!

For I have loved the sun's dear light,
That makes to swarm and multiply,
Urges of Life, and, dark despite,
Evolves each day, new-born;
So that Death cannot signify,
And dying's but a season's flight—
An Autumn haze—a Winter sigh,
Ere Spring revives at morn!

Let me have kinship with the earth,
That thirst of re-creation slakes
At the great fountain of re-birth—
The sun!
Be as the littlest flow'r that takes
Resurgent Hope, in come's dearth,
From that which form and hue remakes,
When Death is done!

So, when it comes my hour to die,
Lay me, at least, when all is o'er,
Where sunlight may across me lie,
And leafy shadows play!
For, then, the clear I was before,
Blessed by those ills, shall magnify,
And live, and laugh, and love once more

Not Much Enjoyment, According to This Account.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an interview published on your editorial page of Oct. 15 (Monday), Dr. Hibben of Princeton describes conditions in Germany as he saw them. I have just returned from a three months' study of economic conditions in Central Europe and I hasten to say that it is evident that Dr. Hibben did not see all of Germany. I talked with a great many of Germany's most important men, two Cabinet officers and most of the important bankers, but I also talked with a great many working people. I did not find a German workingman who was getting more than nine cents an hour. Lens grinders were considered lucky with wages of nine cents an hour, and we pay bricklayers $1.25.

This is the upper end of the wage scale. Near the opposite end, but by no means the bottom, are girls who collect the fees paid by those who sit on the benches along the promenade on Unter den Linden (Berlin's Fifth Avenue). These girls receive $2 a month. They feed, house and clothe themselves with this sum. On July 15 one of these girls was discharged; the manager of the park was deluged with applicants for the position. Unter den Linden was badly lighted; Friedrichstrasse (Berlin's Broadway) was scarcely lighted at all, and many streets were in complete darkness.

As for the rural districts, they were no better off. I have photograph after photograph of vehicles, designed to be drawn by two horses, with only one horse attached. I rarely saw a two-horse outfit. It was common to see milk cows harnessed as draft animals. I saw nowhere in Germany (and I visited nearly all of the large cities) a single glass of milk. After trying in every way I could devise to get milk I learned that no one over two and a half years of age could have milk without a doctor's certificate.

It seems inconceivable that the dreadful, daily food riots in town and country could be carried out by a population composed of the "thousands of Germans, in excellent spirits enjoying their food and beer and listening to the music as in the old times" that Dr. Hibben describes. EZRA SOWEN,

Hungary and Her Neighbors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Without entering into a polemic with Prince Bibesco, the Rumanian Minister, I take the liberty of availing myself of your well known sense of fairness to say that when that distinguished diplomat in his letter of Oct. 2, entitled "Hungary's Neighbors" stated that Hungary "* * * was one of the initiators of the war which tried to crush Belgium and Serbia * * *," he, no doubt, unintentionally, but none the less effectively, forgot that it is now established beyond all cavil that, in the fateful days of July, 1914, Count Tisza, then Premier of Hungary, fought against the declaration of war and exhausted every effort for preservation of peace; and when all his protests and all his struggles proved unavailing the Magyar people were driven into the war by their sense of unswerving, though perhaps mistaken, loyalty to their confederates and allies.

In so far as concerns the issue as to the relative standing of Hungary and some of her neighbors along the lines of progress and civilization, may I suggest that, while I greatly admire the unswerving fidelity shown by Prince Bibesco for his people, I realize that he is "an interested witness," and to those who seek unbiased evidence I recommend that the files in our State Department at Washington, D. C., containing reports of such all-American official observers as Brig. Gen. Bandholtz, U. S. A., and others, reciting the benevolent influences and blessings of Rumanian "kultur" during the invasion of 1916, would make "mighty interesting reading."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For the past two Winters a woman who is well known as a wise and generous giver has occasionally sent me tickets for the drama, opera and symphony concerts, to be used by some of the girls who are attending the Manhattan Trade School. While the forty or more tickets which she has sent during the Winter have not gone far among a thousand girls, they have given so much pleasure and inspiration to the few who have been fortunate enough to receive them that I venture to ask, through your columns, if there are not other persons who would like to know of a place where tickets which, for one reason or another, were not to be used by their owners would be used by girls who would very much appreciate them?

The girls in the school are from 14 to 18 years of age. They are being prepared to earn their living in the trades and have little or no opportunity to hear and see the best musical and dramatic productions. They are, in the main, splendidly ambitious girls, who, we are sure, will do much in the future to make industry a better place for women to work in and homes better places to live in. We are trying to supplement the trade training which our girls are receiving by giving them as many outside cultural opportunities as possible.

If, during the Winter, any of your readers have tickets for opera, drama or music which they cannot use, I shall be deeply grateful if they will send them to me for the use of the girls.

A Hungry Man and a French Menu.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the controversy relative to the printing of the Ritz-Carlton menu on the Leviathan in French: French may be all right for those conversant with the language, but unfortunately the vast majority of us "illiterates" have contracted the bad habit of getting just as hungry as the initiated, and then to be confronted with a foreign language is adding insult to injury. Personally I have before now been compelled to resort to the time-honored custom of pointing out such items as "sounded good to eat in print" and trust to luck that I didn't end up with a plate of ice cream and the mustard pickle with which to satisfy the cravings of the inner man.

Why not get down to brass tacks? A menu has one and only one reason for existence i. e., to be an aid to hungry guests (I had almost said "victims") in selecting an appetizing meal commensurate with the resources of their pocket-books (that usually takes precedence over their appetites). Why then make it as hard as possible for them to attain that end?

Arguments to the contrary, a French menu is used because for some God-only-known reason it is thought to lend an air of class or distinction to an outfit purveying to one of the oldest and most homely necessities of humanity. Why this is so I'll leave to the experts to answer; all I can say is that the human animal seems to be built that way. CRAIG CRAVENS.

ARCHITECTS TO SIFT PARK SUBWAY PLAN

Landscape Society Names Committee to Study and Report on Proposal.

NEW PROTEST IS FILED

Transit Board to Confer With Playground Association Directors.

A committee representing the New York Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects was designated yesterday to make a study of the proposed subway through Central Park, planned in connection with the Washington Heights extension of the B. M. T. subway, with a view to referring to the chapter whether in the committee's opinion the plan endangers the park.

The Executive and Park Committees of the landscape architects held a special meeting yesterday to discuss the subway plan. It was decided that no expression of opinion should be given until after a thorough study of the situation had been made by the Park Committee. The members of the Park Committee are Charles N. Lowrie, Chairman, Gilmore Clarke and Carl F. Pilat.

Representatives of the Transit Commission, which has adopted the plan to run the subway under the park, agreed yesterday to meet the Directors of the Parks and Playgrounds Association next week for a conference and discussion of the plan. In the meantime the Parks and Playgrounds Directors will meet today for a preliminary discussion of the project. Maps, showing the plan in detail, have been obtained by the Association from the Transit Commission.

The Columbus Circle League has filed a formal protest against the use of the park for the subway plan, according to a statement issued last night. The league suggests that Central Park West be used for the subway from Fifty-ninth Street to 110th Street, and that a connection be made from the Columbus Circle station of the West Side Interborough subway to a new B. M. T. station at Fifty-ninth Street and Central Park West. Both of the alternate plans adopted by the Transit Commission call for running the subway under the park from Fifty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue to Sixty-second Street and Central Park West.

The Columbus Circle League has been assured that the use of Central Park is unconstitutional and that even a plan will not be adopted by the Board of Estimate," said the league's statement.

HARVEY WINDING UP DUTIES.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—The retiring American Ambassador, George Harvey, who is sailing for home on the Aquitania Nov. 3, plans to leave the Anglo-American diplomatic slate wiped clean when he surrenders his official position at the Court of St. James's. The only business which possibly will be left unfinished when he leaves England is the rum-running issue, which now is before the Financial Conference.

The Dominion Premiers have been fully acquainted with the American proposals for the right of search within a twelve-mile limit from shore, but will not be asked to give their decision until next week, when the full conference agenda will have been outlined to them.

Although the conference decision is expected to be favorable to America, it is understood that British co-operation should not be taken for granted, for such an attitude or expression of opinion from the States might cause irritation here which would possibly hinder early favorable action by the conference.

Ambassador Harvey practically will complete his official relations with the Foreign Office at a conference with Marquis Curzon, the Foreign Secretary, tomorrow. The rest of his stay will be devoted to social functions and in receiving the farewells of his English and American friends.

Today the Ambassador declined twelve invitations to deliver addresses. It is understood that he intends to concentrate his parting message in one speech next Tuesday night before the Pilgrims, the select Anglo-American dining club which, always entertains American diplomatic chiefs upon their arrival and departure from England. Premier Baldwin and Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, also will speak.

PEPPER REFEREES DISPUTE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Recommendations for the adjustment of the long-standing dispute between the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the Atlantic Corporation, a war-time shipbuilding concern of Portsmouth, N. H., were offered by Senator Pepper today in a report to representatives of both organizations. Senator Pepper, at the request of Senator Moses of New Hampshire, Albert D. Lasker, former Chairman of the Shipping Board, and officers of the two corporations, acted as informal referee in the dispute.

MISS SCHIFF WEDS RICHARD B. W. HALL

MISS ELISE F. RICE BRIDE

The wedding of Richard B. W. Hall, a son of Mrs. Edward Wadsworth Hotchkiss by her first husband, the late Benjamin R. Hall, and Miss Dorothy Schiff, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer L. Schiff, and a granddaughter of the late Jacob H. Schiff, was celebrated yesterday afternoon at Northwood, the country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Schiff at Oyster Bay, L. I., which was gay with autumnal foliage and flowers. Suffragan Bishop Herbert Shipman of New York performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. George Talmage of Oyster Bay.

Miss Schiff, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a white chiffon gown embroidered with pearls and having a train of old point lace. Her tulle veil was held with orange blossoms. Miss Alice Wadhams Hall, a sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor and the Misses Margaret Randolph Trimble, Mary Minott, Ada Francke and Phyllis Benkard were the bridesmaids. They were frocked in chiffon shading from yellow to flame color, topped by brown tulle hats wreather with Autumn leaves and carried small yellow and brown chrysanthemums. The bride selected the little Misses Lee and Fifi Laimbeer, daughters of Mrs. William Laimbeer, as flower girls, but the former was ill and could not be in the procession.

Mr. Hall's best man was Elmendorff L. Carr, and the ushers were A. Coster Schermerhorn, Charles H. Sabin Jr., John M. Schiff, a brother of the bride; John Garrett, H. Bartow Farr, Roosevelt L. Clark, Sydney Smith and Henry B. Welsh. A large reception followed the wedding.

The honeymoon will be spent touring by motor and on their return they will occupy an apartment at Seventy-fourth Street and Lexington Avenue.

Mr. Hall was graduated from Williams in 1917. When the United States declared war Mr. Hall enlisted in the navy and was a lieutenant during the latter part of hostilities.

Mrs. Hall was graduated from the Brearley School and then went to Bryn Mawr. She made her début two years ago.

OTHER MARRIAGES.

Miss Frances T. Lyon Weds Sydney E. Brewster in Calvary Church.

Miss Frances Tracy Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Lyon, 1,186 Madison Avenue, became the bride of Sydney Erskine Brewster, son of Mrs. Samuel Dwight Brewster, 635 Park Avenue, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 in Calvary Church. The Rev. Dr. Theodore Sedgwick performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by a large and fashionable gathering, a reception following in the Louis XV. Ballroom of the Ambassador.

JOHN A. STAFFORD IS KILLED BY TRAIN

THREATENED TO END LIFE

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 17.—John A. Stafford, former Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, was killed here this afternoon by an Erie passenger train just after he had left St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was sent last night after threatening to kill himself.

Mr. Stafford, who was Democratic candidate for Mayor of Paterson in 1915, was recognized here as a brilliant lawyer and orator. With the exception of the last few years he had been active in public life and was much in demand both in New York and New Jersey as a public speaker.

Two years ago his wife, to whom he had been married a year and to whom he was very devoted, died. Shortly after her death Mr. Stafford resigned his Federal office in New York before the expiration of his term and returned to Paterson, where he lived with his father, William Stafford, at 417 Main Street. He resumed his law practice, but despondency brought on by the loss of his wife caused him to lead a life of retirement.

Recently Mr. Stafford had been suffering from a nervous breakdown, giving way to spells of dejection that worried his friends. Last night when he was seen by friends in downtown Paterson his condition appeared to be worse than usual. He talked with some of them about how tired he was of living, and as he was leaving them showed them a pistol he was carrying.

Dismayed by his attitude, friends communicated with Mr. Stafford's brother, Bernard L. Stafford, Assistant Prosecutor of Passaic County. He had John Stafford sent to St. Joseph's Hospital for the night.

Early this afternoon Mr. Stafford apparently was in a much more cheerful frame of mind and hospital physicians saw no need of keeping him in the institution longer.

POUNDS CRITICIZES SHIPPING METHODS

BELT LINE TO CIRDLE CITY

Port Authority Head Tells Visiting Merchants This Will Cut Freight Costs.

There is an exaggerated notion that New York, in handling shipping, is up to the point of saturation, Lewis H. Pounds, Commissioner of the Port of New York Authority, told members of the National Association of Manufacturers, here on their second annual export shipping tour, at a luncheon yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria. He declared that because of archaic methods of competition, New York is doing only 10 per cent. of the shipping that it can handle if properly organized.

"Handling of shipping in New York," he said, "has not improved in two generations. What improvement there has been has been based merely on competition for the tremendous volume of business which this port does. And competition is not the right principle in treating with the shipping problem in New York.

"About 75,000,000 tons of shipping are annually taken in and out of New York by rail, and 45,000,000 tons by water. The intense competition for this business has brought about excessive lighterage costs which by organization can be reduced two-thirds. Errors in the past are now recognized. The Port Authority has developed a plan which will extend a belt line around the entire city."

This belt line, he said, will take shipments from the West for New England directly around the city and to the destination, avoiding rehandling, saving time and reducing shipping costs. It is estimated, he said, that more than $1 a ton will be saved by this method. Mr. Pounds illustrated his remarks by saying that it costs as much to distribute a potato in New York after it has arrived here as it does to bring it from Michigan to the city's outskirts.

He announced that President Smith of the New York Central stated a month ago that his road was ready to do its part to make this port a model for the world.

Earl Constantine, secretary to the President of the National Association of Manufacturers, presided. He pictured the unity with which American industry is organizing.

About 200 attended the luncheon. In the morning the delegates inspected the Erie receiving and delivery station at Greenwich and Laight Streets. From there, by autobus, they went to the Chelsea piers and watched shipping at the White Star, American and Atlantic Transport lines. The Cuban American Line pier at Twenty-fourth Street was visited next. In the afternoon the Leviathan was inspected at its Forty-sixth Street pier.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—A disturbance of considerable intensity was central on the Mississippi coast Wednesday night and moving slowly north-northeastward. It was attended by heavy rains in portions of the Gulf States and by southeast gales along the Alabama and extreme Northwest Florida coasts, Pensacola, Fla., reporting a maximum wind velocity of sixty miles an hour. There were evidences of another disturbance over the Central Gulf of Mexico, and still another in the Western Caribbean Sea between Jamaica and the Isthmus of Panama. Pressure was high Wednesday over the Northeastern States and it was high and rising rapidly over the Northwest. In addition to the precipitation in the Gulf States there have been rains within the last twenty-four hours in Tennessee, the lower Ohio, lower Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys, the upper lake region and from Montana westward to the Pacific Coast.

The temperature changes were slight as a rule, except in the central plateau and central Rocky Mountain region and the northern Plains States, where the weather has become cooler. The Southern storm will probably move north-northeastward and it will be attended by showers Thursday and Friday in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the South Atlantic and East Gulf States and in the lower lake region and portions of the Middle Atlantic States on Friday. The weather will remain fair in the North Atlantic States during the next two days. The temperature will not change materially except that cooler weather will overspread the Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys Friday.

Your silent partner— beautiful floors

In catering to a critical clientele, Schrafft's realize that beautiful surroundings are as essential as faultless cuisine. To serve this end, therefore, in the luncheon rooms of their artistically decorated new shop at 16 West Street, Boston, they have installed floors of Gold-Seal Treadlite Tile and Marbleized Rubber Tile.

But harmonious and attractive as these floors are, they have still more than colorful beauty to recommend them. For they are smooth and non-absorbent and things dropped on them never stick to or stain them.

Thoroughly noise-deadening, Gold-Seal Treadlite Tile and Rubber Tile floors aid greatly in securing that quietness so desirable in every dining room, or for that matter, in almost every shop, office or public building. And being resilient they conserve amazingly the energies and nerves of the employes.

These floors, like every other floor installed by Bonded Floors Company, are backed by a 5-year Guaranty Bond issued by the U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty Company. Let us tell you how you can get a Bonded Floor and help you work out your flooring problem. A 'phone call or card will bring a representative to you.

City Officials Assert 1924 Estimates Have Been Pruned to the Limit.

FINAL ACTION ON OCT. 31

Mandatory Items Account for $19,000,000—Bigger Personnel for Fire Department.

There is a possibility that the 1924 city budget, when passed on Oct. 31, will total $375,000,000. While city officials would not venture a prediction as to the ultimate figure, they admitted yesterday that all efforts so far to keep the budget down to this year's figure had been unavailing. After Saturday no increases will be allowed, but decreases are permissible until Oct. 31, when the final budget must be adopted.

"We have tried to keep the budget down, but I'm afraid we cannot cut out another penny," said a member of the Board of Estimate. "We are faced with a total of $19,000,000 of practically mandatory increases, and, in addition, there will be increases of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 for the various departments which have not been able to make reductions. We are still trying to reduce, but it looks hopeless."

The budget for 1923 was $353,350,975.67, which was about $5,000,000 higher than the previous year. If next year's budget reaches $375,000,000, it will mean a jump of about $22,000,000 over that of the present year. Of this increase, about $16,000,000 is mandatory, for which the Board of Estimate is not responsible. The remainder, it was explained, will be due to mandatory salary increases, additions to the city's laboring forces and establishment of the prevailing rate of wages, as provided by law.

At yesterday's hearing provision was allowed for five additional fire companies, six lieutenants and seventy firemen, beginning July 1, 1924. The board took no action on Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan's request to give engineers on the fireboats an increase in wages of $300 a year. The salaries of all other engineers for increases from $2,500 to $2,920 was laid over.

Although the board allowed the fire telegraph dispatchers the prevailing rate of $5 a day, it did not act on the dispatchers' petition to be considered on a basis of 340 days a year, in view of that they might be compensated for night work, Saturday afternoons, Sundays and holidays.

WOULD BAR EMBLEM OF CITIZENS' PARTY

Democrat Asks Court to Restrain Use of Pointing Hand on Ballot for Judiciary.

An action to restrain the Citizens' Independent Party, the new Hearst organization, from using the emblem of a pointing hand on the election ballot this year was begun yesterday by Phoenix Ingraham, one of the ten Democratic candidates for the Supreme Court.

Mr. Ingraham, through his attorney, George Olvany, appeared in Special Term, Part 2, of the Supreme Court and obtained an order from Justice Wagner directing the Citizens' Independent Party to show cause why the Board of Elections should not be restrained from placing the party emblem on the ballot. The order is returnable before Supreme Court Justice Vernon M. Davis this morning.

Mr. Ingraham maintains that the use of the hand is not proper, as it is used on the ballot for another purpose and that its use as a party emblem would serve to confuse the voter and would be of great benefit to the candidates on the Republican ticket, who would have in front of them not only their own emblem but also the emblem of the Citizens' Independent Party, thereby giving the Republicans an unequal preference.

"The Citizens' Independent Party," said Mr. Ingraham," has nominated all ten Republican candidates for Supreme Court Justice and has selected as its emblem a hand with a finger pointing to each candidate, so that each one of the Republican candidates, if the right to use the emblem is sustained, will have not only the Republican emblem but will also have a hand with a pointing finger to call special attention of the unskilled or careless voter to these ten candidates.

"In my opinion the selection of this emblem was made deliberately in an attempt to confuse the voter of this judicial district and to secure for our opponents a preference which is manifestly unfair. At the head of the section of the ballot there is printed the name of the office and the number of candidates to be voted for. In the case of the judicial candidates this year the number is ten. Immediately in front of this instruction and right above where the voting emblem appears there is printed a hand pointing to this instruction, and that hand is an integral part of the ballot. It is easy to see how an unskilled or careless voter might be confused by this so-called emblem of the Citizens' Independent Party.

"I maintain that this is not a legal emblem; that it does not represent any idea, but is really an advertising mark and is an attempt to deceive the voter. I have been a enrolled Democrat for more than twenty years, and as a Democrat I denounce this attempt as unfair to the voters and as unfair to the Democratic candidates."

HELD FOR $347,000 ROBBERY

Suspect in Silk Theft Says He Is Ex-Assemblyman's Son.

William Butler, 24, who said he lived at 401 West Thirty-fourth Street and was a son of ex-Assemblyman "Dick" Butler of the Chelsea district, was committed to the Tombs without bail by Magistrate Richard F. McKinley, in the Tombs Court yesterday, in connection with the theft a month ago of $347,000 worth of silk from the Independent Warehouse Corporation at 15 Vestry Street.

Before his arraignment Butler was placed in the "line-up" at Police Headquarters. Inspector Coughlin said later that three men had identified him as a man they had seen standing near the entrance to the warehouse for several hours on the night of the robbery. The silk was owned by Suzuki & Co., Japanese importers, and was said to have been carried away in five motor trucks. Butler denied any connection with the robbery.

Rum Runners' Rifles Cause 40 Coast Guardsmen to Quit

CAPE MAY, N. J., Oct. 17.—Captains of the Fifth District Coast Guard, which extends from Sandy Hook to Cape May and includes 36 stations, face the problem of coping with defections from the service because of low pay and the hazards of guarding the coast against liquor smugglers. Surfmen receive $60 a month and $30 for subsistence.

Eight men have quit recently from the Cold Spring and Cape May stations, and the total for the district, according to Captain John C. Cole, formerly superintendent of the Coast Guard, is more than forty men.

"When the men entered the service," said another captain today, "they were hired to save lives and property from the ships in trouble along the coast, but now they want us to stop rum runners, who if they are caught do not hesitate to take a shot at you with a high-powered rifle."

MILLS SAYS SMITH IS 'BUNKING' PEOPLE

ASSERTS HOME RULE IS ONE

Budget and Direct Primaries on List—Charges Renewal of Last Year's Tactics.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, speaking at a ratification rally of the Republican candidates for the Supreme Court bench and the Assembly at the Republican Club of the Thirteenth Assembly district, 403 West 126th Street, last night accused Governor Alfred E. Smith of raising false issues in the campaign this year as well as misstating real issues.

Mr. Mills declared that the Governor "bunked" the people last year into believing that his election would mean the return of light wines and beer, and that this "deliberately fostered misconception" and accounted for more Smith votes in New York City than all the other issues put together. He said the people today were witnessing a renewal of the same tactics. Among the "false" issues which Mr. Mills said the Governor was raising were the question of the reconstruction of the State Government; the Home Rule Constitutional Amendment, which he said the Republican Legislature of 1922 drafted and passed; the establishment of an Executive Budget, and the question of direct primaries.

"The Governor talks a lot about efficiency in government," said Mr. Mills, "and yet in the first year of his Administration $23,000,000 was added to the cost of government and hundreds of names to the public payroll. He talks about efficiency in government, when it is a matter of public record that the Department of Public Works, in making a limited number of purchases, paid to one concern $70,000 for articles which could have been bought in the open market for $25,000 less. If these practices are typical of the Smith kind of efficiency in government, what we need in Albany is not a budget bureau but a burglar bureau. If Governor Smith would devote more time to giving efficient government and less time to talking about it, I think the taxpayers of the State would feel happier.

"There is no greater problem confronting the people of this country than the constantly rising tax burden, which is increasing at a rate out of all proportion to the increases of either population or wealth. Including teachers and laborers, there were in 1921, 238,461 people on the public payroll in the State of New York drawing down in salaries no less than $295,000,000. Under Governor Miller a real effort was made to check this abnormal increase, but during Governor Smith's second term the number on the public payroll is again bounding merrily upward. What is the reason? What is the Governor going to do about it?

"The Governor and his associates would do away with all State regulation of public utilities, and return to the system which prevailed twenty years ago, under which there was complete control by municipalities. That system was abandoned in favor of State regulation by practically every State in the Union, because it gave rise to the most widespread and scandalous corruption, a condition utterly demoralizing to municipal Governments, but resulting in tremendous and unjustifiable profits on the part of the owners and managers of street railways and other public utilities.

"Governor Smith declined to submit the question of municipal operation to a vote of the citizens of the City of New York. Here is another real issue, which divides our party from that of the Governor. We stand for a reasonable measure of State regulation of public utilities, and in so far as municipal operation is concerned, we are willing to submit it to the judgment of the people concerned."

Regarding the judicial tickets of the two parties Mr. Mills said:

"One ticket, the Tammany ticket, embodies the theory that it is proper to nominate for the bench a straight partisan ticket, selecting candidates first by reason of their political and party service, and secondly by reason of their qualifications for the office. The other, the Republican ticket, embodies the principles of non-partisanship in judicial nominations, which we believe has come to be commonly accepted as the principle which should prevail."

GOLF IS SACRED GAME, CHICAGO JUDGE RULES

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Judicial cognizance has now been given to the sanctity of the game of golf.

"Let the links be looked upon as sacred," ordered Judge La Buy today when I. B. Picard was arraigned before him charged with laughing at the efforts of players on the Lincoln Park links and otherwise "giving them the razz."

"A golfer," the Judge explained, "of all persons, must have conditions and surroundings such that he concentrates on his stroke. Laughing at a player is a most grave offense under the circumstances. It is liable to induce blasphemy on the sacred green."

Because it was his first offense, the Judge discharged Picard.

MEANWHILE, SHE'S PLEASED

The Rev. Mrs. Stewart Prepares for Further Tests as Scientists Study Phenomena.

The Rev. Mrs. Josi K. Stewart, rose petal communicant with the spirit world, rested yesterday in her hotel room, while scientists asked themselves how she did it—the writing, not the resting.

In the very room in the same hotel where, on a day last week she and her friend, Mrs. Esther Walzer, heard voices and saw a flaring cross of green on the ceiling, the Rev. Mrs. Stewart gathered her psychic forces for another test today.

She was confident that the writing would come this morning as glibly as it came before and that the tracing might appear in colors other than tender heliotrope and vivid pink. Mrs. Stewart was pleased, very pleased, at the outcome of her demonstration on Tuesday.

Yielding to her desire to come into closer communion with nature, the subcommittee representing the Scientific American, donor of a $2,500 prize to the producer of genuine psychic phenomena, took her on Tuesday to the front yard of Mrs. Ned Wayburn over in Bayside and there Mrs. Stewart produced writing. The author, who is pastor of the First Independent Church of Cleveland, had a field day.

Five times the little white index cards, supplied by the investigators, bore messages—from several famous persons—and finally, the fifth and curtain message from "Effie," whom Mrs. Stewart regards as a sort of spiritual guardian angel. The communications came while Mrs. Stewart, breathing hard and drinking much water, held the cards, with flower petals between them, à la sandwich, on the head of one investigator.

Acid Test for the Flower Writing.

Down at the office of the Scientific American yesterday it was evident that the staff was hard at work testing the achievement of Mrs. Stewart. Marshaled by J. Malcolm Bird the members of the sub-committee were putting the flower writing through a series of laboratory tests.

"The judges," said Mr. Bird, "would be willing to be quoted as saying that if the production of the writing were a fraud they feel certain that no other method than substitution of the cards could be employed."

Mr. Bird disclosed that a chemical analysis of the cards was in progress and that the aim of the chemist would be to ascertain the material used in the writing. In addition, a microscopic test was made to ascertain if the writing had been deposited in normal fashion from a writing instrument.

"This medium," said Mr. Bird, alluding to the Rev. Mrs. Stewart," has called our attention to the fact that people have claimed that her writings look like crayon. She says that she knows what they look like, but that she doesn't know what they are. We are endeavoring to find out what they are. It seems to us that if it is a fraud it involves the substitution of previously prepared cards."

Included in the methods being brought to bear on the firmly written lines that appeared as if by magic on the cards at the front-yard seance was a spectroscopic examination.

Might Reveal Ectoplasm.

"It is possible," remarked Mr. Bird, indicating that it wasn't also probable, "that our tests may show ectoplasm in the writing."

It was Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, discoverer of ectoplasm, who brought Mrs. Stewart to the attention of the Scientific American investigating committee as an aspirant for the $2,500. When the creator of Sherlock Holmes was in Cleveland he read through Mrs. Stewart's album of testimonials and thought that she should be subjected to a thoroughly scientific test.

In discussing the opinion of some persons that substitution of cards might account in some cases for the production of independent writing, Mr. Bird pointed out that in the case of Mrs. Stewart the cards had been furnished by Mrs. Dailey Hays at the Hotel Astonia, and on three of these occasions had seen Mrs. Stokes in the private hallway, about twenty feet in back of Mrs. Hays. Once he said, after Mrs. Hays had taken the letter from him, she turned around and said, "It's all right, Helen." Stokes, said Mattes, asked him to sign a statement, which he refused to do until certain parts had been expunged. They were not true, Mattes said.

VOTE TO INVESTIGATE OKLAHOMA KLAN

Special to The New York Times.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 17.—The House of Representatives staged another stormy session this afternoon. Twice the Sergeant-at-Arms had to intervene when personal encounters seemed imminent. The anti-Walton element charged the supporters of the Governor with "smoke screen tactics," and the Walton forces insinuated that the investigating committee had been packed.

The Republican minority came to the front and Leslie Salter, their leader, denounced James A. Harris, the Republican National Committeeman from Oklahoma, as a friend of Walton's and a traitor to his party. He described Harris as "a piking, pie eating, pussyfooting political jackal." Salter made it plain that the Republicans are standing to a man with the Democratic majority in the fight to oust the Governor.

The Ku Klux issue also came up again and this time the House, which on Monday rejected with hoots and jeers a resolution to investigate the Klan, voted unanimously to inquire into the activities of the order. Today's resolution was not the sweeping document rejected on Monday, but a brief resolution directing a joint committee of six members to inquire into the charges made by Governor Walton that the Klan controls the State Legislature and has rendered impotent the governments of various cities and counties. The resolution directs the committee to suggest a law to meet the Klan situation.

A wrangle followed the introduction of a resolution directing that the investigation of the Governor be conducted in the open instead of in secret as is now the case. Representative Callahan, who introduced the resolution, said he had no faith in the committee. "We are entitled to know what is the evidence on which the impeachment of the Governor will be asked," he declared.

The anti-Walton contingent refused to let the resolution be read, and it was tabled by a 10 to 1 majority.

The resolution calling for the impeachment of Governor Walton is now being drafted and it is the program of his foes to offer it in the House Friday afternoon and 14 pass it as speedily as possible. It is expected that a vote will be had on Saturday, and in that event the resolution will go to the Senate on Monday. The suspension of the Governor, pending the outcome of his trial by the Senate, will probably follow as soon as the charges are filed in the Upper House.

SEIZES KLAN CHAPLAIN AS INTOXICATED IN CAR

Atlanta Policeman Says the Rev. 'Imperial Kludd' Also Had Liquor With Him.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—The Rev. Caleb Ridley, known as the Imperial Kludd (Chaplain) of the Ku Klux Klan and former pastor of an Atlanta church, was arrested here today on a charge of being drunk and operating an automobile. The arrest was made by Motorcycle Officer L. E. Shumate, who said he found two small bottles of whisky in Dr. Ridley's machine.

In police station Dr. Ridley said he had driven out into the country, when he was accosted by a man who offered to give him some whisky. He said he accepted the liquor and took a drink before starting to town.

Shumate said he saw the automobile dragging down Peachtree Street, one of the main thoroughfares, and stopped it, finding Dr. Ridley apparently under the influence of liquor. Dr. Ridley, the officer said, admitted having more liquor and produced the two bottles.

The examination which was scheduled to go on yesterday was adjourned until Nov. 1 without testimony being taken, at the request of counsel for Peace Brothers, Inc., one of the contractors.

RIVAL COUNSEL STIR STOKES JUDGE'S IRE

CHICAGO ATTORNEY QUITS

Erbstein, for Mrs. Stokes, Angered by Untermyer's Nudges and Suggestions.

Samuel Untermyer's attempt to bring into the case a witness's dead husband at the continuation of the Stoke's divorce trial in the Supreme Court yesterday precipitated a stormy interchange between Max D. Steuer, counsel for Stokes, and Mr. Untermyer, which drew a sharp reprimand from Justice Mahoney.

The witness was Mrs. Anna Francese and she wore deep mourning. Mr. Untermyer asked her how her husband died. Mr. Steuer instructed her not to reply, characterized Mr. Untermyer's attempt as "indecent," and said that Mr. Untermyer was violating the Court's rules by completing a cross-examination which another attorney for Mrs. Stokes had started. He demanded that the Court instruct Mr. Untermyer to put a stop to his "insinuating remarks."

"I am going to have any characterizations of any kind," declared Justice Mahoney. "I ask the jury to disregard any characterization made in this case by either counsel."

Mr. Untermyer continued to question Mrs. Francese about her husband. He said he did not wish to cast aspersions on the dead man's character, but contended that he had to determine the credibility of the witness through such questions. After further protestations by Mr. Steuer, Justice Mahoney said:

"The Court will take very serious steps if there is any more of this. I don't want any mudslinging and any characterizations of any counsel, and if any counsel has characterized his adversary, he should withdraw it. That is my suggestion, Mr. Untermyer."

The divided cross-examination referred to by Mr. Steuer, was brought about through the refusal of Charles L. Erbstein, Chicago attorney for Mrs. Stokes, to continue questioning Mrs. Francese, because Mr. Untermyer continually nudged and interrupted him to suggest questions. Mr. Erbstein became angry, resumed his seat and told Mr. Untermyer that he would take no further part in any cross-examination.

Mrs. Francese, who said she did some cleaning in the apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, named by Stokes as co-respondent, at 13 East Thirty-fifth Street, in February, 1918, said that she had not made the affidavit bearing her signature, which Mrs. Stokes filed with his complaint. It was dated Oct. 20, 1921, and the signature, she said, was hers. She declared that she had received no money from Stokes. She testified that she had seen Mrs. Stokes in the house.

"The way she came in was so mysterious and Mr. Wallace was nervous," was the reason she gave for her recollection.

The last witness heard yesterday was John R. Mattes of 1,671 Sostrand Avenue, Brooklyn, a clerk of the signal division of the B. R. T. At the conclusion of his examination Mr. Untermyer asked that his entire testimony be stricken from the record as immaterial. Justice Mahoney reserved decision. Mattes said that between 1910 and 1914 he had been an Interborough messenger for its late President, Theodore P. Shonts. Frequently, he said, he had taken letters from W. Leon Pepperman, Vice President and Treasurer of the Interborough, to Mrs. Dailey Hays at the Hotel Astonia, and on three of these occasions had seen Mrs. Stokes in the private hallway, about twenty feet in back of Mrs. Hays. Once he said, after Mrs. Hays had taken the letter from him, she turned around and said, "It's all right, Helen." Stokes, said Mattes, asked him to sign a statement, which he refused to do until certain parts had been expunged. They were not true, Mattes said.

Posing as Montauk Fishermen, Two Take $36,400 From Rum Runner.

YARMOUTH, N. S., Oct. 17.—Long Island Sound fishermen, turned pirates, were the villains of a tale involving th theft of thousands of dollars in cash and liquor which Captain John Sims of the "rum-running" Dominion Packet related here today.

The Dominion Packet lay with the "rum fleet" off Montauk Point, L. I., with $6,400 in cash in the skipper's safe and $30,000 of imported whisky stowed between decks, according to the captain. Two seeming fishermen bobbed up in a motor boat. They looked honest and when they hailed the Dominion Packet, "How much for 100 cases?" Captain Sims invited them into his cabin.

"Let's see," the Captain mused, as he busied himself with the stub of a pencil. "One hundred cases will cost you ——"

"Will cost us nothing," murmured one of his guests, digging a revolver into the skippers ribs. The Captain immediately, on request, turned over the $6,400 in cash. When he went on deck his crew stood with hands aloft, the other visitor pointing a revolver at them. Captain Sims said he watched his whole cargo of liquor loaded into the motor boat.

FORD CANDIDACY LOOMING LARGER

BOOM WORRIES DEMOCRATS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Evidence accumulates that Henry Ford is preparing to seek a Presidential nomination in 1924. Whether he will endeavor to be the nominee of the Democratic Party or will run independently is not apparent. Democratic politicians, while indicating a belief that there is no prospect that Mr. Ford will be the choice of their party, are expressing anxiety over the boom for him, which they evidently fear is making headway with many Democrats who will vote in the pre-convention primaries next Spring.

Until recently Mr. Ford did not come out in the open. One reason given for his secrecy as to his intentions is that he had assured President Harding, for whom he had a strong personal liking, that he would not be a candidate for President if Mr. Harding was renominated. It is being said in inner Republican circles that President Harding told some of his friends that he had received such an assurance from Mr. Ford, the understanding is that it was given voluntarily.

Stories are being told that agents of Mr. Ford have been feeling out influential politicians with a view to ascertaining if they would help organize certain States for the manufacturer. Recently two occurrences have given strength to the belief that Mr. Ford has Presidential aspirations. One was the action of his general secretary in not interposing any obstacle in the way of placing Mr. Ford's name on the Presidential preference ballot for the primary elections of the Progressive Party in Nebraska. The other was the announcement yesterday by the head of the Farmer-Labor Party of South Dakota that Mr. Ford had given his consent to the formation of Ford-for-President clubs in that State.

The Secretary of State of Nebraska wrote to Mr. Ford or General Secretary Liebold that the Progressive Party of Nebraska had applied to have the name of Mr. Ford printed on the official Presidential primary ballot. The Nebraska official asked what Mr. Ford's preferences were. The response expressed gratification and was recorded as virtually to grant permission for the use of his name.

There is no doubt that Mr. Ford has developed remarkable strength as a Presidential possibility in the West, particularly among farmers. A number of Republican Senators have testified to this sentiment in their States. Many farmers, dissatisfied with existing economic conditions and inclined to be angered at the Republican Party, have the belief that Ford, being a remarkably successful business man, will be able to run the Government with equal success.

The promise of Mr. Ford that if he gets control of the Government nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals he will furnish cheap fertilizer to farmers has had a marked effect in creating Ford sentiment in agricultural sections. This month Mr. Ford publicly condemned Secretary Weeks for selling part of the Muscle Shoals plant to the Alabama Power Company, and this action is construed in political circles as forming a foundation for a drive against the Coolidge Administration.

All the circumstances lend color to reports that Mr. Ford is laying plans to create a formidable political organization. Politicians have seen enough to prevent surprise on their part should the Ford organization suddenly come into the open with an appeal for the support of the electorate to make Mr. Ford the candidate either of the Democratic Party or a new third party.

JUDGE SCORES SPEEDER.

Calls Him Worse Menace Than Mad Dog in Imposing Fine.

Saying that an automobilist who traveled as fast as John Potter, 21 years old, is "worse than a mad dog or a lunatic as a menace to the community," Judge Charles W. Boote in Yonkers City Court yesterday rebuked Potter and ordered him to pay a $50 fine. The defendant gave his address as 275 Bay Avenue, Patchogue, L. I. Patrolman Patrick Whalen testified that the defendant raced his car on North Broadway, Yonkers, at a rate of forty-five miles an hour, although the speed limit is fifteen miles. When the defendant pleaded that all the money he had with him was $30 Judge Boote changed the fine to that sum.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Humane Society of New York at 44 Seventh Avenue yesterday a resolution was adopted endorsing the candidacy of Herbert R. Limburg, Republican-Fusion candidate for the Supreme Court. Mr. Limburg has been counsel for the society for eight years.

EDISON OPPOSES FORD FOR PRESIDENT

IS GUEST AT LUNCHEON HERE

Predicts Greater Progress in Electricity in Next Decade Than in the Last.

Thomas A. Edison, asked to discuss the Presidential boom of Henry Ford, his intimate friend, yesterday in an interview at the Hotel Biltmore said he would rather not talk on that subject. "I would hate to see Ford President because you would spoil a good man," said the inventor. "He's more valuable where he is." Mr. Edison gave his opinion following a luncheon in his honor to commemorate the opening of the sixteenth annual electrical and industrial exposition at the Grand Central Palace.

The electrical pioneer was talking of the difficulties he had always met when he tried "to put an idea over," and he cited Ford as a man who was quick to grasp an idea and bring about its materialization. By way of illustration he told of his recent visit to Ford.

"Ford has a little river out there—the River Rouge—and at one point he has taken an old grist mill and overhauled it so that it furnishes employment for half a dozen farmers in the slack season. When they are through grinding, they can go back to their farms.

"A little further up the stream there is another mill, and although the fall in the river is not more than four or five feet between the first plant and the second he has reconstructed the second mill in such a manner that it furnishes employment for a force of 120 girls winding magnets to be used on dynamos."

Mr. Edison said that the girls employed in the magnet winding plant formerly had worked in that city at from $2 to $3 a day. "The way it is now, those city girls go back to the farm and get $6 a day," he continued. "What's the matter with that? And Ford tells me that he is getting those magnets wound more cheaply than he can get them wound in his large plants."

Still Uses Questionnaires.

"Do you still use your questionnaire to test applicants for jobs in your plant at West Orange?" Mr. Edison was asked.

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Edison. "Every time the newspapers would steal one of my questionnaires I'd have to get up another. I get tired of making out so many questionnaires. After I'd made out seven, I decided I wouldn't have time to keep on making out questionnaires, so I went back and used the first ones. Although the questions and answers of my first test were printed in the newspapers throughout the country, applicants didn't seem to be any more familiar with them than if they had never been printed."

When Mr. Edison was asked what he considered the most important step in electrical development he said it was "long-distance transmission, the coupling up of power stations and the electrification of railroads." Of the success of the super-power development plan proposed by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, Mr. Edison was most sanguine. He suggested that whatever Hoover said could be relied upon because he was one of the few men in the United States who could carry out a big undertaking.

He predicted that the progress in electrical development would be even greater in the next ten years than it was in the last decade. He described the radio as "one of the greatest things for young men ever brought out," and he explained that he so considered it because it "got them to read scientific literature, to experiment and to think," adding: "And the more you do that the better." The inventor gave it as his opinion that the radio craze would die out, except for broadcasting of news, market quotations and other speaking matter.

Agrees With Steinmetz.

The recent statement of Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz predicting that electricity would reduce the work-period probably to a three or four-hour day was called to the attention of Mr. Edison.

"The time will come when full automatic machinery will be so largely introduced that production will not require a man's working more than four hours a day," he said after a moment's reflection. "That may not be a good thing. Idleness is rather objectionable to the ordinary type of man. But from the standpoint of the old man it will be a good thing because then old men need never work. The young man can work and support the family."

When the question of electro-therapeutics was brought up the inventor said he didn't believe in that branch of healing.

At the luncheon John W. Lieb, Vice President of the New York Edison Company, said that scientists were only on the threshold of electrical development. Arthur Williams, General Manager of the New York Edison Company and President of the Electrical Show Company, was the principal speaker. After paying a tribute to Mr. Edison's genius, Mr. Williams invited him as guest of honor to the Forty-eighth Street Theatre to see the first public exhibition of a moving picture depicting many of the ways in which electricity is generated, distributed and supplied to the homes and business establishments of this city.

Charles L. Eidlitz, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Electrical Board of Trade of New York, at the first public meeting of the board announced that Mr. Edison had been elected the first honorary member of the organization at a special meeting yesterday morning.

Women Paint a Church, Considering Bids Too High

EAST HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Frederick Plander, Mrs. Albert Shuttleworth and Miss Olive Langdon today painted the belfry, the highest part of the Uniondale Chapel, in accordance with the determination of the seventeen members of the Ladies' Aid Society to paint the entire structure themselves rather than pay the excessive sum demanded by professional painters.

Only ten of the seventeen members of the society could get away from household duties for the painting job today. The women, in overalls, have spent Wednesday afternoons for the last month painting the lower part of the church. The job now is virtually finished.

BAR ENDORSES 9 OF 16 CANDIDATES

HILLQUIT IS TURNED DOWN

Five Democrats and Four Republicans Comprise Those Recommended for Election.

Nine of the sixteen candidates for Municipal Court Justice who have been designated by the Republicans, Democrats and Socialists for election this year were recommended for indorsement by the Bar Association of New York, according to the report last night of its Committee on Courts of Inferior Jurisdiction.

The men indorsed are Henry S. Schimmel, Democrat, of the Second Municipal Court District, Manhattan; Justice Abram Ellenbogen, Republican, Fifth District, Manhattan; William Chilvers, Republican, and Isaac Cohen, Democrat, Ninth District, Manhattan; Ely Neumann, Democrat, and Morris Weiss, Republican, First District, the Bronx; James J. Fitzgerald, Democrat, and Forrest C. Hirleman, Republican, Second District, the Bronx, and Edward Kelly, Democrat, Fifth District, Queens.

In all but the Ninth, Manhattan, and the Fifth of Queens, there are Socialist candidates, but none of them was recommended. In the Fifth Manhattan District, Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate, was among those turned down.

Regarding the candidates endorsed, the committee in part says:

Henry S. Schimmel—"In the opinion of the committee, the energy, industry and ability shown by Mr. Schimmel, as indicated by the record, together with the other information received by the committee, warrant the assumption that he would serve acceptably in the office of Justice of the Municipal Court, if elected."

Justice Ellenbogen—"He was a member of the Assembly from 1914 to 1918, inclusive, and his record there received the highest commendation. It would be a misfortune if he were not elected."

William Chilvers—"He is highly recommended by the well-known members of the bar. In the opinion of your committee he is fitted in character, experience and ability to be Justice of the Municipal Court."

Isaac Cohen—"He has a good reputation among members of the bar, in the opinion of your committee he is fitted in character, ability and experience to be Justice of the Municipal Court."

Judge Eby Neumann—"He is the present incumbent, serving by appointment to succeed Justice Barry Robitsek. He has an excellent reputation."

Morris Weiss—"He was for three years a clerk in the office of Judge Rosalsky. He was appointed Relief Commissioner by Governor Miller. In the opinion of the committee he possesses the necessary qualifications for the office of Justice of the Municipal Court."

Judge James J. Fitzgerald—"He is a member of this association. He has a high reputation for integrity, learning and ability."

Forrest C. Hirleman—"From 1917 to 1922, inclusive, he was Secretary of the Association of the Bar of the County of Bronx, and is now a member of the Membership Committee of that association. He has a high reputation."

Edward Kelly—"He is in the Legal Department of the Long Island Railroad and largely engaged in trial work. He is recommended by Judges before whom he has practiced, and in the opinion of the committee is qualified by experience and ability to be Justice of the Municipal Court."

The committee does not recommend Thorndyke McKennee, the Republican candidate in this district, for the reason "that it is apparent that he has not been in practice for a considerable period of time and it is their opinion that his years will militate against his efficiency in the office of Justice of the Municipal Court."

HYLAN IS ALLOWED TO SIT UP A WHILE

Mayor Hylan's condition improved yesterday and during the afternoon he was permitted to sit up for a short time. This was the statement last night of Dr. John A. Ferguson, physician attending the Mayor, who added that the no-visitor rule would be enforced rigidly until the Mayor was completely well.

A sound night's rest and a cheerful frame of mind upon awakening counteracted the relapse he suffered on Tuesday, when an attack of nervous indigestion developed. The attack was severe while it lasted and prompted his physicians to return to his bedside almost as anxiously as they did during his prostration at Saratoga Springs.

Encouraged by the day's mend, Dr. Ferguson said that the Mayor was in no danger whatsoever. He predicted that two weeks of isolation from visitors would find him as well as he ever had been. Dr. Ferguson said that political problems had not been permitted to bother the Mayor at all, and that the recurrence of the indigestion was due to excitement incident to too much "welcome home."

If the physician's wishes are carried out, thoroughly the last visitor the Mayor will have for at least two weeks called at his home late yesterday. This was Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner, who remained about ten minutes. Commissioner Enright arrived shortly after the Mayor, propped up in a comfortable armchair, had left his bed for a fifteen minute period.

Dr. Clarence W. Lieb of 940 Madison Avenue, Manhattan, visited the Mayor for an hour and a half. Dr. Lieb is the stomach specialist who was called into consultation by Dr. Ferguson. Whom Dr. Lieb left he expressed much satisfaction with the Mayor's improvement, but added that he must have a period of complete rest and quiet.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The tomb of Tutankh-Amen was closed last February. The door was barred by a heavy iron gate reinforced with great beams of timber until the entrance was completely sealed and then the entire door, well, down which the steep staircase descends to the entrance itself, was filled with 1,700 tons of rock. A corps of eighty Egyptian men and boys was engaged in the work of filling the entrance, which took two days to complete,

DONOGHUE PILOTS PAPYRUS IN TRIAL

ZEV HAS HARD WORKOUT

Goes Mile in Hand in 1:39 2-5 and the Mile and Quarter in 2:09 at Belmont Park.

Steve Donoghue yesterday morning had the leg up on Papyrus for the first time since he rode him in the St. Leger Stakes at Doncaster, England's greatest jockey, winner of five Derbys, three of them in succession, went to Belmont Park in time to renew his acquaintance with the colt he will ride on Saturday afternoon in the $100,000 international race against the Rancocas Stable's Zev. Papyrus went only six furlongs at a canter and will finish his training for the big event this morning, when he will go a mile at an easy gallop.

Meantime Zev went out for his final hard work, being sent a mile in 1:39 2-5, ruining the mile and a quarter in 2:09 pulled up. It was not disclosed what weight the American champion carried, but Laverne Fator had the mount and he was paced by the Colorado Stable's Little Chief, the four-year-old recently sold by the Rancocas Stable.

There were as many expressions of opinion as to the merit of Zev's work as there were differences in the fractions of the timing, as almost every visitor to the track had a watch on the brown colt. Zev appeared to be running well within himself and it seemed that Fator had him well in hand. The impression gained from his work, however, in the minds of not a few, was that Zev is not able to hold his speed further than the mile, and that he will win by his early speed, if he wins at all.

Zev went his first quarter in 0:23 4-5 and his second in 0:29 4-5, according to the watch of one of the timers. After the half mile he slowed appreciably, for the third quarter was run in 0:25 2-5, while the last quarter was run in 0:27 1-5. Zev was being eased up in the fifth quarter, which was done in 0:29 3-5.

Betting odds, it was stated, were awaiting the result of Zev's final trial. It is believed that the quotations against Papyrus will shorten materially from the 9 to 5 given earlier in the week. There was little discussion of the race in a betting way at Empire City yesterday and it is probable that wagering on any considerable scale will not begin until tomorrow, the eve of the great contest.

Anticipating performances by both Zev and Papyrus and in the expectation of seeing the famous Steve Donoghue in the saddle on the Derby winner, the largest early morning crowd since the arrival of Papyrus on this side turned out. Scores of automobiles were parked all about the course of the Westchester Racing Association, mostly in the vicinity of the grand stand. There were many women among the spectators and not a few had to forego breakfast to get to the track in time to witness the appearance of Papyrus from his quarters in the Coeden stables. Many were at the track as early as 7 o'clock to be certain of not missing anything.

It was a little later than is his custom when Papyrus appeared through the wide-swung stable doors following in the footsteps of his inseparable companion, Bar Gold. It was 7:40 o'clock when they stepped out on the main track and headed away from the grand stand and up the chute. There was a big crowd about and many of the visitors looked the English colt over for the first time, including some of the English correspondents and out-of-town writers. There was no sign of Steve Donoghue, so Trainer Jarvis went on up the track with Dr. Pride-Jones to watch Papyrus with critical eyes in his opening walk.

Crowd Salutes Jockey.

It was some time later when Jarvis came back to the group in the hope of locating Donoghue in order that the famous jockey might give Papyrus his light canter. Just then there was a cry of "Here comes Steve!" and the famous little jockey stepped from an automobile in company with Solicitor Whitsell, Benjamin Irish's personal representative here for the race.

It was learned that Donoghue was up early enough in the morning to get to the track long before the hour of his arrival. The famous little jockey—he is only four feet eleven and a half inches in height—is used to getting up at all hours, but he could not resist taking a bit of a night-seeing trip of his own his first morning in New York City. He had a look at the Grand Central Station and the hotel that is being erected over the tracks of the New York Central. He also went to the Pennsylvania Station, looked over some of the hotels and craned his neck at the skyscrapers.

"It's a great," he said to the newspaper men. "It's wonderful." Donoghue met numerous old friends at Belmont Park and made many new acquaintances. His first act was to examine the track and said he had never ridden over anything just like it. Donoghue would venture no opinion as to what difference running on dirt would make in Papyrus's speed.

Donoghue, however, could not say enough of his trip across and all the things that have been done for him and all the kind wishes given him. He said that large numbers of the Olympic's passengers, ultimately destined for widely different places, were planning to stop over for the big match. He would like to stay here longer on his first visit, but will return on the Aquitania on Tuesday with Papyrus and the rest of the English party, as he has many important racing engagements before the close of the English season.

Walk Mile and Half.

After his first walk Papyrus and Bar Gold went to the turn from the paddock. The colts were not stripped and after Ted Hanham came down Donoghue went up on the Derby winner. The pair just cantered over the six-furlong route, after which they walked the full mile and a half circuit before going to their stables.

Trainer Jarvis said that Papyrus was all right this morning, although "not too good," to use his own expression. The genial English trainer is beginning to feel the strain of the situation as the hours of the race approaches, and it is unlikely that he will feel his real self again until Papyrus is once more safe in his stable at Newmarket. Both Jarvis and Donoghue were besieged by photographers and it finally became necessary to decline to pose further.

Zev meantime was coming out for his trial and the English visitors were keen to get a look at the American representative. When Robert L. Gerry's three-year-old Crusade breezed past he was at first mistaken for Zev, both being about the same color. But there was no mistaking Zev and Little Chief when they finally did make their appearance.

Little Chief broke in the lead on the rail with Zev on the outside. They went the first furlong in 0:11 3-5 and the quarter in 0:23 4-5. The fractional times of the trial were clocked as follows: 0:11 3-5, 0:23 4-5, 0:35 1-5, 0:46 2-5, 1:03 4-5, 1:15, 1:26 2-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:52 3-5, 2:09.

Among those noted in the crowd on the lawn and on the rail were J. H. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Sinclair, August Belmont, Charles H. Tillerton, G. H. Bull, L. Whitsell, Samuel Willets, Captain Robert Soray, Harry Homer, George F. Morris, Captain A. Sydney Galtrey, F. S. von Stade, Foxhall P. Keene and Mr. and Mrs. John Tucker. All of the trainers that have their horses at Belmont Park also were in the throng, together with another large contingent of strangers.

Take Out Insurance.

The Westchester Racing Association has taken no chances of having the race called off by accident to the contestants and has taken out a policy of $100,000. Insurance against rain also was taken out.

The fact that many persons in the club enclosure have been in the habit of jumping on benches and chairs during the running of a race has prompted the Westchester management to remove all chairs and benches on the occasion of the international race. This is done in the interest of the general public and so that all may have an unobstructed view of the horses.

There will be benches and chairs under the grand stand for those who care to use them between races. If all the patrons in the stands will remain in their seats during the running of the big race the view of no one will be obstructed.

There will be special stewards for the international race. The Westchester Association has received the consent of Harry K. Knapp, Frank Gray Griswold and Johnson N. Camden to act on that occasion. Mr. Knapp is one of the stewards of The Jockey Club and races under the nom de course of the Oneck Stable.

Mr. Griswold is internationally known as a sportsman. He was the M. F. H. of the Queens Country and Meadow Brook Hunts, has ridden in amateur races and has hunted in England and France. He was prominently identified with the racing stables of the late Pierre Lorillard and Lord William Beresford in England and has seen much racing abroad. In the days of the Coney Island Jockey Club he frequently served as a steward and is thoroughly versed in racing. Mr. Camden is the Chairman of the Kentucky State Racing Commission, owns the Hartland Stud at Versailles, Ky., and has been active in the development of the turf in the Blue Grass region in which he has his home.

Ample Parking Space.

That there will be ample parking space at the track on Saturday afternoon was assured yesterday when the Westchester Racing Association announced that in addition to the regular parking space the entire area of Belmont Park Terminal will be turned over for that purpose. This will be most convenient for those who intend to view the racing from the infield.

Tickets to the $11 enclosure and the regular $5 admission tickets will be on sale at the office of the Westchester Racing Association, 66 West Fortieth Street, and also at the Empire City track on Friday afternoon. This will give patrons an opportunity to get their tickets in advance and avoid delays at the gates on the afternoon of the race. Officers of the United States Army in uniform will be admitted free on Saturday afternoon and the uniform will also carry permission to bring a lady.

Spectators on Saturday will be officially notified as to which horse wins by the color of a flag to be hoisted to the top of a flagstaff. A white flag with a green border will mean that Zev has won, while one with a purple centre and a border of primrose will signify that Papyrus has added another to his list of brilliant victories. These are the racing colors of the owners of the respective horses.

An attractive feature of Saturday afternoon will be the parade in the paddock between the first and second races of the handsome stallion Stefan the Great, just imported by Joseph E. Widener to replace Sweeper II. Stefan the Great, like most of his family, is a gray and is a horse of fine size and almost faultless conformation. Easterners will have a chance to see him before he is shipped to his new home in Kentucky.

EXODUS IS VICTOR IN YONKERS OPENING

DONOGHUE AT THE TRACK

Steve Donoghue, English jockey, who will ride Papyrus in Saturday's match race with Zev, spent his first afternoon in this country at the Empire City course and saw his American rival, Earl Sande, ride two winners out of five mounts. The Scarsdale Handicap, feature of the opening day at the Hill Top track, was not numbered among Sande's victories, however. Sande had the leg up on Knobbie, the well-played but receding favorite, and Knobbie ran next to last in the field of five.

The Greentree Stable's Exodus was half a length in front at the end of the mile journey and took down the $4,130 which went to the winner. The chestnut son of Peter Pan was not favored by the break, and Jockey Coltiletti took the overland going around the first turn. Exodus moved up as the field reached the backstretch, but Coltiletti took him in hand and rated him off the pace, which was being set by Sandy McNaughton's Firm Friend.

As they rounded the stretch turn and straightened out for home, Firm Friend looked a sure winner, but when Exodus was called on he came with a rush. He closed rapidly on the leader in the run through the stretch, headed him a half dozen strides out and was going away at the finish. Hephaistos came on to take the third portion of the purse from the tired Knobbie. The favorite found the 128 pounds he was asked to carry too much burden and slowed up perceptibly in the final eighth. The mile was run in 1:38 4-5.

Donoghue in Judges' Stand.

Donoghue watched this race and the next two from the judges' stand, where he was escorted after being the centre of attraction in the clubhouse during the first three events on the card. As he crossed the lawn he was all but mobbed by hundreds of enthusiastic hero-worshippers who wanted to slap him on the back and shake his hand. His hand was shaken so many times that some one remarked he wouldn't have strength enough to hold Papyrus back on Saturday, and some 100-per-cent. American's answer to that was that he wouldn't have to.

The Greentree Stable and Trainer Hanhan also made it a double for the day by sending out Moonraker in the Lenox Purse, a mile and seventy yards contest for three-year-olds and upward. Thurber got the Broomstick colt away in motion and had him in the lead when the paddock turn was reached. He also had him in the lead at the finish and at every post around the bandbox oval. Satellite challenged in the stretch, but Moonraker displayed more courage than usual and won by three parts of a length. King Albert got the short end of the $1,200 purse.

Winners at Prohibitive Odds.

Sande's two winners were Amor Patriae in the third and Blind Play in the sixth. Both were prohibitive favorites. The race in the third was between Wildrake and Tangerine for the place, and Wildrake won. In the sixth E. H. Garrison's Catalan just got up to take the place money from James Butler's Watch Charm.

RACING REVENUE DECREASES

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—Governmental revenue from Ontario race tracks for the Spring and Fall seasons of this year decreased more than $500,000, as compared with last year's receipts, W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, reported today. This year's governmental share totaled $2,459,506.70, as against $2,962,216.40 for 1922. Track patrons this year wagered $35,880,124 in this province, Mr. Price said.

Archibald, American, Wins Cesarewitch on Rose Prince

NEW MARKET, England, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—A. E. Macomber's Rose Prince, ridden by George Archibald, the American jockey, won the Cesarewitch Stakes of £1,000 with extras, run over a two and one-quarter mile course here today. Aga Khan's Teresina was second and Sir A. Bailey's Ceylonese was third. Twenty-nine horses ran. The odds against the winner were 25 to 1, against Teresina 100 to 7, and against Ceylonese 6 to 1.

PARKE AGAIN WINS FIVE RACES IN ROW

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17.—Jockey Ivan Parke, the 16-year-old youth who rode five winners at the Latonia track yesterday repeated the performance today and probably set a world's record in doing it. At least, veteran horsemen here could not recall any other rider who had ever duplicated the feat.

When Parke brought Pindar Peel home a winner in the fifth race for his fifth successive triumph of the afternoon he had scored ten victories in twelve starts. He lost the last two races, being outside the money in the sixth for the first time in two days, but he came back in the seventh and was second on Brotherly Love. Mathematical enthusiasts are still trying to figure out how much money they would have made with a $100 parlay on Parke's first five mounts today.

Worth-More, a two-year-old colt by Thunderer-Lady Monet, from the C. T. Worthington Stable, was sold to J. E. Ward for $22,000 today. The bidding started at $10,000.

Jockey Wilson, who was injured in fourth race last Thursday, has been unconscious since the accident. Wilson suffered a fracture of the skull and is in a hospital here. He is 19 years old and comes from Windsor, Canada.

SIX HORSES ARE OUT OF ENDURANCE TEST

Stiff Course Is Responsible for Break in Third Lap of 300-Mile Contest.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Six horses were barred or withdrawn before or during the third lap of the 1923 national 300-mile endurance contest at Avon, N. Y., today. With Nintu disqualified yesterday, sixteen remaining entries will take the road tomorrow. The stiffest course in the history of the endurance rides was responsible for the first big gap in the ranks of the entries, officials said.

Kildare, a big gray gelding, one of the Irish hunters entered by Herbert J. Brown of Portland, Me., made a gallant fight to stay in the running, but was ruled out after breasting thirty-six miles of rocky hills.

Vagrant, an army thoroughbred ridden by Major J. M. Wainwright, dropped out at the four-mile mark early this afternoon.

The contest is narrowing down to a fight between the army thoroughbreds and the Morgans ridden by cowpunchers under H. E. Frets. Two Morgans, Dude and Chub, were out before the ride started this morning. The former did not start at all and the latter was withdrawn two miles out.

Red Cloud, a stablemate, is said to be hopelessly late and Fair Lady, also a Morgan, was withdrawn at the start because of lameness. The necessity for withdrawing Fair Lady came as a mild sensation because the mare finished strongly yesterday.

All other entries finished what was said to be a heart-breaking course within nine hours, the minimum time limit. The absence of time penalties, considering the number of withdrawals marked another feature in the history of the rides.

The breeds that showed exceptional weariness today are the Anglo-Arabs and the Irish hunters, both being seen to pant heavily on the hills.

COMISKEY SILENT AS TO NEW PILOT

Gives No Hint Regarding Successor to Gleason as Manager of White Sox.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—William (Kid) Gleason, the fiery manager of the Chicago White Sox since 1919, resigned today, making the fourth managerial position to be filled in the American League before the opening of the 1924 season. The fifty-eight-year-old pilot, with a record of thirty-seven years in baseball, resigned, he said, because he was discouraged with his attempts to reconstruct the club, wrecked with the exposure of the world's series scandal with Cincinnati in 1919. He set about to rebuild the club when the players who participated in the alleged frame-up were dropped, but in the three seasons that have passed, Gleason's fighting spirit alone carried him through, as he had little success in the development of a new team.

"I've given the best that's in me, and the boys did the best they knew how," Gleason said tonight, "but we didn't seem to be able to get anywhere. A change often works wonders, so I decided to step out and give somebody else a chance."

There has been no hint from President Comiskey of the White Sox as to the successor of the veteran. Gleason has been with the Sox for eleven years in the capacity of coach and manager.

The resignation of Gleason leaves Chicago, Boston, Washington and possibly St. Louis without managers for next season. In baseball circles it is believed Gleason will be back in the American League next year as leader of one of these clubs. There seems to be no assurance that George Sisler will be physically able to assume the management of the Browns next season, and there have been persistent reports that Ty Cobb desires to relinquish the reins as leader of the Detroit club, but remain as a player.

LEASES LAUREL HALL.

T. D. Taggart Obtains Farm Made Noted by Peter the Great.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 17.—Thomas D. Taggart of French Lick, widely known horseman and son of former United States Senator Thomas Taggart of Indiana, has leased the Laurel Hall Stock Farm, near here, formerly owned by Stoughton J. Fletcher, it was learned today.

Taggart has purchased all the live stock on the farm and the lease, for a term of three to five years, covers the 700 acres of land, including training track, barns, residences and training quarters.

The Laurel Hall Stock Farm was made famous as a harness horse breeding establishment by the noted sire, Peter the Great, whose son, Peter Pluto, 2:04½, now holds sway. One of Taggart's best known horses is the The Senator 2:03½, which has been racing on the Grand Circuit for the last two seasons. It is understood Taggart will retire The Senator from the track and place him in service at Laurel Hall.

GRIFFITH REMAINS SILENT.

Declines to Say Why Bush Was Relieved as Senators' Manager.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Clark Griffith, President of the Washington Senators, refuses steadfastly to satisfy the curiosity of Washington fans as to why Owen (Donnie) Bush, who piloted the club to a first division berth this year, has been released as manager. It will be the fourth successive year in which the managership of the club has changed hands.

Griffith, who says he has no one in mind as Bush's successor, has answered all inquiries on the subject of his severance of relations with the club with the statement that he will have nothing to say as to the reason for it.

HONOR MORRISON BROTHERS

Owensboro Citizens Present Gifts to Baseball Players.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Oct. 17.—Prophets may have to go away from home for honor, but baseball pitchers hold a high place in the regard of the home folks. Proof of this statement was seen today in a gold watch displayed by Johnny Morrison, pitching ace for the Pittsburgh Pirates, and his brother Phillip's new shotgun. Phillip pitched last season for the Birmingham club of the Southern Association. The watch and gun were presented to the "Morrison boys" by home town baseball fans yesterday.

TO RESUME JUNIOR SERIES.

Kansas City and Baltimore Teams to "Play in Mud if Necessary."

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 17.—Only a heavy rain tonight or rain when it is time to call the fourth game of the junior world's series here tomorrow between Kansas City and Baltimore will cause another postponement, officials of the two clubs asserted here tonight.

"We will play in the mud if necessary," said one official. "We are getting mighty tired of waiting."

The fourth game was postponed for the third time on account of sloppy grounds today.

Veterans of World's Series to Hunt Big Game, Fish or Visit Europe.

The world's series turned over and gave its last gasp yesterday. Hardly a survivor of the great battle was to be seen, and the club offices were deserted. This morning will see all the players except home-breds on their way back home or headed for the great open spaces where the streams abound with fish and the woods are full of big game.

However, the recuperative powers of baseball are so remarkable that the world's series was only a few hours old before there was keen speculation regarding the plans for Spring training. The sound of the last

OMELETTES SCORE ON TIGER VARSITY

NOTRE DAME PLAYS USED

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 17.—A long and furious scrimmage on University Field this afternoon found both the Princeton Varsity and the scrubs scoring freely. The Omelettes made seven touchdowns and the regulars made three. Given the ball on the 20-yard line, the Omelettes had little difficulty in putting it across time after time. They employed Notre Dame plays with great success, completing a large proportion of forward passes.

Bill Roper kept his charges on the run all afternoon, starting off with a kicking drill and interference work by backs the ends. Punting by Legendre, Van Gerbig and Gibson, and drop kicking by Ken Smith featured the drill.

Crago, sophomore guard candidate, whose eligibility has been in doubt, has been declared eligible and was in the line-up today. Bun Henderson was elected Captain of the Omelettes.

During the long scrimmage "Pink" Baker, tackle of the varsity last year, played at full back, tallying twice. The Tiger Varsity started with the ball in midfield each time. Their scores were made by Croft and Legendre.

Team A lined up today as follows: Stout and Drew, ends; Hills and Emery, tackles; Bedell and Howard, guards; L. Bergen, centre; Dinamore, quarterback; Snively, Newby and Legendre, backs.

EVERY SEAT SOLD FOR COLGATE GAME

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Widespread interest up-State in the Cornell-Colgate game to be played on Saturday was revealed this evening when Graduate Manager Berry of Cornell announced that every seat in both stands had been sold and that the box office would not open on the day of the game. There will be no standing room because of a possible jam at the exits.

The Cornell varsity worked at top speed this evening, featuring the forward pass in its attack on the scrubs. Captain George Pfann kept shooting them out to the backs and ends right along. The Ithacans showed considerable improvement in the use of the aerial attack.

STOLZ OUT WITH FRACTURE.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17.—There was much regret at the Naval Academy today when it was announced that the injury to Stolz, regular right end, received in practice yesterday, was a fracture of the smaller bone of the right leg, and that there was little chance that he would get back into the game this year. Brown, who will take his place, is a strong player, but the Navy will not be short on substitute ends.

Closely guarded secret practice was held this afternoon. The work was not severe and most of the time was devoted to the forward pass and to special plays which will be used against Pennsylvania State next Saturday. The attack worked smoothly, and confidence is increasing. The regular backfield was made up of Shapley, Devens, Cullen and Barchet. This quartet will almost certainly start on Saturday. McKee, regular quarterback, is working out his bad ankle and was in signal practice this afternoon. Though he could be used in a pinch, it is not likely he will start against Penn State.

AUBURN ELEVEN ENTRAINS.

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 17.—The Auburn Tiger was off today on a 1,300-mile jaunt to battle the Army eleven Saturday in the second game played with the West Pointers.

Captain Reagan, his squad of twenty men and half a hundred Auburn fans occupied two cars which were attached to a through train for the North. The players will work out on Georgetown University Field tomorrow afternoon and proceed Friday morning to West Point.

WILCE USES PSYCHOLOGY.

Confronts Ohio State Eleven With Red Walls and Placards.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 17.—Coach Wilce of the Ohio State football team believes psychology as applied during the training season helps his team to win. Early in the season he had his office painted a brilliant red for the psychologic effect, he said.

W. VA. CORRECTS FAULTS.

Coach Spears Sends Backfield Through Tackling Drill.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 17.—Mistakes brought to light during the Pitt game were corrected by the West Virginia football squad in today's practice. According to Coach Spears, the tackling by the backfield men against the Panthers was anything but good. He had them busy stopping runners in the open field this afternoon.

Saturday's game with Marshall was also given considerable attention. Dr. Spears will use the same team he started against Pitt, but if Marshall is no stronger than reports indicate a number of substitutions will be made early in the game.

Army Beats Syracuse at Soccer.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The Army soccer team defeated the University of Syracuse eleven on the plains here today by the score of 2 to 0.

Fans Advertise for Chance To See Football Battle

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 17.—Reversing the accepted formula which says an entertainment should advertise if it wants patrons, many potential spectators of next Saturday's Ohio-Michigan football game are advertising for a chance to attend. Want ads are appearing in the classified columns of the student daily asking for tickets to the game. A canvass of several advertisers today disclosed that only a few tickets had been offered for sale in response to the printed appeals, and these were held at fancy figures. Seats for the game were sold out two weeks ago.

FISHER WORKS HARD ON HARVARD'S LINE

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 17.—The Crimson's varsity team continued to show improvement in its running game today. The midseason drive is not on, but this week the coaches are making every effort to speed up the rush line for Saturday's game with Holy Cross. Although the varsity again made great progress against the seconds while working out their scoring plays, and four times drove across for touchdowns starting at about the 25-yard line, the first annual brush with the freshmen resulted in a touchdown for the first year men.

The freshmen team will meet Exeter on Soldiers Field this week, and will wear black Jerseys, as Exeter will appear in crimson. The freshmen wore their new clothes today and found them lucky, as at the end of half an hour's scrimmaging with the varsity, Miller shot through the varsity line at right tackle and raced 35 yards for a touchdown. At this time the freshmen were playing against the first string of varsity substitutes.

A tough game is expected Saturday, but in all probability Coach Fisher will be able to have pretty nearly his regular team in the line-up. Evans is now playing tackle instead of end. Unker is being speeded up and Eastman's injury is not likely to keep him out of the scrimmage for more than a day longer. Hammond will be all right again for the game, but it is doubtful whether Jenkins or Coburn will be in the going until the team meets Dartmouth next week. Jenkins has not pulled a tendon as was reported. Lee and Spalding were the quarterbacks today, but McGlone was in the signal drill. Combs and Crosby were the ends in the absence of Hill and Gordon, the latter playing with the substitutes.

RUTGERS STARS RETURN.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 17.—Rutgers' customary midweek scrimmage this afternoon on Neilson Field was probably the last hard practice session in preparation for the New York Univ versity game here Saturday. Coach Foster Sanford sent his freshman team, which has a game with Peddie on Saturday, against the varsity, and from his coaching tower along the side lines he megaphoned his orders to the players until long after darkness had fallen.

"Dinty" Moore returned to his regular berth at right end in place of Singer, and Zingg, who has been on the injured list for two weeks, went in at tackle instead of Ostas. Dr. Mike Whitehill's freshman team took the offensive for the first part of the scrimmage. Later Coach Sanford gave the varsity the ball for a rehearsal of new plays and bolstered the freshmen for the defense with several scrubs and ineligibles.

Hazel, Waite, Bender and Gibson were on the field but not in togs and none probably will play Saturday. Danny Feller, varsity guard, who has been on the hospital list for three weeks, injured his leg again and appears lost to the team for at least another week. Captain Kingman, Benkert, Smith, Brennan and Lincoln were uniformed today but were withheld from the scrimmage.

PENN STATE DRILLS LATE.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 17.—The Penn State eleven worked desperately until long after dark tonight in preparation for the Navy game on Saturday and it was not until the big arc lights had worked overtime that the coaches finally called a halt.

Johnston, the big halfback who was injured in scrimmage last night, was in uniform today but could not use his right arm. The trouble has been diagnosed as a dislocation and a torn muscle and there is little likelihood of his being able to start against the middies. Buckley was in his place again today and will probably take the field Saturday.

McCann was at left tackle again tonight in place of Schuster. His aggressiveness is pleasing the coaches. Light was at fullback and it looks as though he may get the call on Saturday.

The coaches were far from satisfied with the showing made by the varsity in scrimmage and with only two days remaining before the game the Nittany Lions must make the most of every minute. The players realize that they have but a fighting chance against the Middies.

WILLIAMS TEAM BATTERED.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Oct. 17.—Because of the somewhat battered condition of the Williams football squad following the hard game with Cornell at Ithaca last Saturday, Coach Wendell is permitting his charges to take things fairly easy this week, despite the fact that a hard game is expected Saturday with Norwich here. A short scrimmage tomorrow will probably be the only strenuous workout of the week.

A long signal drill marked today's practice, with attention centring around the aerial attack. Captain Healy, Cole, Surabian, Leete, Clement, Howe, Durmortier and Weber are on the hospital list, but most of these players are expected to be available Saturday if their services are needed. O'Brien, former Harvard end, is here assisting with the Purple Wing men this week.

TO SEE DARTMOUTH PLAY.

Cleveland Alumni, 100 Strong, to Attend Game With Cornell.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 17.—About 100 Cleveland alumni of Dartmouth College will go to Hanover for the Dartmouth-Cornell football game, Nov. 3, to see Watkins, end, and Calder, halfback, play. Both are Clevelanders.

Schoolboy Elevens Will Clash.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 17.—Scott High School football team, schoolboy champions of the United States, today scheduled a game with Crosby High of Waterbury, Conn., to be played here Nov. 3. In return, the Scott basketball team is expected to play Crosby at Waterbury next Winter.

COLUMBIA ELEVEN IN HARD SCRIMMAGE

A scrimmage between Team A, the varsity eleven, and Team B featured Columbia's football practice at Baker Field yesterday in preparation for the big game with Pennsylvania at Franklin Field Saturday afternoon. Following this set-to, in which the first eleven scored two touchdowns, the varsity scrimmaged with the junior varsity team. At the end of the practice Coach Percy Haughton announced that Guards Walberg and Wiberg and Halfback Healey are on the injured list and will not accompany the squad to Philadelphia. Walder, a regular lineman, has hurt his shoulder.

Punting, individual instruction and dummy machine work preceded the workout, which probably will be the last heavy practice before the game. Tomorrow morning the squad will leave for Philadelphia and work out at Franklin Field that afternoon. Today at Baker Field Haughton, behind closed gates as usual, will send his charges through a comparatively light session.

To give the team a big sendoff several hundred students held a rally and "pep" meeting on the steps of the library last night, a torchlight parade around the campus preceding the gathering. Speeches were made by coaches, members of the Football Committee and other well-known alumni, and enthusiasm ran high as the speakers demanded a victory over Pennsylvania or, at least, a tie score. By way of showing the university's confidence in the team, a Columbia special will run to Philadelphia Saturday morning. Between 1,000 and 1,200 undergraduates and alumni will make the trip and sit in a special cheering section.

PENN HOLDS SCRUBS.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Harder work than usual featured Penn's preparations today for the Columbia game. Coach Young sent the varsity against "Poss" Miller's scrubs in a forty-minute scrimmage, in which the latter was given the ball most of the time. Against Jack Keogh's freshmen the varsity put over two touchdowns. The scrubs used Columbia plays all the while and could not make much headway, although Sorenson, one of the halfbacks, had some success in fooling the regulars.

Dern called the signals again, Thomas and Leth were at halfback and Captain Hamer at fullback. That will probably be the backfield at the start of the Columbia game. Hugh King was used for a while today, and will be groomed for an emergency rôle. Brodie Stephens, the star end, is not likely to start against Haughton's team.

STADIUM SEATS ASSIGNED.

Syracuse to Have East Stands for Pitt Game Saturday.

Seats were apportioned yesterday for the coming Pittsburgh-Syracuse football game, which will inaugurate the list of gridiron attractions at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday. The Syracuse students' cheering section will be in the east stand and the Pittsburgh rooters will occupy the seats on the opposite side of the field, which will run parallel with the third-base line. Each institution is bringing several hundred students to urge its team on, and a big demand for tickets was announced by the officials of the stadium yesterday. Each delegation will be accompanied by a band.

Both squads will reach New York early tomorrow morning, the Syracuse players going direct to the Westchester Biltmore Country Club, Rye, N. Y., where they will practice in the afternoon, and the Panthers taking up their headquarters at the Hotel McAlpin. The Pittsburgh squad will go through a light workout at the stadium tomorrow afternoon.

The officials who were named to handle the game yesterday are E. J. O'Brien, Tufts, who will act as referee; Ed Thorp of De la Salle, umpire; W. G. Crowell, Swarthmore, field judge, and J. J. Hallahan, Boston, linesman.

N. Y. U. IN LONG WORKOUT.

Team Put Through Stiff Session in Preparation for Rutgers.

The New York University football team practiced until long after dark yesterday on Ohio Field. Coach Thorp gave his charges a rest on Monday, but since then he has been holding grueling sessions in preparation for the game with Rutgers College at New Brunswick on Saturday. Coach Butler has been in charge of the backs and is gaining better co-ordination. It was expected that Chief Toorock will start the game Saturday at fullback.

The practice yesterday began with a long signal drill for the varsity squad. This was followed by a short session of running down under punts. Toorock did most of the punting. The freshman squad furnished stiff opposition for the varsity in a short scrimmage, but the regulars gained consistently and were always in possession of the ball.

FORDHAM TO DRILL HARD.

Fordham football practice sessions this week will all be pointed toward the game with Lehigh on Saturday, when the Maroon eleven will depart for Bethlehem, Pa.

Head Coach Gargan will start another of his intensive week programs today. Emphasis on closer, cleaner and more accurate passing and cleaner handling of the ball and lessons in punting will characterize the drill sessions today and tomorrow. The squad was given only a light workout yesterday as Coach Gargan was of the opinion that the men deserved a rest after the hard scrimmaging they went through on Tuesday.

W. AND J. STAR IS INJURED.

Wild, End, Hurt in Making Tackle, but May Play Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 17.—The W. and J. College eleven is rounding into shape nicely and the Presidents expect to present their strongest front when they meet the Fighting Tartans of Carnegie Tech here on Saturday afternoon. The kick-off is to take place at 2:30 o'clock.

Wild, star end, has been added to the Red and Black crippled list. He received a severe jolt in making a head-on tackle. His injury is not a serious one, but he is being rested. He has been showing fine ability for the Presidents.

PLANES TO AID SCOUTS.

Seven Quantico Marines to Fly to Michigan Game Saturday.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 17.—The airplane as an aid in scouting football games will be put to the test this weekend, when seven scouts from the Quantico Marine School will fly to Ann Arbor to watch Michigan's formations against Ohio State Saturday. The planes are expected here Friday afternoon.

Captain Hunt, athletic head of the Quantico institution, will be in command of the scouting party.

9 National Sports Champions Will Be Guests of Penn A. C.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Nine men who have won one or more national championships in the field of sports this year will be the guests at a dinner to be given here Oct. 25 by the Penn Athletic Club. They are Maxwell R. Marston, national amateur golf champion; William T. Tilden 2d, national singles, doubles and clay court tennis champion; W. E. Garrett Gilmore, world's single sculling champion and also holder of the American quarter-mile and Canadian one and one-quarter mile titles; John B. Kelly and Paul V. Costello, national doubles sculls champions; Stanley W. Pearson, national squash racquets champion; Dr. P. B. Hawk, national veterans' singles tennis champion; Joseph W. Wear, who with William Potter Wear holds the national father and son tennis title, and William H. Palmer Jr., national archery champion. All the guests are members of the club, which has plans under way for a new clubhouse to cost $3,000,000.

O'HEARN PRACTICES WITH YALE ELEVEN

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 17.—Using Bucknell plays, the Yale Bull Pups were driven against the Bulldogs all the afternoon to test the defense of the regulars. At no time were the Pennsylvania plays able to threaten the varsity goal. Half a dozen time the regulars held the Bull Pups on downs, but the coaches refused to allow them to scrimmage and they surrendered the ball to the scrub invaders again. Two of the Pups, however, displayed spectacular form, Lindley and Allen.

Lindley, at halfback, ran the Pups cleverly, while Allen twice broke free for sizable runs around the varsity end. Charley O'Hearn returned to the line-up after ten days' absence, silencing doubters of his physical ability to take the gridiron on Saturday against Bucknell.

He played throughout the scrimmage, attempting the only scores which the varsity attack was in a position to try for. He missed two field goals from the 40-yard line. Bingham, freshman tackle last year, replaced Hulman for the day.

Hope that Niedlinger and Richeson will be able to play Saturday has vanished, but Neale is a possibility for halfback.

MOORE WILL RACE TONIGHT.

Champion Skater Among Those Who Will Compete at Iceland.

The third series of races for the Iceland trophies will be held at Iceland tonight, with five events on the program. These will be a one-mile Class A handicap, a half-mile Class B handicap and a half-mile men's novice, besides two women's races.

Among the skaters who will face the starter's gun are Foreman and Becker of the Iceland team, George Pickering, the New Jersey State champion; Joe Moore, the international indoor champion, and Bill Murphy, former one-mile national champion.

BIG TEN TEAMS FACE TEST.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Interest among followers of Big Ten football this week centres on practice activities at the camps of Michigan, opponent Saturday of Ohio State, and Illinois, which will meet Iowa. The two games are regarded as the most important so far of the 1923 campaign.

The Michigan-Buckeye game may develop into an aerial fight, as forward passing and plays built about the pass are being stressed in the workouts of both teams. Coach Zuppke, Illinois mentor, is sorting over material to replace several vacancies in his squad caused by injuries and scholarship deficiencies. Signal drills so far have been the principal preparation Wisconsin has made this week for its first conference clash on Saturday with Indiana. The Badgers have displayed a weak line against non-conference teams. The Hoosiers are taking extended workouts under arc lights this week.

Neighborhood differences will be settled by Northwestern and Chicago, the latter making its 1923 conference début. Minnesota and Purdue, which take the field against the non-conference North Dakota and Wabash teams, respectively, are trying new combinations and devoting their time to light workouts.

NEW PLANT AT HOLY CROSS.

Grandstand and Bleachers Are to Accommodate 12,000 Persons.

In keeping with the widespread movement among the country's colleges and universities to build new athletic stadia or to enlarge and remodel their present accommodations for spectators who attend varsity athletic contests, the Athletic Advisory Committee at Holy Cross is taking immediate steps for the development and improvement of Fitton Field, where the Purple athletes meet their opponents at football, baseball and track.

A start will be made this Fall in the construction of concrete bleachers seating 3,000 additional spectators. The plan of improvement calls for the shifting of the baseball diamond and layout of the field to permit the building of a larger grandstand. The diagonal of the diamond from home plate to second base will lie nearer first base, as this will permit the utilization of the large vacant space behind the present stand. The new grandstand will have its centre near what is now the first base bleachers, and will be of the single deck type, seating 9,000. It will be so constructed that an upper deck can be added if necessary, giving 15,000 to 20,000 accommodation. This part of the work will be done this Fall and the entire plan of construction is expected to be completed next April.

Coach O'Donnell is bending every effort to put out a winning football team at Holy Cross this year and hopes to bring a fast and well-balanced eleven to Cambridge on Oct. 20 when the Purple plays Harvard. This will be the first hard contest for Holy Cross and the result will be watched with interest, as Harvard elevens of the last three years have had to extend themselves to defeat the Purple teams.

ZBYSZKO TO MEET PLESTINA

A wrestling match which promises to arouse unusual interest among followers of the mat sport will usher in the season here at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory on Oct. 29. Wladek Zbyszko, Polish giant, yesterday was signed to wrestle Marin Plestina to a finish in the principal bout of a card which will be promoted by Matty Zimmerman. This match is the culmination of six years of persistent effort on the part of Plestina and his manager, Joe Marsh. The pair have been campaigning for that length of time in an effort to obtain a local bout against one of the top-notch grapplers. Because of the intense rivalry between the two giants, a keen mat struggle is expected when they lock grips.

COLLEGE RUNNERS TO RACE ON NOV. 26

I. C. A. A. A. A. Will Again Hold Title Cross-Country Event at Van Cortlandt Park.

The annual cross-country championship race of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America will be held this year on the afternoon of Monday, Nov. 26, at Van Cortlandt Park, it was learned yesterday. The chase will be held over the I. C. A. A. A. A. hill and dale course, which provides more of flat running than the A. A. U. trail.

This year's race will witness the second running of the college hill and dale title chase on a Monday, in accordance with the revised regulations of the I. C. A. A. A. A. Prior to last year the race usually was held in the morning and generally on the day of an important football game. College athletic officials adopted the change in the time when they became convinced the event was suffering from the standpoint of interest and popularity because of its subordination to the important gridiron struggle it preceded by a few hours. From early reports it is indicated that Syracuse University, winner of the team title last year, will nominate a capable squad of harriers to defend its championship.

The I. C. A. A. A. A. A. chase will be one of the outstanding features in a busy period of cross-country running next month. It will come as the climax to what promises to be one of the most successful cross-country seasons in athletic history. The Amateur Athletic Union's national hill and dale championship races have been awarded this year to the Middle Atlantic A. A. U. and will be held in Philadelphia. The junior title event has been scheduled for Nov. 17 and the senior championship race for Nov. 24.

Prior to the A. A. U. national championship events the Metropolitan A. A. U. will conduct its annual championship events, holding its junior race over the Van Cortlandt Park course on Nov. 3 and its senior title event over the Kingsbride trail on Nov. 10.

CHANGES IN LEHIGH TEAM.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Oct. 17.—Captain Bill Springsteen will be back at his tackle position for Lehigh in the game against Fordham on Saturday afternoon. This was forecast in the scrimmage this afternoon when Leroy Brown, a fullback, was shifted to the pivot position.

Another change in the line-up probably will be noted at quarterback, where "Honey" Lewin filled the assignment in the two games played so far by Leibig. Sanford, an end, started at quarterback today. Merrill and Hendershot, regular tackle and guard, respectively, were in the scrimmages for only a brief period. Several other regulars were replaced before the workout was completed as a matter of precaution against aggravating injuries sustained in the Rutgers clash last Saturday, and to give the coaches the opportunity to develop much needed substitutes.

West Virginia Harriers Report.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 17.—Twenty-five candidates for the cross-country team reported to Trainer De Coursey of West Virginia University today for uniforms. The Athletic Board recently decided to add cross-country running to the list of sports for the university.

MRS. ARNOLD LOSES IN RYE GOLF PLAY

SEMI-FINALS ARE REACHED

Mrs. DuBois, Miss Bishop and Mrs. Bird Among Survivors—Three Tourneys Start Today.

In the most thrilling match that has yet been played in the Westchester and Fairfield County Women's Golf Association championship, now in progress at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club, Rye, N. Y., Mrs. E. H. Arnold of Greenwich, winner of the medal in the qualifying round of the tourney, was defeated by Mrs. J. J. Thompsen of Siwanoy yesterday. The match went to the third extra hole before Mrs. Thompson was rewarded. She will meet Mrs. W. E. Du Bois of Westchester Biltmore today in one of the semi-final rounds, while the other will be between Miss Georgianna M. Bishop of Brooklawn, former women's metropolitan champion, and Mrs. W. S. Bird of Sleepy Hollow.

In her match with Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Thompson was 1 up at the turn, but the Greenwich player squared matters by the time that the fifteenth hole had been played. Mrs. Thompson was 1 down at the sixteenth and the match was dormy after the seventeenth, which was halved. It was by winning the home hole that Mrs. Thompson squared the match and sent it to extra holes.

Mrs. Du Bois had a hard time winning from Mrs. Myra D. Paterson of the Westchester Biltmore Country Club, President of the Metropolitan Women's Golf Association, the match going to Mrs. Du Bois by the slender margin of 3 and 1. Even more closely contested was the match between Miss Georgianna Bishop and Mrs. W. W. Peake of Apawamis, the Brooklyn player winning only after an extra hole had been played. The only one-sided match of the day was that between Mrs. Bird and Mrs. C. A. Slocsen of Greenwich, Mrs. Bird winning by 6 and 5.

Mrs. Thatcher Logan of Ardsley added a bit of unusual interest to yesterday's play by offering two prizes for excellency in putting. Play for the first prize resulted in a victory for Mrs. C. W. Breck of Siwanoy after a re-play of a triple tie for the honor. The bogey competition was won by Mrs. Bird.

The summaries:

Championship Sixteen, Third Round—Mrs. J. J. Thompson, Siwanoy, defeated Mrs. E. H. Arnold, Greenwich, 1 up (21 holes); Mrs. F. E. Du Bois, Westchester Biltmore, defeated Mrs. Myra D. Paterson, Westchester Biltmore, 3 and 1; Miss Georgianna M. Bishop, Brooklawn, defeated Mrs. W. W. Peake, Apawamis, 1 up (19 holes); Mrs. W. S. Bird, Sleepy Hollow, defeated Mrs. C. A. Slocsen, Greenwich, 6 and 5.

Three invitation tournament fixtures are on the program for various parts of the metropolitan section starting today. One, and perhaps the most important, since it usually attracts a star field, will be the annual Piping Rock tourney, in which among the probable starters will be John N. Stearns Jr., the Island amateur champion; Gardiner W. White of Nassau, former metropolitan district champion, who by winning the St. Albans invitation event proved that he is once more back in top form; Eddie Driggs, who was runner-up in the Long Island championship; Grant A. Peacock and Captain H. C. C. Tippett.

The Linwood Country Club at Atlantic City will get its second annual Fall tournament under way at the same time and, while there will be a number of entries from the metropolitan area, it is likely that the bulk of players will be from the Philadelphia and New Jersey districts. The Linwood event will probably be cut into a bit by the fact that today is also the date set for the annual Buckwood tournament at Shawmee; but both will doubtless get large and representative fields.

SWEETSER WINS ON LINKS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 17.—Before a gallery of 600 persons, Miss Glenna Collett of Providence and Dexter Cummings of Yale, intercollegiate golf champion, were today defeated 5 down in an eighteen-hole match over the links of the Racebrook Country Club by Jesse Sweetser of Yale, former national amateur champion, and Miss Anita Lihm of Chicago, who defeated Miss Collett in Philadelphia last week. They played two points to the hole.

Sweetser displayed the most spectacular game of the quartet, while Miss Collett's play easily outclassed that of Miss Lihm.

Boards Boat Long Before Sailing Time and Leaves Havana.

HAVANA, Oct. 17.—Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine boxer, who arrived unexpectedly in Hanava late yesterday from the United States, hustled out of his hotel this morning and went aboard the steamer Essequibo several hours before she was to sail for South American ports.

Firpo had been booked to give a boxing exhibition here before the vessel sailed, according to the morning newspapers, and shortly after he left the hotel newspaper men were hot on his trail.

They wanted to talk to the Argentine giant about reports that he had been detained temporarily at Key West yesterday. By the time the fighter's whereabouts were discovered the Essequibo, lying in the harbor, was getting ready to hoist anchor and the would-be interviewers were rewarded only by a glimpse of Firpo leaning on the rail of an upper deck.

The Key West boat was detained on sailing yesterday morning, passengers said, because of some irregularity in Firpo's income tax papers. He told newspaper men last night, however, that he had paid his income tax before leaving New York.

Firpo said he was going from Havana to Lima, Peru, where the Essequibo is due in eight days, and would give an exhibition boxing match there Nov. 4 before going to Buenos Aires. He added that he was coming back here next April and would return to the United States in May.

Firpo paid his income tax and satisfied all Federal tax requirements before leaving New York, officials in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue declared yesterday, commenting on a message from Havana that Firpo had been held up at Key West, Fla., because of irregularity in his income tax papers.

WILLS NOT TO BOX TATE.

Proposed Bout Fails to Materialize on Advice From Mullins.

Any prospects that existed for a heavyweight battle between Harry Wills and Bill Tate, negro ring rivals, at Madison Square Garden this season disappeared yesterday, temporarily at least. Matchmaker Frank Flournoy sought a Wills-Tate clash as an attraction for the Garden next week, but was unable to obtain Wills's consent to the battle, it was learned. Paddy Mullins, manager of the Brown Panther of New Orleans, notified Flournoy that Wills would not be available for the proposed Tate match, according to an announcement made at the Garden.

Flournoy now is negotiating for a fifteen-round bout in which Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, will engage Georgie Marks, Pacific Coast bantamweight, on Oct. 26. This match has practically been closed, Charley Cook, manager of Marks, announced yesterday that he expected to sign for Marks this afternoon. Genaro, too, is said to be agreeable to the contest.

Squirrel Collects Golf Balls; Sixty-Eight Found in Nest

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Archie McLean of Lachine, playing on the Senneville golf course today, noticed a squirrel carrying a golf ball to his nest. She followed and found sixty-eight balls, which she replaced with nuts.

NAVY BOXERS LIST MANY NEW TEAMS

Yale, Colgate and Boston University to Take Up Sport for First Time.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17.—A great development in the sport of boxing among the colleges is indicated by the naval academy schedule for the coming season. Yale, Colgate, Boston University and several southern colleges appear as new names in that sport and will be on the intercollegiate list in the future.

The naval team meets Yale at New Haven on March 15 and will take part in the first boxing intercollegiates, to be held at Pennsylvania State late in March.

Home matches are as follows: Feb. 24, Colgate; March 1, All Canadian Collegians; March 8, Pennsylvania State. Negotiations are on with the University of Pennsylvania, Virginia Military Institute, University of Virginia, University of South Carolina, Massachusetts Tech and Boston University.

LYNCH IS THE FAVORITE.

Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, will enter the ring a favorite over Joe Burman, Chicago bantamweight, in their fifteen-round title battle tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden. Satisfied that the West Side Irishman is in superb form after an intensive period of training, his friends have rallied to the support of Lynch and are wagering heavily on the local lad to retain his title. Some of the more optimistic among Lynch's admirers are confident Joe will dispose of Burman before the scheduled fifteen rounds have been completed and are wagering in support of this confidence. The majority, however, are backing Lynch to carry off the decision.

CURTIN TO MEET SANGER.

Satisfied that he is back to his fighting form again after his long period of inactivity, "Irish" Johnny Curtin, Jersey City bantamweight, plans to keep active for the rest of the indoor season. This was indicated yesterday in the announcement that Curtin had been signed to battle Joey Sanger, Milwaukee bantamweight, in the star bout of twelve rounds at the Pioneer A. C. on Nov. 6. It was at the Pioneer Club that Curtin last Tuesday night signalized his return to the ring by knocking out Pete Mivic of Pittsburgh in the fourth round of a scheduled twelve-round bout.

SMITH TO BOX GOLDTEIN.

Harold Smith, Chicago bantamweight who made a favorable impression in his first bout here two weeks ago, yesterday was matched to meet Abe Goldstein in a twelve-round bout at the Pioneer A. C. on Oct. 30. The match has been hanging fire for the past several days.

Smith showed promising form in his initial bout here when he gained the decision over Danny Lee of Harlem in the semi-final to the Charlie White-Pal Moran bout at Madison Square Garden a fortnight ago. He is promised a severe test against Goldstein, who is one of the shiftiest and cleverest of the local bantamweights.

Pitcher Sheehan to Marry.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 17.—Thomas C. Sheehan of St. Paul, pitching ace of the American Association, and Miss Olga Trygstad of St. Paul will be married here tomorrow. Sheehan has been sold to Cincinnati.

GROMBACH WINS IN EXTRA ROUND

Defeats Silverstein in Met. A. A. U. Boxing Tourney Before 3,000 in Garden.

Second Lieutenant John Grombach, West Point graduate and intercollegiate amateur boxing champion, defeated Henry Silverstein, Saratoga A. C. heavyweight, last night in the feature bout of the preliminaries in the Metropolitan A. A. U. amateur boxing tournament at Madison Square Garden. The former cadet had the time of his life scoring his victory, which came after four exciting rounds when the judges agreed on the army man as the victor.

Silverstein, a novice southpaw, gave a surprisingly good account of himself against the intercollegiate titleholder. He stood toe to toe with Grambach and slugged until he, like the former cadet, was arm weary. At the end of the customary three rounds the judges and referee disagreed and an extra round was ordered.

Silverstein, decidedly tired, did not want to come out for the extra session, but his handlers lifted him to his feet at the clang of the gong and again the combatants sailed into each other. In the extra session Grombach managed to score enough points to win the decision by a scant margin.

Carl Carter and Freeman Pinkett, negro boxers, furnished an exciting encounter in the first of the heavyweight bouts. It ended after forty-three seconds of the second round with Pinkett the winner on a knockout. A right to the jaw stretched Carter on the floor after both boxers had collided head-on in a mad rush. Each boxer sustained a bad cut above the left eye in the collision.

Semi-finals and finals will be held tonight in the six classes in which bouts have been scheduled. If the bouts tonight are as good as those held last night, before 3,000 persons, an interesting evening is in store for the spectators. True to tradition, the preliminaries furnished all kinds of boxing. Some good, some bad, some indifferent, some humorous and some tragic. It was a curious mixture of fisticuffs, and all of it thoroughly satisfactory.

The summaries:

WALKER TO REGAIN LICENSE IN APRIL

Boxer's Suspension in New Jersey Decreased From One Year to Six Months.

Newton A. K. Bugbee, in charge of the supervision of boxing in the State of New Jersey, yesterday announced that he had modified the suspension of Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, to a period of six months, dating from the night of his bout against Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, Ohio, on Oct. 8. Walker originally was suspended from boxing in New Jersey for a period of one year from the date of the bout on the recommendation of Chief Inspector Platt Adams, who was a ringside spectator at the contest and ordered it stopped and declared "no contest," as the men were about to start the tenth round.

Walker still is under suspension here for refusing to recognize Dave Shade's challenge. Bugbee announced that the year's suspension visited upon Jack Bulger, Walker's manager, would stand without modification. No announcement was made with respect to the suspension of Jones, who was disciplined for his share in the alleged unsatisfactory bout.

The decision to modify Walker's suspension followed a personal appeal for a modification, made by the titleholder last Monday at a hearing in Bugbee's office at Trenton, N. J. The New Jersey State boxing supervisor stated yesterday in a letter to Walker, that he believed the titleholder's statements about the poor condition of his hands in advance of the Jones bout and that he appreciated Walker's desire not to disappoint those who journeyed to Dreamland Park, Newark, to see him fight Jones. In his letter, Commissioner Bugbee said:

"In order that the public may be protected and the boxing game may continue to be an attractive sport in the estimation of the State, it is necessary for me to punish you and your manager, especially your manager, Jack Bulger, who, in my mind, is largely responsible for the fiasco which took place on the eighth instant.

"In view of the extenuating circumstances surrounding your injured hand I propose to commute your suspension to six months, but will suspend your manager for a period of one year, both periods of suspension dating from the day of the fight, Oct. 8."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Recovery in Stocks After Early Decline—Foreign Exchange Very Irregular.

Recovery in prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday, following Tuesday's decline and Monday's advance, might suggest that Wall Street had reached a period of daily instead of weekly alternations in the market. To the extent that the recent professional pulling and hauling has produced no other result than to stir up momentarily a stock market whose own predisposition seemed to be to stand motionless, this narrowing of the orbit for successive movements would be logical enough. Whether it should naturally end in complete stagnation, in default of some development of real significance in the news, is perhaps a different question. A market which should not move at all is theoretically quite conceivable, but it is outside of the Wall Street imagination.

Yesterday's advances on the Stock Exchange, like the declines of the day before, were irregularly distributed, and there were some declines. The railway shares as a group made less of a recovery than the industrials, but the previous day's decline did not continue. There was little further talk about the conference of President Coolidge with Presidea Rea of the Pennsylvania, in regard to the possible lowering of railway rates on export grain. This consideration may have lost interest because Wall Street had bethought itself that a tentative suggestion from the White House is not an edict, or because of reflection on the fact that railways themselves have been known to change such rates if it was proved that the movement of freight had been kept down by existing tariffs. A few of the railway shares rose a point or more, but in most the day's changes were only fractional.

During part of the day the foreign exchange market showed considerable weakness; thereafter, it moved irregularly. It is difficult to say what that market's action at a given moment really indicates; between the reparation conference, the German riots, the contradictory statements regarding Ruhr production and payment of Ruhr workmen, the votes of the Reichstag and the puzzles of the German currency plans, there are arguments in plenty from which a market can pick and choose. Most people who look beyond minor and inevitable details would probably say that the two important facts were that direct negotiation over the reparation payment is at last under way again (something which was declared to be impossible last Summer) and that the Berlin Government is attempting a first step in currency reform.

The curious mood which prevails in nearly all markets at the moment has been illustrated by the selling of sterling exchange on the report that England was to revert to inflation of the currency. Any one in possession of his senses knew that there was no more possibility of this than of an order from the White House to double the issue of Federal Reserve notes. But some foolish remarks on the subject, ascribed to an unimportant member of the British Cabinet, were enough to start the ball rolling, with the markets feeling as they do about most public questions. If the shoe were on the other foot in the matter of American exchange on Europe, rates would very possibly have moved against New York when it was lately suggested, in the Congressional hearings about Federal Reserve affairs, that paper currency ought to be issued hereafter from the Post Offices.

Midweek revisions of the steel trade threw no fresh light on the industrial situation. The United States Steel Corporation is still operating at 96 per cent. of capacity, the independent mills slightly under 70 per cent.

LOAN FOR HUNGARY ADVANCED AT PARIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—As a result of an agreement reached at Geneva last month between Premier Benes of Czechoslovakia and Count Bethlen, Premier of Hungary, the Reparation Commission today gave official sanction to framing of a plan by the League of Nations for the financial reconstruction of Hungary similar to that undertaken last year for Austria, and agreed "in principle" to contemplate on the completion of this plan the raising of the lien on Hungarian assets and revenues, which under Article 108 of the Treaty of the Trianon should be a prior claim of the Reparation Commission.

In the text of this decision the Reparation Commission gave an invitation to the League to draw up a plan in agreement with the countries concerned and appointed a delegate from the finance service of the commission to work with the League Secretariat. As in the case of Austria, the plan would include supervision of the Hungarian budget by the League of Nations, with which States holding claims against Hungary would be associated by means of a committee of members which would be appointed by the Reparation Commission. When the plan is completed the Reparation Commission will examine it and take the necessary decisions. They at the same time make the reservation that, although it is contemplated that the first loan may be given priority over reparations, the arrangement should not exclude the possibility that the proceeds of a second loan should be wholly or partially devoted to reparations.

It is interesting to note that Hungary is the second country burdened by reparations and with grossly inflated currency which has called on the League of Nations to extract it from its difficulties. The success of the Austrian plan has been one of the greatest achievements of the League of Nations, and during the Assembly at Geneva last month repeated congratulations were offered to Dr. Zimmermann, the League's Commissioner in Austria for the work he had accomplished. Dr. Zimmermann, it is understood, is of the opinion that by the same treatment as was given Austria, and will probably be given to Hungary, the German financial situation could be restored and the country placed again on a sound footing.

DETROIT TURNS DOWN PLAN TO ISSUE BONDS

Detroit's first action to indicate that the city was determined to carry out the policy, announced last week, of holding down the municipal indebtedness to limits within which the city's securities are classed as suitable for investment of trust funds in New York State was taken yesterday when the City Council rejected a proposal to have the city raise more money through a new bond issue.

According to advices reaching the financial district, the proposed issue was to have been for $5,000,000. This amount was asked by the Board of Education, and it was recommended that the proposition be passed on to the voters at a city election on Nov. 6. The negative vote of the City Council was by a large majority.

G. R. Kinney Preferred Dividend.

Directors of the G. R. Kinney Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on the preferred stock payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record Nov. 20.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Mixed and Irregular Market.

Yesterday's stock market was full of cross-currents, causing the appearance of irregularity throughout the list. The market swung listlessly back and forth, but at the close, thanks to a brisk rally in the final half-hour, stocks were moderately higher, with gains of more than one point in United States Steel common, Studebaker, Reading, Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin and American Can. Wall Street as a whole is greatly perplexed by the present market. Traders find that on the reactions there is good demand for stocks of all kinds, but they also find that on the rallies there is considerable stock for sale. This has been interpreted in Wall Street as indicating that the professionals, who are guiding the market at the moment, are satisfied to keep it in the rut of indecision and are not disposed to encourage deviations to any large extent from the present smoothly-worn groove.

It appears odd that furnace fuel should be shipped by American concerns to the Ruhr Valley. Nevertheless, the trade journals report that contracts for two cargoes of 5,000 and 6,000 tons respectively, of coke, are about to be closed at Pittsburgh, for shipment to German producers. The answer is found in the fact that German coke is selling at the equivalent of $13.03 a ton as compared with the prevailing price of $4 a ton for Connellsville furnace coke.

A Car Loading Decline.

A surprise is in store for those who have been expecting an increase in the weekly car loading totals through the middle of October, if predictions yesterday by students of the situation are correct. Their estimates indicate that the loadings for the first week in October were from 15,000 to 20,000 cars fewer than in the last week in September. If the actual figures, to be announced tomorrow verify these estimates, it is pointed out that the loadings will still be approximately 70,000 cars more than in the same week of last year.

Wall Street Brokers' Loans.

The reduction in brokers' loans during the last six months, which in some quarters is attributed as almost entirely due to the lack of interest in stock market operations on the part of the public, is not as significant as may seem on the surface, according to a Wall Street statistician. The high point of brokers' loans last February was estimated at $2,000,000,000, while present loans, according to estimates, are approximately $1,350,000,000, a reduction of $650,000,000. While a falling off in public interest in the market had much to do with this reduction, the decline in prices during the last six months also has been an important factor. The average price of two hundred representative railroad and industrial stocks has dropped 22 per cent., or about $440,000,000. Consequently the $650,000,000 reduction in loans shrinks to about $210,000,000. Thus it is argued that when the fall in values is considered the long account in the stock market is still larger than most persons realize.

New Municipal Bond Issues.

With the sale yesterday of a new issue of State of Illinois bonus and highway bonds, the calendars of investment bankers have been fairly well cleared of large new municipal business for the present, according to the statement of a banker yesterday who said he personally knew of no one large State or city issue now under contemplation. There still remains a number of smaller issues to be marketed, he said, but for larger undertakings bankers will now have to look to fields other than the one made up of municipalities. State and city governments, he suggested, have caught up with requirements such as road building, water improvements and the like, the need for which was great in the period immediately following the war, owing to the fact that new work of all kinds had been tied up for nearly two years.

A Trader's Profit.

The record of the financial activities of a floor trader on the New York Stock Exchange at the end of the day may give some indication of the extreme difficulty under present conditions of making a profit out of the market. The trader made twelve purchases and sales during the day, all of leading speculative stocks. His greatest profit on any single purchase or sale of one-hundred-shares was ⅛ of 1 point. His greatest loss was one-half a point. He quit the day with a net profit of $12.50.

Republic Steel's Third Quarter.

If the statement of earnings of the Republic Iron and Steel Company for the third quarter of the current year is a criterion, the recent optimistic estimates of steel company earnings for the period may be realized. Early in the week Wall Street estimated that the Republic would earn about $4 a share on the common stock, whereas the actual figures showed surplus equal to $4.18 a share on the common, after allowing for the regular dividend on the preferred shares. The conservative element in the Street had thought that the estimate was a bit high, as the higher coal, due to the elimination of the twelve-hour day would be first reflected in the earnings of the third quarter. As was expected, Republic's earnings for the third quarter were not as large as in the second quarter. The favorable statement, however, had little effect on the market action of the stock, because Wall Street is paying more attention to new orders than to earnings from past operations.

The New Ship Operating Plan.

Comment on the Government's plan of ship operation, announced yesterday, appeared to divide into "official" and "unofficial" views. Generally, the "official" view was to the effect that the Shipping Board having finally arrived at a definite policy, the private steamship companies would now await with interest the outcome of the new policy. The "unofficial" view which was equally unanimous in character, was that the board, in deciding on the direct-operation plan, had not incorporated in it the principle of economy. This view carried the general statement that many new offices and jobs would have to be created in furtherance of the new policy and that, while the board would save the 5 per cent. commission paid to agents for handling the freight for its ships, the sub-agents to be selected under the plan would receive 7½ per cent.

New Type of Investment.

With public offering today of bonds of the newly organized Italian Power Company investors will be introduced to a new type of investment security and one which will hold a particular interest not only to potential buyers but also to the underwriters, who, if this offering proves successful, will later sell issues for other Italian hydro-electric industries. Under the company's plan, it will raise money for its clients in Italy through the sale of securities bearing the stamp of the American company. These securities will be secured by the capital of the Italian Power Company and also by an amount of acceptances of the Italian public utility equal in amount to the total of the new bond issue. Thus the actual notes of the Italian company will be used as collateral for the issuance of a like amount of notes or bonds by the American company, so that in effect the investor will not be buying the security of the Italian company, but a security of an American company. An added touch of interest in the offering lies in the fact that it is being made for one of the pioneer electric and power companies of Italy in which Thomas A. Edison was a prime mover.

3 Reasons

for Public Utility Bonds

1. Practically constant demand for services in good times and bad.
2. Freedom from labor troubles—no costly strikes.

Increase Your Non-Taxable Income

To investors with funds now available added value is given to the tax exempt features of municipal bonds through the recent decline in market prices. The liberal yields obtainable not only increase the non-taxable net return, but also increase the amount of bonds which may be profitably purchased before turning to high yield taxable securities to produce an equal net return.

Our Investment Circular 976, in which we list carefully selected offerings of high-grade Municipal Bonds, will be gladly furnished on request.

Beginning March 22, the Stock Exchange officially quotes Liberty bonds in units and fractions, the fractions being 32ds of a unit, and the quotations after the decimal point representing one or more 32ds. In the above table, therefore, the figures of highest and lowest prices during 1923 and since date of issue are reduced to the form now used in the Stock Exchange quotations.

RAILWAYS FRAMING REPLY TO COOLIDGE

MAY ASK GENERAL REVISION

Radical Changes in Charges for All Commodities One Plan Suggested Two Meetings Called.

Railroad executives, in two meetings, one of the Eastern Railway Executive Conference today, and the other a special meeting of traffic vice presidents on next Tuesday, will discuss the suggestions of President Coolidge for a reduction in export grain rates, and an adjustment of the domestic and foreign coal rates. At these meetings, it is expected, plans to meet the proposal of the President will be formulated. Among the suggestions to be advanced is one for a radical revision in freight rates for all commodities, including grain and coal.

While this proposal has no official public sponsor at present, those in close touch with the executives say that it is receiving consideration. Should the officials decide to act upon it, they would call upon the President and the Interstate Commerce Commission to make a complete revision of the rate structure on a scientific basis.

Those who are advocating such a change maintain that the present rate structure is based on rates that just "grew-up" under the old competitive conditions, and were later adopted by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which simply added to or deducted from these rates on a percentage basis.

The rate revision proposed, it is stated, would not mean a net reduction to the railroads of the country in the total revenues, but would simply be a revision through a reduction in the bulk article rates, and an increase in the rates on manufactures, with a differential adjustment that would give the grain carrying roads, for example, practically the same income as they are receiving at present.

In considering the suggestions of President Coolidge, railroad traffic executives yesterday pointed out that there was a difference between the export and domestic rates on grain and flour shipments. For example, the export rate on wheat from Chicago to New York was 23 cents per 100 pounds prior to May, 1918, and is now 29.5 cents, while the domestic rate is 30 cents.

Another point to be taken up at the meetings is an adjustment of the American and Canadian grain rates. If the reduction were limited to the American shipments, it was said that the effect on the railroads would not be so serious as if it applied also to Canadian grain being shipped through the United States to ports.

As the result of the discussion of the proposed reduction in grain rates, the shares of the Northwestern railroads continued to show weakness on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. Chicago & Northwestern sold at the lowest price it has reached in more than thirty years and Northern Pacific was lower than it has been since 1906.

Steamship executives, in commenting on the proposal of President Coolidge, stated that they believed if carried out it would have a distinct bearing on the ocean charter market, because they looked for it to stimulate the shipment of grain.

C. & N. W. to Celebrate 75th Year.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway System will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary in Chicago next Wednesday, when officials of the railway will have as their guests for the day 100 veterans who have been in active service for fifty years or more.

PACKERS FIGHT PRICE LAW.

British and Americans in Argentine Refuse to Join Commission.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 17.—The British and American packing concerns established here have refused to appoint a representative on the commission established by new legislation with the power to fix prices periodically for the purchase of meat from the producer. The law created a commission of six members representing the Government, municipality and cattle interests, including the "Corporation of Frigeriticos." The packers, who fought to prevent the passage of the law, claim that no such corporation exists and that they therefore are unable to appoint a representative.

The other members of the commission met and fixed the minimum price for chilled and frozen beef for the United Kingdom at 27 and 24 centavos per kilogram, respectively, and 19 centavos for beef for the Continent of Europe, these rates to rule until Nov. 30. The prices are not for dressed beef, but for cattle on the hoof of the type producing the three classes of meat mentioned. The prices are said to be somewhat higher than the packing companies recently have been paying.

It is reported that the packers are considering legal measures to modify the law, which they contend is economically unworkable.

Seek Dollings Dividend Fund.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—The Crane Ohio Ice Cream Company and other subsidiaries of the R. L. Dollings Company of Ohio were claimants today in the United States District Court to part of a $78,000 fund created for the payment of dividends to stockholders. Since a receiver was appointed for the R. L. Dollings Company of Pennsylvania, the Colonial Trust Company, which has the fund on deposit here, has refused to honor stockholders' dividend checks. The ice cream company placed the value of its claim at $41,000, counsel stating that the company had deposited $49,000 in the fund last July. Judge Dickinson suggested that a bill in equity be filed raising the question as to who is entitled to the fund.

OFFER $10,000,000 OF FINLAND BONDS

ITALIAN COMPANY ISSUE

The last minute hitch which developed late Tuesday afternoon in negotiations for the flotation here of a bond issue for the Republic of Finland was untied yesterday by reducing the amount of the offering and the bonds will be placed on the market today. The issue will consist of $10,000,000 of 6 per cent. external loan sinking fund gold bonds due on Sept. 1, 1943, and non-redeemable except for the sinking fund. The original amount was $13,500,000.

Under legislative enactment, Finland contemplates in 1924 the expenditure of $16,500,000 on public works including railroads, harbors and hydroelectric resources. All but 7 per cent. of the nation's railroads are under government ownership and the country also holds title to large timber lands. Government holdings having been appraised at $540,000,000 as against total indebtedness of $108,319,500, including the country's debt to the United States Government.

The most recent loan of Finland outside of the offering today is now selling in London at or around a price to yield 6.64 per cent., which is a shade below the yield of today's offering, the American bonds being priced at 90 to yield the investor 6.89 per cent. The offering is being made by the National City Company and Dillon, Read & Co.

The first bond issue to be brought out by the newly organized Italian Power Company, which has been formed as an investment company by a group of Americans, will be marketed today. The offering will be for the account of a pioneer hydro-electric company in Italy, organized in 1885. The issue consists of $2,000,000 of Italian Power Company five-year 6½ per cent. collateral trust gold bonds due on Oct. 1, 1928. American investors will hold as security bonds issued by the American company, but which will have back of them $2,000,000 of Edison Electric Company of Milan, Italy, 6½ per cent. acceptances, and also the entire capital of the Italian Power Company amounting to $2,000,000 more. Under this arrangement the American company will supervise the payment of interest and principal.

According to the statement of the bankers underwriting the new issue, the Edison Electric Company of Milan, with affiliated and subsidiary companies, supplies power and light to the greater part of the Lombard Region of Northern Italy. The present financing is in connection with the completion of two additional plants. The offering group consists of Aldred & Co., the Bankers Trust Company, Stone & Webster, Inc., First National Bank, Boston, and the First Federal Banking Association. The bonds are offered at 99, to yield about 6.75 per cent.

An issue of $9,000,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. three to twenty year serial coupon bonds of the Development Corporation of Detroit is offered by S. W. Straus & Co. The issue is secured by properties in Detroit appraised at more than $16,000,000, it is stated, some of the principal properties being the new twenty-nine-story Book-Cadillac Hotel, the Real Estate Exchange Building and Woodward Arcade Building.

Offering of $6,000,000 Alabama Power Company first mortgage lien and refunding gold bonds, 6 per cent. series, is made at 99, to yield approximately 6.07 per cent., by Harris, Forbes & Co. and Coffin & Burr, Inc. The bonds are due on June 1, 1951.

An issue of $1,500,000 American Public Service Company first lien 6½ per cent. gold bonds is offered by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., and A. B. Leach & Co., Inc., at 96.80, to yield approximately 6.80 per cent. The issue will mature on Dec. 1, 1942. This company controls and operates eleven public utility companies, serving a large territory in Easter Oklahoma and Central and Eastern Texas.

A group composed of the First National Bank, Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co., Redmond & Co. and B. J. Van Ingen & Co. is offering a new issue of $1,050,000 Columbus, Ohio, 5 per cent. school bonds dated Oct. 15, last. The issue is divided into $606,000 refunding bonds due Feb. 1 and Aug. 1, 1926 to 1931, inclusive, offered to yield 4.70 per cent., and $444,000 of building bonds due from Oct. 15, 1925 to 1948, inclusive, offered at prices to yield from 4.60 to 4.65 per cent.

An issue of $365,000 Watertown, N. Y., gold 4½ per cent. bonds maturing from 1924 to 1953, inclusive, is offered at prices to yield 4.20 per cent., by Sherwood & Merrifield, Inc.

The new issue of State of Illinois bonds brought out yesterday met with good reception, according to announcement of the offering group. By 3 o'clock it was reported, the entire issue had been sold.

Announcement was also made yesterday that the recent issue of $2,000,000 of 7 per cent. preferred stock of the Washburn Crosby Company of Minneapolis had been sold and books closed. This issue was sold by the Minnesota Loan and Trust Company and the Minneapolis Trust Company.

WEATHER HURTS COTTON.

Week's Conditions Favorable, However, to Corn and Wheat.

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture, issued at Washington yesterday, in part follows:

"Temperature averaged nearly normal throughout the cotton-growing States except in the northwestern part of the belt, where it was rather cool. There was very little rainfall east of the Mississippi River, although rain set in at the end of the week over the central Gulf States. In the western portion of the belt rainfall was heavy to excessive in many localities, with deficient sunshine. There was a large amount of sunshine east of the Mississippi River.

"It was too cool and wet for cotton in Oklahoma, and unfavorable for picking and ginning; bolls opened slowly, with considerable rotting. Crop in general showed further deterioration. First part of week was generally dry in Texas, but latter part was rainy and wet, and picking was largely suspended. Top crop continued to make poor progress, and some open cotton was beaten out by rain. Grades were lower.

"It was favorable for picking in Arkansas. This work made rapid progress. There is no top crop except in the extreme north, and many bolls are injured. Cotton is practically all gathered in Louisiana, but some open cotton was damaged by rain and wind.

"East of the Mississippi weather was unusually favorable for picking and ginning. Harvest was practically completed in central and southern Mississippi and Alabama, and crop was nearly all out in Georgia. Picking is further advanced than usual in South Carolina and has been almost finished in parts of Tennessee. Weather was favorable in North Carolina and picking advanced rapidly, with crop turning out better than expected in some weevil-infected areas. General condition in North Carolina is fair to very good.

"Late corn matured rapidly in the upper Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, and the prevailing weather was favorable for drying out the early crop. Husking was begun in a few places in northern and western sections of Iowa and was reported in the Ohio Valley States. This crop has been all safely made in Missouri, and conditions were unusually favorable for late corn in Arkansas. It was too wet in Oklahoma and much of Texas, where harvest was delayed. There was some damage to grain by rain in Oklahoma. There was a small amount of corn cribbed in Kansas. No material damage was done by the killing frost in the northern plains, as the crop was generally matured. Late corn has been damaged considerably in the East Gulf States and Tennessee by reason of insufficient moisture.

Houston Oil Earnings Increase.

The Houston Oil Company reported gross earnings of $2,616,616 for the first nine months of the year, against $2,071,296 in the corresponding period last year. After payment of all expenses and taxes, but before reserves for depreciation and depletion, there was reported net income of $1,774,563, against $1,465,835 a year ago. For the three months ended Sept. 30 the company reporteu gross earnings of $1,157,349, against $582,154 in the same period last year. Net earnings for the September quarter, after expenses and charges, but before reserves for depreciation and depletion, totaled $640,551, against $397,627 in 1922.

GRAPHOPHONE CO.'S NEW PLAN OUTLINED

Two Organizations to Handle Affairs of Corporation in Receivers' Hands.

WILL CARRY ON BUSINESS

One Concern Will Continue Operation and Other Will Liquidate Old Company's Assets.

Details of the proposed plan of reorganization of the Columbia Graphophone Company, for which receivers were appointed in the Federal District Court on Monday, were made public in a statement issued yesterday by Mortimer N. Buckner, Chairman of the New York Trust Company and Chairman of the Readjustment Committee which drew up the reorganization plan. Under the terms of the plan two companies will be formed, one for the purpose of liquidating the assets of the present company and the other to continue operation of the business.

The committee which drew up the plan represents 90 per cent. of the indebtedness against the company, and, in view of this, it is generally expected that it will be only a question of a short time before the plan is declared operative.

Mr. Mortimer's statement says:

"Stock in the new companies will be delivered to creditors participating in the plan on the basis of 3.75 shares of stock of the operating company, with 3.75 shares of stock of the liquidating company, in exchange for each $1,000 of indebtedness, principal, and interest. The plan also provides for the exchange of the existing 8 per cent. preferred stock of the Columbia Graphophone Factories Corporation of Maryland at the rate of three shares of stock in the operating company, three shares of stock in the liquidating company and $200 in cash for each $1,000 par value of such preferred stock. The new stock is to be offered to stockholders of the old company for subscription."

Mathews Quits Crucible Steel.

Dr. John A. Mathews has resigned as President of the Crucible Steel Company of America. He is succeeded by E. C. Collins, who has been Assistant to the Chairman of directors. The duties of President, according to H. S. Wilkinson, Chairman of directors, made demands upon Dr. Mathews's time which interfered with research and development in the field of metallurgy, to which he has devoted most of his career. He desires to concentrate on metallurgical work.

Finland is the only country (except Great Britain) that has commenced payment to the United States Government for indebtedness incurred during the War.

THE ISSUE

Dated September 1, 1923 Due September 1, 1945

Interest payable March 1 and September 1. Coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000, registerable as to principal only. Principal and interest payable in New York City in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness at The National City Bank of New York, Fiscal Agent, without deduction for any present or future Finnish taxes, in time of war as well as in time of peace, irrespective of the nationality of the holder.

Sinking Fund sufficient to redeem entire issue during final 20 years

Finland agrees to redeem the entire Loan through a cumulative sinking fund, beginning after the expiration of the second year of the Loan, to be used to purchase Bonds at not exceeding 100 and interest, or, if Bonds are not obtainable at or below that price, for redemption of Bonds by lot semi-annually at 100.

These Bonds are the direct obligations of the Republic of Finland, which agrees that if, in the future, it shall sell, offer for public subscription or in any manner dispose of any bonds or loan secured by lien on any revenue or asset of the Republic, the service of this loan shall be secured equally and ratably with such bonds or loan.

According to a statement by the Minister of Finance, the proceeds of this loan will be utilized by the Government for productive capital expenditures. The 1924 budget calls for appropriations approximately equal to $16,500,000, to be expended on public works, including extensions to the Government railroads, harbor improvements, and hydro-electric developments. It is stated that where materials are purchased outside of Finland, preference will be given American manufactures, if obtainable on equal terms.

The credit of Finland has long been established in the financial centers of Europe, and during the twenty-five years preceding 1914, Finland borrowed abroad at coupon-rates ranging from 3% to 4½%, approximately the same rates at which Sweden, Denmark and Norway borrowed during the same period. The 4½% Sterling Loan of Finland was offered in London in 1909 on a 4.90% basis and sold in London on October 1, 1923, on a 6.64% basis.

STEEL PRODUCTION EXCEEDS DEMAND

Conditions Have Changed Little in Last Six Months, Trade Journals Report.

RESALES WEAKEN MARKET

Favorable Outlook Hinges on Railroads' Orders for Equipment and Sustained Building.

Conditions in the iron and steel trade of the country have changed little in the last six weeks, according to trade reports, and many cross-currents are still visible.

Consumption, though still on a heavy scale, is not as large as during the Summer months. Shipments of finished steel from the mills continue in excess of new orders. In some instances, prices for finished steel are yielding from recent levels, though rarely in plates, shapes and bars. About the only favorable prospect, according to trade opinion, is the possibility of good-sized orders from the railroads for equipment, sustained building demand and unusual building of automobiles during November and December.

"An indication that the heavy shipments of leading mills in the last two months have given some buyers more steel than they need is the cropping up of resale business here and there at less than current mill prices," says The Iron Age. "The bar market has furnished a number of examples.

"In warehouse business in the Central West weakness has developed from the same cause, jobbers having gone $2 a ton below recent prices on plates, shapes and bars.

"At Chicago inquiries for tie plates, spikes and bolts are large. The distribution of the Missouri Pacific rail order gives 14,000 tons to Chicago, 10,000 tons to the Colorado mill and 8,000 tons to Ensley, Ala.

"The sheet market continues to show that various mills are making concessions because they need orders, but the September orders booked by independent mills reporting to the statistical association were 107,000 tons more than in August, last month's total being 223,000 tons. For the first month since March sales were in excess of shipments.

"Weakness of Southern pig iron is most pronounced at points distant from Birmingham, as shown by a quotation of $19, Birmingham, or $2 below the recent price made to a Western company which was able to obtain a still lower delivered price on Northern iron. Buffalo iron has receded to a basis of $22 and Eastern Pennsylvania to $23, and the market is not firm at the new quotations. Owing to the almost entire absence of transactions at Pittsburgh, prices are untested. Numerous merchant furnace operators are considering the advisability of an early blowing out.

"The scrap market is extremely weak in nearly all centres, the latest decline ranging from 50 cents to $2 per ton. In spite of recent curtailment of Connellsville coke output, supply still exceeds demand, and spot coke has sold down to $3.75. More ovens are going out and the decline seems about at an end. Pig iron at $23.54 is nearly $7 below the figure one year ago and is at the lowest point in seventeen months."

The Iron Trade Review says in part:

"Buying of steel continues in rising volume and evidences of sound fundamental conditions grow more substantial and encouraging as October proceeds. Consumers are feeling their way and some few urgent requests for material show that the steady continuity of demand is impressive. The outstanding feature remains the return of the railroads to the market as large buyers of rolling stock and motive power.

FRAUD INQUIRY HITS HIGHWAYS BUREAU

KELLOGG HOLDS UP BILLS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 17.—Testimony to show that the State in 1922 paid $68,125 for a worthless bridge in St. Lawrence County was given this afternoon when the inquiry into alleged financial irregularities in the Bureau of Canals was suddenly switched to the State Highways Department.

Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, Superintendent of Public Works, turned the investigators to the Highways Department, of which he formerly was the head. Herbert S. Sisson, his predecessor, was Superintendent of Highways when the bridge was purchased.

"We are doing the best we can with a useless structure until the State decides what it is going to do with this lemon," declared Colonel Greene.

At the end of today's hearing Commissioner Kellogg adjourned the proceedings until next Tuesday afternoon with the announcement that in the meanwhile he would prepare a preliminary report for the Governor over the week-end.

The outstanding developments of the day's proceedings were:

Colonel Greene's charge that on July 24, 1922, the Highways Commission had bought the Black Lake Bridge for $68,125 and that nine months later the United States Government found it worthless for the services required of it.

The unwillingness of Harry M. Hulsapple, suspended auditor in the Canal Department, to testify that as a notary public he had actually administered the oath to persons certifying to the accuracy of bills presented for payment.

Direction by Commissioner Kellogg to Joseph L. Sheary, Chief Auditor of the Department of Public Works, to hold up the payment of $24,000 to the Empire State Dredging Company and the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company, so that the State might be able to "salvage what it has lost in overcharges."

Commissioner Kellogg declined to intimate what his recommendations to the Governor would consist of, but it is believed he will urge drastic action to prevent financial laxity in the Bureau of Canals.

The demand for an investigation which may lead to far-reaching inquiry into the Bureau of Highways came toward the close of the session when Colonel Greene took the stand.

"I think it is important that the purchase of the Black Lake Bridge in 1922 be investigated," he said. "The matter was brought to my attention on April 19 by a letter from the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads. I found that the Highway Commission on July 24, 1922, paid to a private corporation $68,125 for this bridge, which in less than nine months the United States Government declared useless for the services required."

The bridge was, indeed, he said, was weak and out of line. The deck was rotten to a dangerous condition, and it was "in every way, according to reports, a worthless structure."

"It appears that on Jan. 1, 1922, before the bridge was bought," Colonel Greene continued, "Roy F. Hall, Division Engineer of St. Lawrence County, wrote to J. C. Finch, Secretary of the Highway Commission (since dismissed with the change of administration), that the bridge was not satisfactory to take the traffic which it will receive.

"On Aug. 2 I received this telegram: 'Black Lake bridge in dangerous condition. Give authority to close high way or return who.' It was signed by Charles Schermerhorn, town superintendent of highways. I wired back to close the highway at both ends of the bridge."

Highways Bureau records, Colonel Greene said, showed that within five months after the bridge was bought, the State paid $732.25 in repairs to the structure, and "this sum was illegally charged to the maintenance of the adjacent highway and not to the bridge at all."

Division Engineer Hall corroborated Colonel Greene and gave a list in part of the owners of the bridge before it was bought by the State. These were Ellery Colby of Owego, President of the bridge company; E. S. Booth of Edwardsville, Vice President; T. J. Rhedish of Owego, F. S. Colby of Owego, Herbert Colby of Owego and C. S. Mallory of Owego. These persons, Mr. Hall stated, owned three-fourths of the bridge company stock.

After the hearing Commissioner Kellogg indicated that he would endeavor to have tahe bridge owners subpoenaed to appear next week.

J. S. Kemp, checker in the audit bureau of the Canal Bureau, was asked by Commissioner Kellogg why several bills bearing his initial check were allowed to "get by" without certification as to the correctness of the prices charged.

"Why, I supposed the contractors were waiting for their money and 't was just rushed through," he replied.

"You assume the responsibility for these errors?" Commissioner Kellogg asked.

"Yes, sir."

At the morning session Colonel Greene testified that in May, 1922, the department bought from H. W. Benkart of Buffalo the tug Niagara for $20,000, guaranteed to be in good condition. The State had to spend $5,964 the following February for a new boiler.

OCTOBER COTTON NEAR HIGH POINT OF YEAR

Although October sold above 30 cents and within 10 points of high levels of the year, action of the cotton market yesterday indicated an increased quantity of contracts for sale at present prices. Best figures were attained on the call in response to a sharp rise abroad and unfavorable weather in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. But from the start selling became general and increased in volume as the day wore on. The recent advance of nearly 2½ cents has attracted more cotton from producing sections, an inevitable development of the marketing season. More contracts for October delivery appeared in the ring with unsettling influence on later months. Prices showed a loss of 4 to 20 points.

Tuesday's quieting down in Liverpool proved only temporary, for prices there rose sharply into new high territory for the season yesterday. January sold at 19.25d, making the widest difference between the two markets so far witnessed. As a result, heavy arbitrage operations in the way of purchases here against sales abroad took place in early trading. One of the most peculiar features about the present unique situation in cotton has been the fact that throughout the entire upward movement Liverpool has led the advance. Only once has New Orleans assumed leadership, and another day New York ran wild, but these two occasions proved the exception. Otherwise each gain in prices has followed strength abroad. This is in striking contrast with developments a year ago, when the foreign market continued a drag on advancing prices throughout the entire season. Stocks in Liverpool have been decreasing steadily the past few months, until reaching the low point of 40,000 bales of American cotton on Sept. 21, compared with more than half a million bales two years ago, but the stock is now increasing, 106,000 bales being reported last week. Cotton interests on this side are discussing the difference in the course of prices abroad when contrasted with the action of that market a year ago.

With further rains along the East Coast, nearly seven inches falling during the twenty-four hours at Pensacola, and the sharp rise abroad, both American markets opened higher. December sold within a few points of 29¢ cents with March nearly 29 cents and at about previous high records of the week. Yet for some unexplained reason cotton appeared for sale in larger volume than the combination of foreign and domestic buying could absorb. Houses with Southern connections executed a steady stream of selling orders, large and small. As was the case the previous two days several cross-currents developed and made one of the most choppy markets witnessed in some time. Certain operators took back cotton sold out on Tuesday, while others decided to realize profits on contracts bought a cent or two lower last week. New Orleans reported similar conditions, the South selling heavily there as well as in New York. The weight on both markets started a 40-point setback throughout the list and while several sharp rallies occurred at various times during the session cotton appeared on each recovery. Reports of heavier offerings of spot cotton at interior points indicated that holders are disposed to take advantage of the recent rise in prices to find a ready market for production. The action of October in declining over half a cent under an increased supply of contracts had an unsettling influence and served to create rapid and erratic price changes. Selling pressure against both October and December the last hour carried quotations to lowest figures of the session, December going through 20 cents and closing the list at the bottom with a slight loss on the day.

SHIPPING INDUSTRY SHOWING RECOVERY

TURNING POINT IS SEEN

After many months of comparative stagnation, the shipping industry sees signs of recovery. September witnessed a somewhat more than seasonal expansion in certain branches of the ocean freight markets, accompanied by a moderate strengthening in charter rates.

The increased demand for ocean tonnage for grain, coal and other shipments has made possible the prediction that 1923 will be the turning point at the end of the long period of declining activity and falling rates. Overseas cargo, while as yet not sufficient to show an appreciable increase in tonnage, is, nevertheless, making it possible for those ships operating to handle business up to their capacity, thereby adding to their earnings per voyage and encouraging the maintenance of regular sailings. The decision of the Continental Conference to open rates on provisions and the action of the United Kingdom Conference in postponing any advance on commodity rates until after Jan. 31 has served to stimulate the contract market and steamship men whose comment on the state of the shipping business has been of a discouraging nature, are agreed that the tense situation of the last few months is improved.

The improvement is even more noticeable in the coastwise trade. The movement of the cotton crop has resulted in increased sailings for both the Morgan and Southern Pacific lines. South American business likewise has shown some headway, export figures recently published attesting to the growing demand for American products in that quarter as well as in Latin America where American capital is reported to be investigating opportunities for investment on a scale that has had marked effect on the commercial relations between the United States and those nations.

Effect of Japanese Disaster

The Japanese disaster is expected to afford employment for much hitherto idle tonnage on the Pacific Coast, including Shipping Board vessels. The prospects for an increased trade with Japan are summed up in the following review by the General Steamship Corporation of San Francisco, made public through local representatives of the corporation:

"Japan's colossal disaster altered the entire aspect of the Pacific Coast freight and charter market during September. The month began with freights the most depressed this year, and in some instances since the war, and while the month closed with rates only slightly improved, the shipping industry on this range now anticipates a prosperous era to begin when Japan is able to readjust her finances and commerce.

"The world tonnage market may be only slightly stimulated by the Japanese calamity, but the belief prevails the Pacific Coast trades will be materially benefited.

"The first effect of the catastrophe was to cause a wild flurry in Oriental rates. Speculators attempted to secure a grip upon the anticipated demand for supplies, but without success. Rates several times higher than those previously were rumored for a few days, but the flurry developed nothing. The American and Japanese Governments quickly assigned tonnage for relief supplies, the United States putting a number of idle ships into operation in order to meet the demand, and halting commercial movement of Shipping Board ships for a period of thirty days."

The Standard Daily Trade Service in its review of the shipping situation for September notes that the expansion thus far observed "has been of a sound character, and conservative.

"At the beginning of September conditions both as to rates and number of vessels in demand had reached such a position that they could hardly have been improved, any change that came had to be for the better, or the vessels would not be available.

Few Vessels Offered.

"When the seasonal demand materialized in September so few vessels were offered for prompt or near-by charter that somewhat higher rates were required to bring out the necessary number of cargo carriers. There is no general anticipation that rates can make much progress upward, because an ample supply of vessels will be at hand whatever acceptable rates are offered.

"The demand thus far has been mainly for grain vessels for shipment from Montreal and sugar boats to bring the raw product from Cuban ports. Grain vessels will shortly be in demand for shipments from United States, Atlantic and Gulf ports, and moderately higher rates on grain charters from these ports are likely during November and December. Rates for shipments from Montreal to Mediterranean ports are now quoted at 19 cents a hundred pounds, as compared with 16½ cents two months ago.

"The sharpest upturn in rates thus far noted has occurred in those on full cargo sugar boats from Cuba to the United States ports. These are now quoted at 18 to 23 cents a hundred pounds, whereas no less than a month ago such vessels were available at 11 to 13 cents. This vigorous rise has been due to the scarcity of small-sized vessels suitable for the West Indies trade. Many vessels formerly available have been placed in other services.

"There has recently been a slightly greater demand for tankers, although the number of available vessels of this type is ample. Meantime, rates for tanker tonnage have receded further. Charters for Tampico to Atlantic seaboard ports have been made at 25 cents per barrel, as compared with 33 cents a month ago, and 45 cents early in the Summer. This will in all probability mark the extreme low level of tanker rates, as few vessels can be chartered at such low rates."

Adirondack Power Earnings Drop.

The water shortage in this State has resulted in a sharp reduction in the earnings of the Adirondack Power and Light Company. The company for September reported a deficit of $1,616, after all operating expenses, interest, taxes and maintenance charges. Due to the low water supply the company was forced to produce much of its energy by steam and to purchase over 9,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy from other companies, of which over 63 per cent. was steam-generated.

Preferred Stock for Employes.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway has formed a plan whereby any of its employes may become owners of its preferred stock, it was announced yesterday. Under this plan any employe can purchase not to exceed ten shares of preferred stock upon an initial payment of $5 a share. The balance may then be paid by deductions in salaries amounting to not less than $3 a month for each share of stock purchased.

Barnet Leather Earnings Lower.

The Barnet Leather Company reports net earnings of $72,488 after all charges and Federal taxes, for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1923. This compares with net earnings of $850,205 in the same period last year. After payment of dividends on the preferred stock and sinking fund reserves, there was reported a deficit of $91,762 against a surplus of $34,795 after the same deductions in the corresponding period last year.

American Window Glass Gains.

The American Window Glass Company for the year ended Aug. 31, 1923, reports total income of $5,706,935, against $3,897,303 in the previous fiscal year. After payment of taxes, royalties and other charges there was reported surplus income of $2,767,556, against $1,048,828. The surplus after dividends for the last fiscal year was $2,477,906 and the profit and loss surplus as of Aug. 31, 1923, was $10,363,850.

TEAPOT DOME FAILS TO YIELD MUCH OIL

Experts Now Say Reserve Has Only 50,000,000, Not 200,000,000 Barrels of Petroleum.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—The Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, the centre of a bitter controversy in Congress because of its supposedly rich deposits of petroleum, has produced but a small part of the return which Government officials had expected from it.

Geologists estimated when the reserve was set aside that it contained 200,000,000 barrels of crude oil, but it is indicated now that it will supply only 50,000,000 barrels on the basis of a recent survey reported to the Interior and Navy Departments.

A separate survey has been made by two geologists employed by the Senate Public Lands Committee, and although their report has not yet been laid before the committee, officials of the executive departments of the Government expect it to bear out in general the conclusions reached by the Interior and Navy Departments' investigators.

The unexpected results of the recent surveys are expected to have a great influence on the trend of the Senate inquiry, which was undertaken after Senator LaFollette and others had charged that the Interior and Navy Departments had handed over a highly valuable piece of Government property to private control by leasing the reserve to the Sinclair oil interests.

Under the lease a total of 120 wells were to be sunk in the reserve, and were to provide a minimum daily production of 20,000 barrels. Already 80 of these wells have been completed, according to the departmental reports, but they are producing only a daily average of about 40 barrels apiece.

The books of the Bureau of Mines, which has acted as receivin agent for the Navy in handling the Government royalty, show that to Oct. 1, the Government had received about 125,000 barrels of royalty oil, and that the production for the month of September can be between 4,200 and 4,500 barrels a day, or less than 25 per cent. of the contract minimum.

DIVIDENDS RESUMED ON CUBA CO. STOCK

Quarterly Payment of $1 Declared on Common—Railroad Company Also Announces Dividend.

The Cuba Company resumed dividend on the common stock when the Board of Directors, at the meeting yesterday, voted a quarterly dividend of $1 a share, payable Dec. 1. The last dividend paid on the common stock was 10 per cent. in August, 1920, on the old stock.

UNION DEFENDS ENRIGHT.

Resolution by Telegraphers Backs Him in Libel Suit.

An engraved and framed copy of a resolution of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, denouncing attacks on Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, a member of the union, was presented to him in his office yesterday by Roscoe H. Johnson, International President of the union, and thirty union delegates. The resolution read:

"Whereas accusations have been made by certain interests in an attempt to defame the character of Brother Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner of the City of New York, and

"Whereas Brother Enright, a former telegrapher and member in good standing of the Eastern Brokers Division, Commercial Telegraphers Union, in defending his honor has instituted suit for criminal libel against his accusers in the City of New York; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, in convention in Montreal, Canada, do hereby express our full confidence in the honor and integrity of Brother Enright."

Commissioner Enright declared the presentation was one of the brightest spots in the six years he has held office. He said he had decided the only fair way to meet the charges was to bring them before a public tribunal where taxpayers could draw their own conclusions.

DECISION WILL HALT WAR FRAUD SUITS

$100,000,000 IS INVOLVED

Judge Later Holds in Camp Cherman Action That Government Must Name Specific Sums.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The score or more of Government suits involving the construction of war cantonments will be halted in view of the decision yesterday by Federal Judge Sater of Ohio in the test case relating to Camp Sherman.

Action will be suspended at least until counsel of the war contracts section of the Department of Justice has gone into the question at length and conferred with Attorney General Daugherty.

The Camp Sherman case and others already filed involve nearly $80,000,000, and six more, bringing the total up to about $100,000,000, have been prepared. Filing of the new proceedings probably will be held up until department officials have studied Judge Sater's decision, which held that the Government's suits were not specific and that the cantonment builders were not trustees, as contended by the Government.

For the present the Ohio decision is expected to affect only civil actions against cantonment builders. Certain broad principles are involved which eventually may make themselves felt also in the various criminal prosecutions pending in relation to cantonment construction, but the intention of the Department of Justice now is to go ahead with that class of cases regardless of Judge Sater's ruling.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 17.—In ruling against the Government yesterday in its suit against the A. Bentley & Sons Company of Toledo, in which it sought to recover $5,000,000 for alleged frauds in the building of Camp Sherman during the World War, Federal Judge Sater upheld the motion of the defendants requesting that the Government be specific as to the alleged frauds and collection of payments for services.

Judge Sater ruled that instead of alleging misrepresentation in general as to destruction of materials and overpayment of employes, the Government must say what materials were wasted, what employes were overpaid and how much, and go into similar details throughout the list of allegations.

Two other points were ruled on by Judge Sater.

The Government has maintained that in carrying out the contract, which was on a cost plus basis, the Bentley company was in a position of trust, much after the manner of a guardian appointed by a court. The Judge threw out this contention and said that no trust agreement existed and that each side was bound to care for its own interests.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 17.—Judge Sater's decision in the Camp Sherman suit is expected to have an important bearing on the Government's suit here against Charles Weyl Bone to recover $4,500,000 of the cost of Camp Dodge. Attorneys for the builders last week asked that Judge Wade grant a motion compelling the Government to file a new petition making more specific charges. He took the motion under advisement and indicated the motion would be granted, in part at least.

TWO BROKERS ADMIT GUILT.

Will Be Sentenced Oct. 26 for Bucketing Orders of Customers.

Two more brokers pleaded guilty to bucketing the orders of customers when they were arraigned yesterday before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions. They were Les B. Roberts, who said he formerly was a real estate operator and lived at 54 North Parkford Avenue, Atlantic City, and Walter W. Stake, who gave his address as 102 East Thirty-eighth Street. They will be sentenced on Oct. 26.

Roberts and Stake, with Oscar H. Bruen, now serving two years in Sing Sing, were members of the brokerage firm of Bruen, Roberts & Stake. When the firm failed some time ago David Blair complained that bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, worth $670, and three Empire Gas and Fuel Company bonds, worth $737, which he had placed with the firm as collateral on a stock purchase, had been sold and the money used by the brokers. Miss Johanna Tomlinson complained that she gave the firm forty-six shares of Standard Oil stock and that after selling the stock for $4,003 the brokers kept the money.

Oil Suits Reported Settled.

Numerous suits involving the "cracking" process used by some of the larger oil companies in the manufacture of gasoline have been settled, according to reports yesterday. The Texas Company and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, according to the report, have settled the suit of Rogers vs. Adams and the Texas Company, in which the Standard was contesting the title of the Texas Company to the Adams patents.

GILDERSLEEVE, AT 92, STILL WRITES POETRY

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 17.—Dr. Basil L. Gildersleeve, poet and honorary professor of Greek at Johns Hopkins University, will be 92 on Tuesday.

"I still write poetry for my own satisfaction, though not for publication," he said today. "Now and then some of my verse finds its way into print.

"I am still as interested in Greek as ever, though I suppose I have forgotten a great deal of it. An instructor from Hopkins comes in to see me twice a week and reads Greek to me. At night, when I can't sleep, I repeat passages of Greek poetry that I remember.

"I can not see very well, but I can read the headlines of the newspapers, and I try to keep up with the times."

Forty-seven years ago Dr. Gildersleeve accepted the Chair of Greek at Johns Hopkins University, being the first professor to come to Hopkins by direct invitation. In addition to being author of a well-known Latin grammar, Dr. Gildersleeve has edited Greek classics and published a collection of essays.

SAYS EUROPE NEEDS CREDIT

Dr. Finley Speaks at Morris Plan Bankers' Convention

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 17.—Dr. John R. Finley of New York told the annual convention of the Morris Plan Bankers Association today that Europe is pleading for credit, and not charity. "It is America's opportunity," he said, "to give credit to those Europeans who have the requisite character as the fundamental basis for the loan.

"Everywhere and in every section from Turkey through the Baltic States and Russia, in a recent survey of financial conditions abroad, I found the underlying need to be that of refinancing. The people want to work. The countries are rich in natural resources. It is all a question of credit, and a little time to pay."

Dr. Finley said that the point of view in America toward borrowing was changing rapidly.

"I have it on the authority of banking officials," he continued, "that ten years ago the man who sought a small loan from a bank did so with some feeling of disgrace and anxiety; today the fact that the bank will lend to the man for his needs is an endorsement of his character. To have attained the station which indicates that banking affiliations are possible, proves the man to have merit and some weight in his community."

Willoughby G. Walling of Chicago was re-elected President of the association, and Robert C. B. Umberser of Chicago, secretary-Treasurer.

COAL DEALERS HERE DENY PROFITEERING

Reply to Price Conspiracy Charges Made at Federal Inquiry Called by Coolidge.

U. S. PROSECUTORS BUSY

Gift Anthracite Shortage in City—Operators Turn Down Pinchot's Request.

New York wholesale coal dealers charged at the Federal Trade Commission's inquiry at Washington with conspiracy to raise the price of coal yesterday replied to the allegations by issuing denials. The inquiry is the result of a request by President Coolidge for an investigation of alleged illegitimate methods in the anthracite coal trade.

Among the firms named were Pattison & Bowns, 17 Battery Place; C. P. Brodhead, 29 Broadway, and Hartwell-Lester, Inc., of Massachusetts and New York.

C. P. Brodhead, President of the firm which bears his name, said: "We have never been a party to any secret rebates, nor have we been engaged in any conspiracy, nor have we ever adopted illegitimate methods in our business."

Gardner Pattison of Pattison & Bowns characterized the Trade Commission's investigation as "a fishing expedition."

"In common with other prominent coal firms," he said, "we have always conducted our business in a perfectly openhanded manner. I shall be very pleased to meet any charges which the commission lays before me, and I am quite certain that after representations have been made at Washington these absurd complaints will be dropped."

Some of the coal operators who recently conferred with Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg yesterday declined his demand to stop selling coal to profiteering dealers, according to the Associated Press.

Special Government Prosecutors Major David A. L'Esperance and Rush Williamson, who at the direction of Colonel William Hayward, United States Attorney, are conducting an investigation into the matter of the alleged scarcity and high price of anthracite coal, yesterday interrogated a number of hard coal dealers. As the inquiry is not yet fully under way, the officials declined to discuss the information they have thus far obtained.

Panhandle Co. Increases Takings.

The Panhandle Refining Company has increased its current takings of oil to the full amount of production at the posted price, according to announcement made yesterday by the Middle States Oil Corporation.

SHOOT BANK HEAD BUT GET NO LOOT

ESCAPE IN FAST MOTOR

Special to The New York Times.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The bravery of Selick J. Varney, President of the First National Bank of South Glens Falls, this afternoon frustrated a daring hold-up of the bank by three prosperously dressed strangers. One of the bandits shot Mr. Varney in the right leg above the knee, after he had ignored an order to throw up his hands as he stood alone behind the wicker, but the victim of the robber's bullet put the three hold-up men to flight when he seized a rifle and fired two shots at them from a rear room.

There was every evidence that the robbers had familiarized themselves with the habits of Mr. Varney, Harry Blanchard, the cashier of the bank, and a clerk. The three hold-up men sat in a high-powered automobile about 200 yards from the entrance to the bank, and when, soon after 1 o'clock, Blanchard and the clerk came out of the front entrance to the bank on Main Street, the bandits left their car in Third Street, around the corner, and entered the building.

Mr. Varney was seated at a typewriter in a rear room at the end of the wicker partition in front of the teller's window when he heard two of the men enter. As he walked toward the teller's window one of these men, sticking the muzzle of a large-calibred pistol through the window, exclaimed:

"Throw up your hands, and don't utter a word, or we'll shoot."

As he spoke the second man, also pointing a pistol at the bank president's head through the wicker partition, started to walk toward a door leading to the cashier's department.

Ignores Command and Shoots.

Mr. Varney ignored the command and leaped for the rear room, beside the door of which he kept a rifle for just such an emergency. He was about to enter the room when the first bandit fired. Despite the bullet in his leg, Mr. Varney picked up the rifle and aimed at the spot where both robbers stood when he started for the rear room. He fired two shots, and the bandits lost courage and ran to the street.

The noise of the shooting drew the attention of several persons in the vicinity, who told the police that the third bandit had stationed himself in the front entrance of the bank with a pistol in his hand to prevent possible interference with the hold-up from the outside. He was the first to break for the automobile.

Oliver Winch, one of the teachers in the South Glens Falls High School, next door to the bank, at the corner of Main and Third Streets, happened to be crossing the lawn of the school when he saw the three men running across the lawn within a few seconds of the reports of the shooting. He ran toward the men in the belief that they were customers who were fleeing from bank bandits, but they waved him aside with a warning and continued across the street to the curb on the opposite side of the school, where they had left their automobile standing.

Flee at Sixty Miles an Hour.

Within three minutes after the robbers had started north on the Fort Edward Road half a dozen civilians in automobiles were in pursuit of them. The leading driver in the pursuing car said later that before the robbers had ridden a mile their car was going at more than sixty miles an hour, and by the time the pursuers reached Fort Edward, six miles away, the bandits had disappeared.

Investigation showed that before the cashier left the bank he had placed a basket containing several thousand dollars in banknotes and coins in the vault, and it was the belief of the authorities that the robbers, knowing that to be the case, had planned to get behind the wicker partition and open the vault, after having subdued Mr. Varney.

When Mr. Varney had been taken to a hospital, where it was said his condition was not serious, it was learned that about three months ago a marksman got into the bank at night and blew open one of the safes, but obtained no loot.

The robbers are believed to be members of a band of yeggmen-bandits, who had intended to operate in this part of the country. A good description of them was sent to the police of surrounding communities in the hope that they will be caught before they succeed in a bank robbery.

ROOT HEADS PEACE JURY.

Consideration of Plans in Bok Contest to Start at Once.

The jury of the American Peace Award, created to handle the gift of Edward W. Bok, organized yesterday, elected Elihu Root President and decided to begin at once to examine world peace plans already submitted. It was deemed inadvisable to wait until the competition closes on Nov. 15 to begin sifting the competitive proposals because of the number on hand. All the jurors were present except Brand Whitlock, who is expected home from Europe soon. Besides Mr. Whitlock and Mr. Root, they are General James Guthrie Harbord, Colonel Edward M. House, Ellen F. Pendleton, Roscoe Pound and William Allen White.

Plans bearing postmarks from every State in the Union have been received thus far. The receipts also include a number of plans in foreign languages, bearing foreign postmarks. Requests for conditions have been received from thirtytwo foreign countries. Some of these are obviously from American residents abroad, but a number have come from citizens of other countries who have not known that the award is limited to citizens of the United States.

After the meeting the policy committee and the jury dined with Mr. Bok at Sherry's.

Manriquez's Followers March Against San Luis Potosi.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16.—The political situation in the State of San Luis Potosi is growing serious. The defeated candidate Aurelio Manriquez, with armed followers recruited from groups of former revolutionaries in that State, is marching on the City of San Luis.

The present Governor, Jorge Prieto Laurens, asks assistance from the Federal Government, which seems unable to give it owing to the decree of President Obregon refusing to acknowledge the election of Laurens. Manriquez is a former Congressman.

Employes of the Government have been unpaid since the middle of September. The employes, who are living from hand to mouth, charge that the condition of the Treasury is due to politics.

River Piles 24 Inches, Not 24 Feet.

In the account of the sinking of the 70,000-ton caisson for the vehicular tunnel printed in THE TIMES yesterday the diameter of the piles was given as twenty-four feet instead of twenty-four inches. The shields boring under the river from each shore are expected to meet in July next year, but the tunnel is now reported will not be in operation until some time in 1925.

QUESTION ECONOMY OF CARGO SHIP PLAN

Steamship men, who were well pleased with the Shipping Board's plan to operate thirty or more of its vessels in the North Atlantic service without the aid of the present private operators, were generally of the opinion yesterday that the new policy would prove less economical than the present method. The new policy also was declared to be in violation of the spirit and intent of the Jones act, providing for the eventual sale of the Government fleet to private owners.

Notwithstanding the feeling of resentment with which the announcement of the Shipping Board plan was met by members of the United States Ship Operators' Association and the American Steamship Owners' Association, there were many expressions to the effect that it was to be hoped that this new policy finally would result in the strengthening of the merchant marine.

E. McCormack of Moore & McCormack, one of the five operators eliminated under the plan, said the fundamental principle in the plan was economy.

"We will wait and see how it develops," he said. "We sincerely trust it will work out in that direction."

Analyzing the plan, a member of the Ship Operators' Association said:

"It does away with the husbanding fee and the board itself will operate the ships. This means more employes for the board, and, if past experiences are any criterion, it will mean more employes and higher costs than have characterized private operation. This does not appear to be a move toward economy so much as toward extravagance.

"It reduces the number of operators from five to one, and eliminates the 5 per cent. commission on freight, which is no saving, since it simply puts this commission into one pocket instead of five. Whatever sub-agents may be selected will get 2½ per cent. more, making a total of 7½ per cent. against the 5 per cent. heretofore prevailing. This will not work out along the line of economy but will develop another small army of office-holders, whose principal object will be the prepetuation of their own jobs.

"The plan is inconsistent with the Government's own purposes in that it means more government in business, rather than more business in government."

Winthrop L. Marvin, Vice President and general manager of the American Steamship Owners' Association, said the plan represented a compromise between direct operation of Government ships and a recognition of the importance of continuing to utilize some, at least, of the facilities provided by the private companies.

The total freight tonnage involved amounts to 284,000, divided, according to figures obtained yesterday, as follows: Export Transportation Company, 96,000 tons; W. A. Blake & Co., 41,000; Moore & McCormack, 60,000; J. H. Winchester & Co., 40,000, and Baltimore Steamship Company, 45,000 tons. The figures represent the tonnages operated by these companies as of July 1, last.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Chairman Farley of the United States Shipping Board today said he wished to emphasize that the American Government is standing squarely behind the maintenance of its American-flag freight routes from North Atlantic ports to the east and west coasts of the United Kingdom. His statement was prompted by the receipt of private cable messages from London stating that the decision of the Shipping Board, announced yesterday, to take over direct supervision of the so-called U. K. lines, meant that the board was restricting its services.

"On the contrary," Chairman Farley said, "the action announced by the board yesterday means that the American Government intends to remain squarely behind the maintenance of these American-flag routes. The changes determined upon for direct operation and consolidation of the five United Kingdom routes into one line are intended to give better, more efficient and more frequent service between this country's North Atlantic ports and those on the east and west coasts of the United Kingdom. I wish you would emphasize this fact."

RICH HUSBAND, 78, OUSTS YOUNG WIFE

William Newcomb, 78 years old and wealthy, announced yesterday that he had ordered his 28-year-old wife out of his house in Tenafly, N. J., and had told her not to come back. What's more, he said, he wanted the world to know it.

According to Newcomb, he and his young wife had had a long series of rows about money matters. He said that she objected to a plan he contemplated for the purchase of "Happyland," an estate in Tenafly where poor children from New York are allowed to spend free vacations and for its maintenance as a philanthropic institution. On the other hand, Newcomb said, he had been upbraiding her for spending too much money on trips to New York.

The final row came Tuesday afternoon. As reported by Newcomb, the scene ended with the following dialogue:

Mrs. N.—Well, I'm glad at last we'll have the use of your money instead of seeing you put it in that home.

N.—I'm not going to give you any more money, and you can get out of here.

Mrs. N.—I'll go, but this won't be the last of it. I'll go to court and sue you.

N.—Go ahead and sue. I'll spend all my money fighting you.

Mrs. Newcomb departed without leaving her address. Efforts by THE TIMES to find her and obtain her side of the dispute were unavailing. Newcomb called in a reporter yesterday and told him the story. Newcomb is rather hard of hearing and has poor eyesight, but is vigorous in declaring that he would fight any legal action.

"She says I'm crazy," he asserted in discussing Mrs. Newcomb, "but I'll show her how crazy I am. I married her several years ago to protect myself from all the women who were trying to marry me for my money. That shows how crazy I am, eh? They've got to get up pretty early in the morning to put anything over on the old man. The only crazy thing I ever did was to let her spend $1,000 a month."

Mrs. Newcomb, who is his second wife was his nurse before the marriage, which took place several years ago. He is a Methodist and recently gave a handsome pipe organ to the Tenafly Methodist Church. His wife is a Catholic. Newcomb made a fortune in the electrical business before he retired, and also inherited $50,000 and valuable real estate in Tenafly from John J. Lyle, one of the partners of the old Lord & Taylor firm, whose first wife was a sister to Newcomb.

Lyle also contracted a second marriage late in life. In 1910, at the age of 82, he eloped from Tenafly to Yonkers with Julia M. Hannon, 20 years old, a trained nurse who had been attending him, and was married by a Justice of the Peace. He died two years later, leaving to his widow the bulk of his $3,000,000 estate. Various relatives, including Mr. Newcomb, contested the will, but the widow won. In 1915 she was married to Alexander Wenyon Samual, a London lawyer, who later became a member of Parliament.

Before her remarriage Mrs. Lyle erected a set of memorial chimes in a stone tower on "Happyland" as a memorial to her late husband. Charging that the chimes were rung every quarter hour day and night, disturbing their slumber, neighbors obtained an injunction, and Mrs. Lyle was directed to discontinue playing the chimes at night. She later gave them to St. Cecilia's Church at Englewood, N. J., where they now play during the day.

Wellington Koo Resigns Post.

PEKING, Oct. 17 (Associated Press).—Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo has tendered to President Tsao Kun his resignation as Foreign Minister. Although no official reason has been assigned, the resignation is officially reported to be the result of the Lienchang bandit episode.

NAVY DEBATE OPENS IN DUTCH CHAMBER

Speaker Suggests That America May Be Involved in a War Over Oil.

FEAR OUR POISONOUS GASES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 17.—Seldom has a debate been awaited with so much impatience by Netherlanders as the opening discussion on the Navy bill yesterday in the second chamber of Parliament. For many months the opposing camps have been conducting energetic propaganda for or against the building of a new fleet and they have stirred up the interest of the whole country.

The Handelsblad remarks that the critical financial situation of the Netherlands and the resulting economy schemes of the Government have one good side, in that they have awakened the people from the apathy which has prevailed in the last few years in matters of domestic policy. Naturally the questions of State economy and the new fleet are closely linked, especially in view of the big deficit in the budget and some of the drastic economy projects of the Government. Netherlanders have learned much about the real economic position of Holland at the present juncture, and their interest is concerned with the menace to the pocketbook.

The second chamber was crowded when the long anticipated debate began. Only four members were missing and the galleries were filled to overflowing. People waited from 9 A. M. in order to obtain places in the public gallery at 1:30.

After the petition against the fleet project, signed by 1,132,288 people, had been announced by the President of the Second Chamber the Social Democrats opened fire on the Government. Few fresh arguments were brought up, for the bill has been engrossing the public for so many months that it would be difficult to find any really new points for or against it.

Assailed as a Waste of Money.

The Social Democratic leader, Hugenholz, who opened the debate for the opposition, devoted himself mainly to an attempt to prove that the proposed fleet would be powerless to defend or attack and that a useless expenditure was faced. The speakers gave many examples from the recent war to show that submarines, which are to form the main defense, had been proved useless, as no American or British transport had been sunk by a submarine and that of 375 German submarines 208 had been lost. He also argued that the minimum temperature to be attained even with a cooling system in East Indian waters was 93 degrees Fahrenheit, which meant the demoralization of the crews.

Alleged possibilities of war between Great Britain and America in the East were frequently referred to. Such a war, it was declared, could only be for the control of rich oil concessions. Already, said this speaker, the United States had been endeavoring to assert an equal right to oil concessions and to have a corner in the East Indies, as had been manifested in the case of the Djambi concessions, over which there was considerable unpleasant feeling when they were finally given to the Royal Dutch Company.

References were also made to the Washington conference.

Another argument used was that the next war would be carried on neither under nor on the water, but from the air, and that the United States was now preparing thousands of tons of the most diabolical poisonous gases, which chemists were making more deadly every day, so that the gases to be used in the next war could not be compared with those used in the recent war, and whole communities would be wiped out. While this was going on, it was asserted, Holland would be bound down to building certain types of vessels during a period of twelve years.

Two visitors to the public gallery who attempted to make disturbances were forcibly removed by the police.

Hints of War Alliances.

It is said here that the fleet planned is the very minimum for any sort of defense of the Dutch Indies and comes well within the limits set at the Washington conference. Whether Holland's colonies would be just as secure without it is another question. The general opinion is that the fleet must at least be sufficient to be of assistance to a possible ally in case of war in the Far East.

Although the Minister of the Interior denies that pressure from foreign powers has been influential in the sudden decision to rush this bill through parliament, the impression remains that three bases especially and a substantial defense generally have been demanded in return for a promise of assistance in the eventuality of war with some Eastern power. If this is the opinion of foreign experts with whom your correspondent talked that the proposed fleet could only be of slight assistance even to an ally. Some significance is naturally attached to the strengthening of the Singapore base.

Jewelers in Straus Building.

Jacques' Gems and Precious Stones, Inc., have leased a large suite of offices in the S. W. Straus & Co. building, possession to be obtained Nov. 1. The Jacques concern, which has occupied ground floor space at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street for a number of years, will retain possession of these premises until Feb. 1. The management of the Straus Building reports that the building is more than 98 per cent. occupied at this time.

Renovation in Bank Street.

The Merit Realty Corp. sold the three-story and basement brick building 72 Bank Street, on a lot 25 feet front by 90 feet depth, to the Misses Mitchell.

$400,000 Heights Resale.

Meister Builders, Inc., have resold to Dr. B. Kantowitz a five-story tax exempt apartment house, 610 West 163d Street, between Broadway and Fort Washington Avenue, recently built by Joseph Paterno. The building is on a plot 125 by 142 irregular, and accommodates 50 families, arranged in small suites, with a rental of $40,000 and was held at $400,000. I. Katz was the broker.

German Estate Buyer.

Samuel H. Golding heads the syndicate which recently bought the one hundred lots belonging to the estate of Gertie A. Gorman and sold through L. J. Phillips & Co. as brokers. The lots are located near the 111st and 121st Street subway stations. Many plots have already been sold off to builders.

Trading in Brooklyn.

J. Lacov sold for a client to A. Dietz a plot, 40 by 100 feet, on the west side of Coney Island Avenue, 230 feet from Avenue J. The purchaser will immediately erect a public market.

Oliver E. Allard as broker, sold for the Avonia Real Estate Company the northeast corner of Avenue R and East Twentieth Street, the plot being 100 by 100, to Florence H. Rogers.

'WOLF OF WALL ST.' BEGINS JAIL TERM

HIS TASKS TO BE LIGHT

David Lamar, "Wolf of Wall Street," reached New York yesterday morning in custody of the Chief of Police of San Antonio, Texas, and a Deputy United States Marshal and was taken to the Essex County (N. J.) jail to begin his year's sentence for interfering with the manufacture of munitions during the war.

Having been caught after he had fled the jurisdiction of the courts here, Lamar intends to begin fighting once more and to leave no stone unturned in trying to regain his freedom. That became evident when his captors told that he had sent more than fifty telegrams during his long journey, including a message exceeding 300 words to President Coolidge.

The Department of Justice at Washington was anxious that Lamar should not be brought into New York State for fear that he would attempt habeas corpus proceedings, possibly get out on bail again and run away once more. But when the train reached Manhattan Transfer the "Wolf" was not dressed, and as orders not to let him cross the river had not been received by his escort he was allowed to come into the Pennsylvania station. Then he was hurried back across to New Jersey. He made no attempt to take advantage of his momentary presence in this State to start any legal proceedings.

Prior to Lamar's arrival it had been understood that President Obregon had expelled him from Mexico as an undesirable to oblige the United States Government, but Chief A. O. Bonriper and Marshal George M. Walker, his custodians, said yesterday that they had heard that Lamar had tried some of his old tricks in Mexico and that a number of Mexicans of standing had burned their fingers in unwarily touching some Lamar financial schemes. The Texans had gathered that the Mexican Government therefore had sent Lamar out, glad to be rid of him.

Because of poor health, Lamar is to do light work, probably in the library in the jail. With two months off for good conduct he would get out in ten months.

When noon mess was served yesterday in the prison dining hall Lamar refused to eat. The other prisoners ate lamb stew. For dinner the prisoners had coffee, bread and dried apricots. Lamar came into the dining hall and drank the coffee, but touched neither the apricots nor bread.

Prison rules at the penitentiary are positive as regards denial of privileges to prisoners. No food may be brought from outside restaurants. Lamar will have to become accustomed to the prison fare.

"The Wolf" this morning will don the brown prison garb worn at the penitentiary.

WANTS GUARD REMOVED.

Grill Proprietor, Asking Stay, Charges Persecution.

John Cornell, proprietor of the Royal Grill, in the Hotel Marlborough, Thirty-sixth Street and Broadway, yesterday petitioned for an injunction to stop the police from stationing a uniformed policeman inside his establishment. He submitted affidavits to Justice Vernon M. Davis in Equity Term of the Supreme Court to support his complaint that he was the victim of persecution. Cornell stated his receipts dropped from $250 to $125 a day as a result of police interference.

His complaint, submitted by counsel, Meyer Greenberg, 99 Nassau Street, alleges that interference began after a police officer had attacked one of the young women cabaret performers employed by Cornell. In denying the motion Justice Davis said:

"This is not a case where an injunction may properly be granted. In this case you have affirmative relief, and that consists in suits against the police officials for the damages you claim you have sustained. Several suits against police officials charged with oppression have had much more effective than the granting of injunctions as asked for in this case."

The grill was raided on Sept. 19 by two policemen accompanied by two revenue agents. The proprietor of the grill was discharged by United States Commissioner Boyle. The charge was of having alcoholic liquor in violation of the Volstead act. Counsel for Cornell told the Court that an appeal to Inspector Edwin R. Yost of the Second Inspection District to remove the police guard failed to bring relief.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....5¼@5¾% for the best names
Saturday .....5¼@5¾% for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Burlap Prices Strong.

Burlap prices were strong and tending upward yesterday in the local market, due to the active demand for spot goods and near-by afloats. Quotations for these goods were held on the basis of 6.75 cents for 8-ounce "40s" and 7.90 cents for 10½-ounce cloths of the same width. For afloats that are about fifty days out, 6.75 to 6.80 cents was asked for the lightweight goods, according to C. H. Rockstroh & Co., Inc., and 7.75 cents for the heavy ones. Prices on forward delivery goods from Calcutta were unavailable because of the holidays that are now being celebrated there.

Gray Goods Again Active.

Gray goods were again active in this market yesterday, with printcloths and sheetings both sharing in the business done. Sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were put through on the basis of 9¾ to 10 cents, depending on who sold them, and in some cases a shade higher than 10¼ cents was asked for them. Buyers bid 11¾ cents unsuccessfully for 39-inch 68-72s, which sold at 11¾ cents for November-December delivery. Good-sized sales of 38½-inch 60-48s were made at 8¾ cents. A large business in 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings was done at 11¾ cents, and 36-inch 5.50-yard goods brought 8¾ cents. Sales of 36-inch 64-60, four-yard cloths were reported at 13¾ cents.

French Color Card for Spring.

Chinese blues and reds lead in the French color card for silks issued by J. Claude Freres & Co., Paris, which was received here yesterday. The most prominent position is accorded the blues, of which a range of six is shown. The same number of reds is next depicted, both colors ranging from a light to a fairly dark shade. Not much attention is given the browns in the card, although the favored castor shade is again shown. The greens on the card are also limited in number, which is quite in contrast with the fall card. The softer shades are featured in the yellows, mauves and grays. High shades for evening wear make up the remainder of the card, which shows sixty-six colors.

Shorter Coat for Spring.

In the early tendencies in garment designing for Spring the swing seems to be toward the three-quarter length in women's coats. This, it was said yesterday, will be particularly true of sports coats, but will also be noted in the fashioning of dressy ones. Light furs will again be featured for the sports garments, according to some manufacturers, during the coming season. Another development of interest in connection with the pile fabric question is declared to be the trend toward the lighter weight cloths, which may have a bearing on the sales of the heavier dressy coats in view of the strong sports vogue. Suit jackets, it was also said, will be of hip length or somewhat shorter.

Report Some Duplicates Received.

Although the condition is by no means general, some duplicates on men's Spring wear fabrics are being received, according to selling agents here. It is still much too early for this to show up in volume, as the clothiers have only been on the road for a very short time. In the present dullness in the market, however, anything in the way of new business looks good to the mills. The early road reports are not unsatisfactory by any means, and there is a good possibility, it is pointed out, that the business that will be booked will be a surprise to many in the manufacturers' ranks. Many of the latter have bought only sample pieces as yet. Meanwhile, the jobbers are doing a little more business than they have and the cutters are still operating on overcoats.

More Buyers in the Salesroome.

The number of buyers in local garment salesrooms during the present week has been larger than was the case for several weeks past. The stock houses are placed in a good position to meet this immediate delivery demand which promises to grow still more as the weather spurs consumer buying of the heavier and dressy coats. The latter still constitute the slowest moving part of stocks on hand, but wholesalers say they are entirely confident that they will melt away with the later demand. "A thousand coats on the racks now will look mighty small when the demand for the pile fabric coats really 'gets in,'" said one well-known wholesaler yesterday. Meanwhile, with the attention of manufacturers concentrated on selling stocks on hand, the buying of dress goods for Spring remains quiet.

More News From Paris.

More interesting information of the trend of things millinery in Paris has been received by the Retail Millinery Association of America from its bulletin's editor, who is on the other side studying the situation at first hand. He asserts that black and white are in control, and that Chinese influences, though overrated, are registering in accessories, brocades and embroideries. Everything that may be called "cloche" is topnotch, he reports, and says that the "petite beri" is dear to young girls. Beads continue strong factors in the trimming situation, and silver and rhinestones glitter everywhere. Shapes are perceptibly stiffer. Small dome crowns are favored for huge canotiers and capelines. Chin chins turn down. As a material, felt reigns supreme, though often seen in combination with other fabrics.

It Gets Their Interest.

A novel way of capturing the interest of customers whose charge accounts have become inactive is now being used by a local men's clothing and furnishings concern. Instead of sending a form letter on the stationery of the store, the request for the renewal of business is stamped on a monthly statement form, such as is used in telling the customer how much his purchases have amounted to. The psychology of the thing lies in the fact that, it is thought at first the customer, he having made no recent purchase, is that some mistake has been made. This impels him to open the folded statement, which he finds blank with the exception of the stamped request for his trade. This request, which is stamped in small type, is placed near the bottom of the statement, and the natural curiosity of the customer causes him to read it.

Another Silk Print Season.

Indications point to the Spring as another season in which printed silks will be accorded strong favor. Leading silk printers say they have large and diversified orders on their books that will keep them busy for some months to come. Prominent in the designs that are being ordered, it is said, are those of Chinese motif. These are being mainly developed in medium size floral effects and, in some instances, in large bold designs for sports wear. Other floral effects varying from small bud patterns set close together to the large French bouquet designs also figure in the production under way. A large range of foulards in these patterns in monotone or multicolor is in process. A new trend in the sports prints is the attention being given these for bathing suits. Polka dots are not neglected and new applications of this motif are being made up. Lining borders in all-over designs are said to be receiving increased attention.

Want to Sell More High Shoes.

One of the problems that is now perplexing manufacturers of men's footwear is how to increase the sale of high shoes for Fall wear. With the coming of wool hose into more general use in the last few seasons, there has been a tendency on the part of many men to wear low shoes all the year through. The effect of this has been to cut down the number of pairs sold by the retailers. It was explained yesterday that the man who changed from low to high shoes in the Fall very frequently laid the former away with the intention of using them again the following Spring. When he came to look at them at that time, however, he found them to be a great deal more worn than he thought they were and bought a new pair. Wearing low shoes continuously, however, he wears them out more thoroughly. It was estimated that a reasonable change from low to high shoes means the sale of three pairs during a period in which only two pairs would be bought if the change were not made. Hence the desire to promote the sale of high shoes for cool weather use.

INDEX SHOWS UPTURN IN WHOLESALE PRICES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—For the first time since May, wholesale prices took a sharp upturn in September, according to the reports received from representative markets by the Department of Labor. The Government's index number, which includes 404 commodities, weighted in proportion to their relative importance, advanced from 150 in August to 154 in September, representing an increase of about 2¾ per cent. The index number for all commodities in September, 1922, was 153.

The sharpest increase in prices was shown in the group of cloths and clothing, due principally to advances in the price of raw silk, print cloths and cotton yarns. The index number rose from 193 to 202, and, according to the department's method of calculatinb, this represented an increase of 4¾ per cent.

Farm products came next in the advance, the index number rising to 144 as compared with 139 in August and 133 in September, 1922. The increase as compared with August is calculated at 3½ per cent..

The principal advances in farm product prices noted were in corn, oats, rye, wheat, hogs, cotton, eggs and hay. A similar increase of 3½ per cent. occurred in foods, because of the advance in fresh beef and pork, butter, cheese, eggs, flour, lard, cornmeal and sugar. The index number for the food group rose to 147 in September, as compared with 142 in August and 138 in September, 1922.

Smaller increases were recorded in September among chemicals and drugs and among commodities classified as miscellaneous, including such important items as leather, wood pulp, manila hemp, jute rope and lubricating oil.

Declines were registered in September in building materials, the net decrease being about 2 per cent. The drop in prices affected Douglas fir, oak and yellow pine and sand and paint materials. Index numbers for August and September, 1923, in which the prices in 1913 equal 100, follow:

Group	Aug.	Sept.
Farm products	139	144
Foods	142	147
Cloths and clothing	193	202
Fuel and lighting	178	176
Metals and metal products	143	144
Building materials	186	182
Chemicals and drugs	127	128
House furnishing goods	183	183
Miscellaneous	120	121
All commodities	150	154

A comparison of prices in September with those of a year ago shows that the general level has advanced slightly more than one-half of one per cent. A decrease of nearly 29 per cent. in fuel and lighting during the twelve months was offset by increases in eleven other commodities, ranging from one per cent. in building materials to nearly 10¼ per cent. in cloths and clothing.

ARGUE INCOME TAX POINT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. — Income tax exemption on payments made to beneficiaries of estates devised in trust was urged today before Attorney General Daugherty by a large delegation of attorneys representing trust estates.

Heading the array of counsel were John W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain, and former Governor Miller of New York. The Treasury and Justice Departments also were represented. It was indicated that about $200,000,000 in revenues was involved in the question at issue.

Attorneys for the estates and beneficiaries argued that under the 1918 income tax law revision, the payments made in case of a will providing annual allotments to legatees from a trust estate were capital and not income and therefore exempt from taxation. The Treasury Department is seeking to collect taxes on such payments, although a recent case in Northern New York Federal District Court was decided against the Government and is now being appealed. Attorney General Daugherty has been requested to give an opinion to guide Treasury officials.

PREDICTS SPUR REMOVAL.

Removal of the Sixth Avenue "L" spur, between Fifty-third and Fifty-ninth Streets, will be made before the end of next year, Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, told the Fifth Avenue Association at its real estate luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Biltmore.

Mr. Miller said he believed the plan had been found which would solve both the traffic and transportation problems so far as was humanly possible. This plan has been worked out through the co-operation of many different organizations and agencies, he said.

Frederick H. Ecker, Vice-President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Charles G. Edwards, President of the Real Estate Board, also spoke.

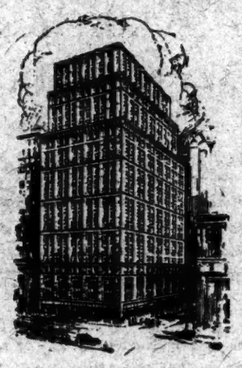
The new Westinghouse Building



150 Broadway
Corner Liberty St.
Occupancy May 1, 1924
Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., Builders
Builders are now ahead of schedule

In the heart of the financial district

There are more great financial institutions within a half-mile radius than in any similar area in New York. The N. Y. Clearing House and the Executive Offices of the Federal Reserve Bank are only about two blocks away. The Guaranty Trust Company Building is opposite, on the southeast corner. The N. Y. State Chamber of Commerce Building is just to the rear.

The building is equipped with every modern office appointment, and served with ten large, modern "Atlantic" elevators of the very finest type, furnished with Westinghouse apparatus. Windows of every office open on the street, or a large court, and structures on every side are settled, so that there can be no new erections to cut off light.

The Westinghouse Companies have leased the 12th to 23rd floors. The remaining space is available in whole floors, suites or offices, and all spaces are ideally proportioned for convenient subdivision.

More than a place to live; a garden apartment is a real home that in its spaciousness and fine planning and arrangement and countless refinements will win your enthusiasm the minute you step into the artistic foyer.

And these architecturally distinctive garden apartment buildings are set down in this finer residential section of New York City with all that means in assuring the right kind of neighbors and ready accessibility to Manhattan.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If I were dissatisfied with unpleasant work handling a hard proposition for an income small in proportion to my efforts, while others, working no harder with one of the oldest banking houses in the city selling gold bonds of the largest banking institution of its kind in the world, were making 2½ times as much—

And a man assured me that the same amount of work would build a permanent, personal business and make $100 commission as easily as I now make $40, and that this difference would be mine by merely making a change—

I think I would visit the 9th floor of 309 5th Av., and ask Tom Holmes more about it.

HELD AS MURDERER OF EMMA DICKSON

ARREST IS A SURPRISE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Ernesto Faccenda, 19 years old today was charged with murder in connection with the death of Emma Dickson, fifteen-year-old Millville ,N. J., high school girl, whose body was found in a clump of trees near her home at Bricksboro, N. J., Sept. 22.

The charge of murder was made by Frank J. Lore, a Cumberland, N. J., county detective. Faccenda was being detained merely as a material witness as a result of his allege! statement to a shipyard foreman that he saw the girl slain on Sept. 13, the day she disappearede.

Members of the local murder squad who have questioned Faccenda constantly since his arrest expressed surprise at the gravity of the charge, as they said they believed the young man was the victim of a distorted imagination.

Lore declared the warrant against Faccenda was obtained on the strength of a statement made to him by Frank Kalnewitz, the foreman of a shipyard where Faccenda was employed. Faccenda, according to Kalnewitz, told him of seeing the killing of the girl. Since his arrest ten days ago, the a ccused man repeatedly has denied he ever made such a statement or that he had any knowledge of the crime.

One slender clue, the police said, has, in some measure, substantiated Kalnewitz's account of what Faccenda is alleged to have told him. It was the finding of a gold bracelet near the scene of the slaying between Port Elizabeth and Millville.

Faccenda said his aunt, living in Ellisburg, N. J., had dropped theb racelet there. The aunt, however, was questioned and denied having lost the bracelet. She asserted she had never heard of the eevnts which Kalnewitz said Faccenda told him had occurred.

"As Faccenda will not tell us who committed the murder, but as he appears to have seen it, and knows a great deal about it, the only thing to do is to lodge a charge against him," said Lore.

Disappointed Artist Is a Suicide.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 17.—Mason H. Robinson, 32 years of age, who had ambitions to be an artist and cartoonist, committed suicide today by cutting his throat with a razor in Institute Park. The young artist was forced to seek employment in the wire mill to get money enough to live on. He left two notes to his wife, telling her of his discouragement and loathing for his work in the wire mill.
